Death On Sunday Of Mr. Frank Dalziel

The death occurred suddenly on Sunday, at his home 11 Upper Hillsboro Street, of Mr. Frank Dalziel, retired chief engineer of the car ferry "Prince Edward Island". He was in his 64th year. Mr. Dalziel, son of the late John A. and Mrs. Dalziel, was born in Charlottetown, but at an early age moved to Georgetown. As a young man he became interested in steamboating, and it was as a crew member of the engineering department he worked all his life. His first assignment was on the S.S. Enterprise which used to run between Pictou and Georgetown. During the First World War he was a crew member of both the S.S. Earl Grey and the S.S. Stanley which were sold and delivered to Russia.

When the Borden-Tormentine service was inaugurated one of the engineers on the crew of the S.S. Prince Edward Island was Frank Dalziel. By assiduously applying himself to duty he, before his retirement about three years ago, became chief engineer of that ship.

Mr. Dalziel was married to the former Miss Kathleen Smith of Georgetown, who survives him. They have three children: John, of the Department of Fisheries in Cartwright, Labrador; Elizabeth, married, in Quebec; and Frank, who is with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police in the North West Territories. Five brothers and two sisters also survive. They are: William of Toronto; John and Albert, City; Walter, station master at Murray Harbour; James Canadian Bank of Commerce, Halifax; Jessie (Mrs. Lloyd W. Shaw), and Catherine, R.N., of this city.

Death Yesterday Of Rev. Dr. Keir Fraser

A veteran minister of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, Rev. John Keir Fraser, D. D., received the call to higher service yesterday morning, passing away at his home, 275 Kent Street, Charlottetown. He was in his 90th year. Born in Alberta on August 30th, 1864, Dr. Fraser was the elder son of Rev. Allan Fraser, an early minister of the old Dock Church. His maternal grandfather was Rev. John Keir, D. D., one of the fathers of the Presbyterian Church in the Maritimes. For some years he spent the winter months in Charlottetown but about three years ago failing health compelled him to discontinue returning to his cottage and they made their permanent home in Charlottetown. The passing of Dr. Fraser severs a link with the past that will be keenly felt by many friends, particularly in Charlottetown, where all members of his family were held in the highest esteem.

Dr. Fraser received his early education in Alberta school and entered Dalhousie University from which he graduated with the degree of Bachelor of Arts. He pursued his theological studies at the Presbyterian College in Montreal, graduating in 1891 as gold medalist of his class.

On August 26th, 1891, Rev. John Keir Fraser was ordained at his home church in Charlottetown and inducted as minister of the congregation which had been served by his father. It is interesting to note that the first Sunday of his ministry marked another event in the history of the congregation for on that day the organ was first used for service on the Lord's Day. For some time it had been used for prayer meetings but the tuning fork still set the pitch for psalms and hymns on the Sabbath.

Following a seven-year pastorate in Charlottetown, Dr. Fraser took a post graduate course in theology at the Union Theological Seminary in New York from which institution he received the degree of Bachelor of Divinity.

At the close of his course at Union Seminary he spent some time travelling in Europe, visiting several of the German universities. For several years he supplied in several pulpits, including that of St. James in Charlottetown during the absence of the pastor as chaplain of the Canadian Regiment during the Boer War. In February 1903, he was called to Second Presbyterian Church in Charleston, South Carolina.

In 1908 the Degree of Doctor of Divinity (Honoris Causa) was conferred on him by the Presbyterian College of South Carolina.

From Charleston Dr. Fraser went to Knox Church in Galt, Ontario, where he served from 1915 to 1926, and then to Renfrew, Ontario, from 1926 to 1931.

Forty years after he had accepted a call from his father's church as his first congregation, Dr. Fraser returned to the Charlottetown Presbyterian Church for the last pastorate of his ministry, serving from 1931 to 1936. He continued to serve as pulpit supply in different congregations until 1945, preaching his last sermon in Zion Church, Charlottetown, when he was eighty-one years of age.

Dr. Fraser was the last surviving member of his family, of his class at Dalhousie, and of his class at Presbyterian College in Montreal. His wife, the former Miss Isabel Jane Clark of Charlottetown, to whom he was married in 1903, predeceased him six months ago.

Dr. and Mrs. Fraser spent the eventide of their lives at a cottage on the Mill River near Alberton, happy in the quiet beauty of nature and the companionship of lifelong friends. For some years they spent the winter months in Charlottetown but about three years ago failing health compelled them to discontinue returning to their cottage and they made their permanent home in Charlottetown.

The passing of Dr. Fraser severs a link with the past that will be keenly felt by many friends, particularly in Charlottetown, where all members of his family were held in the highest esteem.

Dr. and Mrs. Fraser spent the eventide of their lives at a cottage on the Mill River near Alberton, happy in the quiet beauty of nature and the companionship of lifelong friends. For some years they spent the winter months in Charlottetown but about three years ago failing health compelled them to discontinue returning to their cottage and they made their permanent home in Charlottetown.

The passing of Dr. Fraser severs a link with the past that will be keenly felt by many friends, particularly in Charlottetown, where all members of his family were held in the highest esteem.
