

Obscure Scottish Scholar Aids Work For Church Unity

By CARL MOLLINS
LONDON (CP)—An obscure Scottish scholar of 700 years ago is making a posthumous contribution to 20th century efforts at Christian unity.

John Duns Scotus, a medieval theologian who taught, wrote and lectured at Oxford, Cambridge, Paris and Cologne Universities, has been hailed by Pope Paul as a possible mediator in the current "dialogue" between Roman Catholics and other Christians, especially Anglicans.

Attention has been focussed on the works of Scotus by a congress of 200 scholars from around the world, including Canada, being held this week at Oxford and Edinburgh to mark the 700th anniversary of Scotus' birth.

Both Anglican and Roman Catholic leaders see the significance of the interest in Scotus being as much a sign of flexibility in Roman Catholic thinking as any shift in doctrine.

Rev. F. N. Sturt, chairman of the British Society for Promoting Catholic Unity, has described the interest as "a new line of thought and an indication that Rome is not leaning so heavily towards the thinking of St. Thomas Aquinas."

Dr. Michael Ramsey, Archbishop of Canterbury, explained in a recent interview that non-Catholics have found the Roman Catholic Church's almost exclusive adherence to Thomist thought in the past a stumbling-block to closer relations among Christians.

Thomist philosophy upholds the idea of harmony between faith and reason—for example, that the existence of God can be proved by logic.

Scholars once hotly disputed the finer points in the Scotus philosophy—so much that his middle name Duns is the origin of the word dunce. Men who endlessly disputed the philosophy became known to their critics as Dunsmen, then as dunces in the sense of being pedants.

However, it is generally held that Scotus made a greater distinction between the place of reason and faith in religion than did St. Thomas, arguing that logic cannot be employed to support all articles of Christian faith and dogma. Thus Scotus would be seen by some as being more acceptable in an age when science and faith at times seem incompatible.

The importance for non-Catholics was expressed by an Anglican authority: "The Pope is not proposing to throne St. Thomas and to set up Scotus as an alternative official spokesman of orthodoxy. His purpose seems instead to recognize the importance of freedom and diversity."

Grain Harvest Makes Progress

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian farmers are making good progress in harvesting the forecast record wheat crop of about 800,000,000 bushels, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics has reported.

Bulk of the huge crop has been combined in southern areas of the Prairies, although only a small proportion has been taken off in northern districts.

Most of the remaining acreage has been swathed in both Manitoba and Saskatchewan. Progress has been much slower in the northern half of Alberta because of excess rain.

The bureau, in the last of its telegraphic reports on crop conditions across Canada, said yield prospects have been well maintained throughout the Praries and grades have been good so far.

The grain harvest is well under way in the Maritimes and the potato crop there is doing well. In Quebec grain harvesting is 50 to 85 per cent completed and haymaking is over except for some second-cut hay.

The grain harvest is well under way in P.E.I. with good yields and quality reported. The potato crop is doing well and so far late blight is not a problem. Most of the grain has been harvested in Nova Scotia and despite dry weather, crops are reported good in New Brunswick. Potato digging has started in New Brunswick with good yields and quality reported.

Recent rains have benefited Ontario crops. Harvesting of the province's record winter wheat crop is completed and an increased acreage of winter wheat now is being planted in well-prepared seed beds.

Harvesting of late crops in full swing in British Columbia with summer fruits and vegetables completed.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By B. JAY BECKER

BIDDING QUIZ
You are South, both sides vulnerable. The bidding has been:

West North East South
3 ♠ 4 ♠ 3 ♠ 4 ♠
3 ♠ 4 ♠ 3 ♠ 4 ♠
3 ♠ 4 ♠ 3 ♠ 4 ♠
3 ♠ 4 ♠ 3 ♠ 4 ♠

What would you bid now with each of the following five hands?

- ♠ J9762 ♥ J63 ♦ 842 ♣ 95
- ♠ 92 ♥ 833 ♦ KQ3 ♣ J1084
- ♠ J38 ♥ KQ984 ♦ KJ78 ♣ 82
- ♠ KQ852 ♥ KJ73 ♦ Q8 ♣ 74
- ♠ KJ843 ♥ KQ32 ♦ A853 ♣ —

1. Three spades. This is of course an unpleasant bid to make, but you really have no choice since partner's double requests you to bid and you are not responsible for being dealt this sad collection of cards.

2. You would be wrong to pass. Your chance of beating three clubs is poor, and a pass is therefore out of the question. Partner's double is primarily for takeout, and the best thing to do is obey him by bidding your best suit.

3. Pass. Here you are permitted to pass because there is reason to think you can beat three clubs. You have two probable defensive tricks and it is not too much to expect partner to take at least three. The alternative bids of three hearts or three no-trump might produce a better result than three clubs doubled, but they are more likely to lead to a minus score. A pass looks best in the long run.

4. Four hearts. The double of a preemptive bid is nearly always based on a better-than-average opening bid, and it is therefore probably that 10 high-card points and a reasonable suit will produce a game. A sure heart response would be totally inadequate. We have values and we should express them.

5. Four clubs. Game is practically certain, but whether the proper trump suit is spades or hearts is at this point uncertain. The safest response is in cuebid clubs and force partner to choose the suit. The intention is to pass four hearts or four spades if that is what partner bids. If the response to four clubs is four diamonds, we intend to bid four spades.

6. Teuebld is used quite liberally these days to show a game-going hand. No longer does it guarantee the ace or a void in the adverse suit, as it did for many years. It is a kind of catch-all.

7. Four clubs. This time it is for real, that is, we actually have first-round control. Obviously, we will not settle for less than a small slam in the suit of partner's choice. Whichever suit North selects, we can afford to cuebid clubs again (to show actual first-round control) and then raise him to six. Such a sequence invites seven.

Russians Attend EAST BALTIC Labor Meeting

OTTAWA (CP)—Three Russians showed up here Wednesday and took their seats as observers at an International Labor Organization conference.

Their arrival occasioned some surprise. As late as Tuesday the Russian embassy here said it did not know whether observers were coming or not.

Russia has been an ILO member since 1954 but this is the first time it has attended a regional conference of the American states. All ILO members have the right to attend regional conferences of the organization as observers.

The Russian observers are Vladimir Smirnov, a foreign office official, Igor Krugly, a trade-union official, and Grigory Kolomiev, vice-director of the Soviet Latin American Institute of the Academy of Science.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Campbell and son David left on return to Wakefield, Mass., having spent their holidays with Mrs. Campbell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Gunn, Bothwell.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. John A. MacAuley on the occasion of their 55th anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. MacAuley formerly lived in Bayfield prior to taking up residence in the Senior Citizens residence in Souris.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brown departed recently on return to Newton, Mass., having spent the summer months at their residence in Kingsboro.

Mrs. Nelson Stewart, Red Point recently visited relatives in Quebec and Montreal.

John MacLean is convalescing at his home in Souris following treatment in the Souris Hospital. Floyd MacLean, Kingsboro is a patient in the P.E.I. Hospital. Alfred Rose, Lakeville is a patient in the Souris Hospital.
