Between 70 and 100 campaign workers are expected to attend the Souris meeting, which will be in the form of a pot-luck supper under the direction of Mrs. Melvin MacQuaid and Mrs. Edward Kasser. Mrs. Milton B. Fitzpatrick, area director for the fund, has taken a leading part in organizing the Souris committee.

Confederation Stamp Now Circulating

A new, black-and-white commemorative issue stamp has been stocked by all post offices here and elsewhere in Canada.

The five-cent stamp, based on suggestions by Ottawa designer Phillip Wells, depicts a completed Fathers of Confederation Memorial Centre with the Provincial Building to its side. It has been issued to honor the 100th anniversary of the Charlottetown conference held in Charlottetown 100 years ago when Canada's Fathers met for the first time in a series of meetings which ultimately led to the union of the Canadian and the Maritime.

The Post Office Weekly Bulletin announced also that a stamp will be printed for September release to commemorate the month-long follow up conference in Quebec City.

Canadian Bank Note Company Limited detailed and engraved the new stamp.

Army Worms Raid Crops

MONTREAL (CP) - Army worms, or legionnaires caterpillars as they're known in Quebec, are attacking farm crops in various regions of the province—right on schedule.

And the Quebec agriculture department has had news for farmers.

"It should be even worse next year," says Fernand Godbout of the department's research division.

Millions of the crawling insects have devastated whole grain fields in the fertile Eastern Townships. The Montreal region was attacked about two weeks ago and the caterpillars should begin showing up around the Trois-Rivières region in coming weeks, he says.

He said the attacks - he doesn't class them as a plague - come every 10 or 15 years. His department is preparing for a rash of craspedoppers next year.

The cyclical nature of the attack veteran who plays the title role in CBS' My Favorite Martian, spent last season emotionally torn between the joy of starring in a hit series and stowing because he was convinced it was type-cast, the actor's worst bugaboo.

"From almost the first show, I was certain that, if the series lasted five years, every director and producer in the business would think of me merely as that guy with two pieces of wire sticking out of his head," Walston said.

"This fear has been banished. Two years after production of the comedy-fantasy series for the season, Walston was called to replace Peter Sellers, felled by a heart attack, in Billy Wilder's film comedy, Miss Me, Stupid."

Walston said he had a small role in "The Apartment," and Wilder told me then that some day he'd have a good part for me. He remembered."

Walston's bleached blonde hair (mandatory for the Martian role) was painted dark, permitted to grow, and curled. He plays a wayward music teacher who wears a Beethoven sweat shirt.

CRASH INJURES 38

HOLMINDEN, West Germany (Reuters) - Thirty-eight passengers were injured, eight of them seriously, when a crowded railway passenger car crashed into a freight train Thursday near this town.

"We had an extremely mild winter, a warm spring and a very hot, dry summer—all very conducive to large numbers of caterpillars."

"One blessing in disguise is the caterpillars leave vegetables alone. They only go after wheat, oats and other grains."

But they do it by the millions. Agronomist Narcisse Dery said Millions of the insects had munched through whole fields of grain in the Compton region, about 80 miles southeast of here.

The provincial government has announced it will pay half the cost of efforts by municipalities to minimize the damage caused by the caterpillars.
