NOTES AND COMMENTS.

—Winnipeg advices state "that the writ for the filling of the vacancy for that constituency in the House of Commons will not be issued until the local authorities have completed the provincial voters' list. Thus, under Liberal statesmanship as illustrated in the franchise legislation, does the greater body wait on the lesser.

—It is remarked by The Gazette that "the financial press is beginning to discuss the Canadian method of national book-keeping, by which, while spending more than their revenue, and yearly adding to the public debt, governments will claim to have surpluses. The result of such criticism is not favorable to the method. It could not be. The system is beguiling, not businesslike."

—Montreal Gazette: The St. John Globe asks "Of what use is the Senate of Canada?" pointing out that though Parliament was called seven weeks ago, the Senate has been adjourned most of the time. The point raised is not novel; neither is it discreditable to the Senate. Being a business body the Senate does not waste weeks talking. When it has no work it shuts its doors, as well as the mouths of its members, and waits for the House of Commons to catch up with its work. The length of the Senate's adjournment is, in a way, measure of the waste of the Commonwealth's wind.

—Lieut.-General von Alten, of the German general staff, read lately a paper on "England" before the Militarische Gesellschaft, at Berlin. The lecturer was highly eulogistic. He stated the greatness of England was not due so much to her wealth as to the untiring energy, daring, and ability of her sons. He naturally claimed the English as a branch of the great German family. Referring to recent history, he said that the Soudan campaign and the Fashoda incident, among other events, left no doubt as to the objects of British policy, nor as to the power and the consciousness of power of the nation.

—Closely following Captain Coghlan's unnecessary bluntness, comes the publication of how a British naval captain conducted himself in Manila Bay. Sir Edward Chester was in command of the Immortalite while Admiral Dewey was being "nagged," to use Captain Coghlan's word. According to Major Younghouse, in his book "The Philippines and Round About," when the question of the bombardment of Manila was pending, the German Admiral visited Sir Edward and asked what action he proposed taking in the event of the Americans bombarding the town. "That, sir, is known only to Admiral Dewey and myself," was the polite and crushing reply. For firmness, combined with discretion, that would be hard to beat.

—The three-year-and-a-half-old son of Mr. John Dillon, M. P., startled the British House of Commons the other evening by exclaiming, in shrill, childish treble, "Oh, there is Mr. Sullivan." His mother had taken him with her to the Ladies' Gallery. The boy was sitting on his nurse's lap, taking a deep interest in the doings of the members, when suddenly he caught sight of the member for West Meath, whom he knew, and, thrusting his little hand through the "grille," he gave vent to the expression, which set the House in roars. The little chap followed suit in a different key when the courtly attendant immediately afterwards requested the nurse to remove him. "I want to make a speech, too," he cried, as they gently took him away. Mayhap his time will come.

—The Montreal Gazette comments upon the demonstration made in the House of Commons on the introduction of Mr. Comstock. It says: "The Comstock incident on Wednesday is another evidence of how the morals of the House of Commons is being lowered under the present regime. Next to introducing into the chamber a body of exorcionists to applaud from the galleries some member whom the political majority takes delight in, will be the bringing in of outsiders to hoot some members whom the majority may have a dislike to. What makes the matter worse is that the affair was pre-arranged and publically advertised. It is impossible to think of such a proceeding with a man like John A. Macdonald or John Thompson leading the house, or with a man like Peter White in the speaker's chair.

—Justin McCarthy, in his Reminiscences, published by Harper & Brothers, gives an amusing account of a speech which the victor of Waterloo delivered in the House of Lords. The duke had given his opinion on a certain measure under consideration, and another peer was criticizing his remarks. In the course of his criticism the peer ventured on the observation that he read "the illustrious duke" had not quite understood the measure now before the house. This drew the illustrious duke, and, springing to his feet to reply, struck the table with an indignant gesture. "My Lords," he said, "the noble and learned lord has said that I don't understand this bill. Well, my lords, all I can say is that I read the bill once, that I read it twice, that I read it three times, and if after that I don't understand the bill, why, then, my lords, all I have to say is that I must be a damned stupid fellow." Then the Iron Duke resumed his seat, and "that," says Mr. McCarthy, "was the only speech I ever heard him deliver."

An Old Resident Gone.

On the morning of May 11th, there passed into his rest one of the oldest residents of Marshfield. Donald Stewart had from his childhood been identified with the life of the St. Peter's Road. Born on Apple Tree Farm, he had in early life married Miss Vickerson and settled in the adjoining community. A man of remarkable strength of constitution, he had never known sickness until this past winter, and was only confined to his bed for a few days preceding his death. He was ever the most kindly, hospitable, and obliging of friends, and in him the Baptist Church of Marshfield loses one of its most faithful adherents and attendants. Beside the sorrowing community he leaves a loving wife, four daughters and seven sons to mourn their loss. The company which gathered for the funeral on Saturday afternoon was very large. The service was conducted by Rev. G. W. Jackson, assisted by Revs. J. C. Spurr, G. P. Raymond and Rev. Mr. Layton. The deceased was in his 80th year.

The Knickerbocker Question.

LONDON May 15.—A Canadian lady, in a letter to the Evening News, has some fun with, and incidentally administers a rebuke to, Lord Salisbury for his speech at Burlington house recently, when he suggested that the lower circle of Dante's Inferno should be inhabited by female cyclists who clothed themselves in bifurcated skirts or knickerbockers. Was the illustrious marquise a lady, says the fair Canadian, and had he ever experienced the inconvenience of careering across the face of nature in a long, flapping skirt, he would not be so cocksure of the propriety of knickerbockers, and the noble lord must not think that the world will put up its shutters and go out of business just because he happens to think that some things in it are not what they ought to be. English gentlemen, she says, must be uncom'rtably modest if they agree with Lord Salisbury in his statement.

Greenway's Failure.

OTTAWA, May 15.—Premier Greenway, of Manitoba, does not appear to have had much success, so far, in his mission to the Federal capital. He has been urging the Government to fall in with provincial designs on the school lands. It is said Mr. Sifton upholds the scheme, but Quebec politicians have set their faces against any alienation of the domain, because they fear it would only serve to increase the Manitoba minority's distrust of the present arrangement whereby the school question is maintained in a quiescent state.

A Canadian Centenarian.

VANKLEEK HILL, Ont., May 15.—Samuel Simpson of the township of West Hawkesbury, is dead. He was between 105 and 110 years of age.

HONEST WORK IS WELL-EARNED HAPPINESS.

But Overwork Takes all the Joy Out of Life.
If the Stomach is Overworked it also becomes Unhappy. It sends Grumbling Telegrams by the Nerves all over the Body. These if translated would read,
"Send a Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablet with each meal."

No honest right-thinking man objects to work. There is a joy in working and in the result of work that amply repays a man for the troubles and pains he puts into it.

But overwork is a different thing. Overwork kills. It takes away all chance for proper rest and recreation, and rest is necessary for the proper performances of work.

All this is recognized and understood in the case of a man as a man. But does that part of the man that keeps him alive

—the stomach—get a fair share of the rest. The stomach works on when he is sleeping. The stomach works when his mind is playing.

When we consider how much unnecessary work we give it besides, in the shape of unwholesome and harmful kinds of food, is it any wonder it suffers?

Dyspepsia is caused by an overworked stomach. The juices that digest the food run dry. There is either too great a bulk to digest or the materials of which the food is composed are too difficult of digestion.

Thus both the wealthy man who has on the table everything money can buy and the poor day laborer who has to subsist on cheap unwholesome food, are alike victims of Dyspepsia.

Dodd's Dy pepsia Tablets take charge of the work of digestion and give the stomach a much needed rest. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cure Indigestion, Sour Stomach, Catarrh of the Stomach, Bilious Headaches, and all other stomach complaints.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale at all druggists at 50 cents a box, or will be sent on receipt of price, by the Dodd's Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto.

Cough Cured in a Night

If you have a cough or cold don't experiment with Cough Mixtures until the Cold is deep seated. Griffith's Menthol Lini- ment has proved the most successful Cough Cure. Used internally and applied to the throat and chest, it goes direct to the spot, and will cure severe colds in a single night. All druggists, 25 cents.

At Boston, on May 12th, Louis E., son of Wm. H. Rodd, of North Wiltshire, aged 19 years.

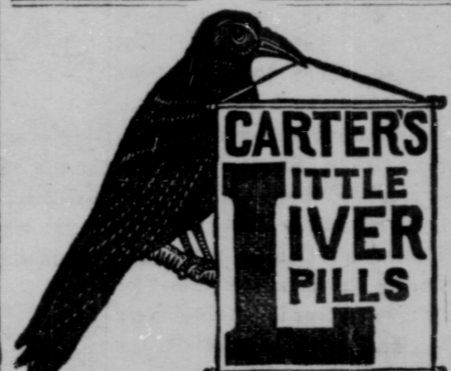

NEWS NOTES

Sir Samuel Lewis, mayor of Freetown, Africa, is a colored man. At the opening of the Sierra Leone railway, recently, he attempted to enter a car reserved for whites, and was forcibly ejected. The man who put him out was brought before the court and fined for the offence. In the southern United States the black knight would have had no redress, and his assailant would have been applauded for the act.

G. H. TAYLORS SUNNYSIDE

"The Nearest Thing to an Idea is a Question"

How much do you pay, in a year, for your clothes? Divide it by three, and you'll find that one-third pays for all your hats and shoes.

You buy at least two suits and an overcoat yearly. You probably purchase three hats and three pairs of shoes in the same time.

Your tailor receives about ten times as much as your hatter, and seven times as much as your shoemaker. Yet both your hat and shoes are ready-made, and better than they could be at almost twice the price, if produced singly—to order. Why should not your suit or overcoat be ready-made, and as well made at half to two-thirds the price as your hat or shoe?

Less than ten years ago there was not a hat factory in Canada, and the shoe factories were producing only brogans and clumsy sewed or pegged shoes.

But they have long since improved the "custom" shoemaker and hatter out of existence. Clothing alone stood still at the "brogan" standard. It was different in the United States, where ready-made clothing kept pace with the ready made hat and shoe. It is different here since the advent of Fit-Reform and the quicker you find out that difference the sooner will you get your shoes and hats every year for nothing. You can do this by saving one-third the price of the tailored suit, in buying the self-same garments "ready-made" here. And you will find just as good people here buying our kind of ready-made clothes as you ever saw in the highest priced tailor shop.

Your money back if dissatisfied.
