Norma Shearer In "Smilin' Through" At Prince Edward

That a thing of beauty is a joy forever on the screen is reaffirmed at the Prince Edward Theatre, where the return engagement of Norma Shearer's dramatic triumph, "Smilin Through," is being played in response to an overwhelming demand upon the part of the public.

This beautiful story, which has stirred the hearts of countless theatregoers since Jane Cowl first presented it on the New York stage, takes on a new glow under the witchery of Norma Shearer's acting. The delight of audiences in viewing this picture again proves it to be one of the few photoplays able to stand the test of time.

Not even in her recent brilliant "Barretts of Wimpole Street" has Miss Shearer surpassed the stirring work she offers in her dual portrayals of the two girls. In making a departure from the sophistry of her usual modern roles she is a buoyant, radiant and refreshing spirit. Frederic March, both as the jilted lover and the youth who returns later to win her, is suave and convincing. Leslie Howard has a powerful role as the man who lives with his bitter memories from youth to old age, and invests his role with the charm for which he is distinguished. It is a remakable tribute to the stars and to Director Sidney Franklin to be able to report that "Smilin' Through" on its second showing is every inch as stirring and effective as when the picture was first released to the public. If you have already seen it, you will want to see it again; if you missed it the first time, you have a rare treat in store!

"Moonlight Murder" At Capitol

"Moonlight Murder," the screen's first operatic detective story, with Chester Morris and Madge Evans heading an elaborate cast, is the spectacular and fantastic attraction now showing at the Capitol Theatre.

Dealing with the murder of a tenor during an operatic performance at the famous Hollywood Bowl before an audience of 20,000, its mysteries and thrills are played against a background of a huge production of "Il Trovatore" with hundreds in the cast.

Edwin L. Martin, noted mystery director, directed the new picture, with a cast that includes Leo Carrillo as the comical and whimsical tenor, Frank McHugh, Benita Hume, Grant Mitchell, Katharine Alexander, J. Carol Naish, H. B. Warner, Duncan Renaldo, Leonard Ceeley, Robert McWade, Pedro de Cordoba and Charles Trowbridge.

Dramatic highlights include the murder of the tenor before the shocked audience, the chase after the strange lunatic, the episode of the mysterious Swami, the odd episode of the voodoo charm, and the murder in the dark chamber.

Spectacular musical numbers include the "Miserere," staged as a lavish processional and other gems from the Verdi opera such as the "Anvil Chorus," presented in absolute operatic style.
