Among the older people of Coleman who have been very ill with a severe attack of influenza are Mr. and Mrs. William Lockhart. Mr. Lockhart is improving but Mrs. Lockhart is still quite sick and her many friends wish her a speedy convalescence.

Coleman's grand old lady, Mrs. Hannah Rogerson who is ninety-nine years of age has also been ill with the flu and confined to her bed. Her legion of friends wish this dear old lady known to all as "Aunt Hannah" a speedy improvement in health.

Edward Lockhart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Lockhart of Coleman has been visiting his parents over the week end and leaves by plane on Tuesday morning for Regina Sask. thence to Fort Lewis, Wash., where he expects to be sent overseas with his unit to Korea. Edward is a fine type of young man of whom Coleman and vicinity can be rightly proud. During his short leave he received the good wishes of his neighbours, friends and associates that his Guardian Angel will watch over him as he serves his King and Country.

O'Leary and vicinity have two other young men serving at Fort Lewis, Wash., who will likely be going overseas also, Ray Phillips of Mount Royal and Emerson Rogerson of Unionville. Their multitude of friends hope that they will be spared to return to their family circles and their friends when hostilities are finally ended and may God hasten that day when the angel's song at Christmastide: "Peace on earth, good will to men" will become a reality.

S'side High School Observes Education Week

Education Week is being observed at the Summerside High School with a display of class projects in the auditorium. The building will be open every afternoon and evening this week for the general public to visit and inspect the displays.

Most of them are very ingenious and are the products of the various classes working co-operatively, with the assistance of the teacher. The manual training class has a display of individual articles and also are showing something of unusual interest, a one-car garage built to one-quarter its proper size. There are actually three garages, one completed, and the other two at different states of construction. These were made by groups and even the shingles were made in the shop.

One class went to the trouble of laying out the town of Summerside to scale showing the blocks and streets and another has built a plastic clay replica of the school, set in the school grounds. An interesting exhibit is of a medieval castle built of paper, surrounded by a moat and the ground covered with snow.

There is a table-top map of Canada showing the location of military naval and air stations, each marked with the proper service flag. A project of one of the senior grades is a "petroleum tree" drawn on a white background. The trunk represents crude oil and the main branches represent such petroleum products as alcohols, naphtha, asphalt, lubricating oil, waxes etc.

The smaller branches growing out of the main branches are the hundreds of by-products of oil.

On one wall are three charts showing Latin and Greek sources of English words and one of them has the heading: "English is half Latin." Presumably the purpose of this display is to show the importance of Latin and Greek in education.

Quite a few people have visited the display to date and large numbers are expected to be present this afternoon. Many complimentary remarks are being passed on the excellence of the work.-S.

Plan To Rule On Richard's Fate Friday

MONTREAL, March 6 - (CP) - Montreal hockey fans will have to wait until Friday before learning the fate of Maurice Richard for his alleged attack on referee Hughie McLean in a New York hotel lobby last Sunday.

President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League has indicated no inquiry into Richard's case will be held before Friday when all principals in the affair will be summoned before him and referee-in-chief Carl Voss.

Richard faces a possible $500 fine and suspension from organized hockey. Such a fine would be the heaviest ever imposed on a major league player. However, Campbell has made it clear that no decision will be made until a full-scale investigation has been made.

"Best-looking prospect I ever saw in our camp," said manager Marty Marion.

"Can't miss," added scout Buddy Lewis, who signed him the day he graduated from high school in 1949.

"I'm aiming to make it," said Mizell, still property of the Cards' Houston farm.

Sounds interesting, so you collar the 20-year-old flinger after he struck out four Cards in a row. He's a 200-pounder, about six foot three.

He went to school at Leasksville, Miss., but "gets mah mah" at Vinegar Bend, Ala.

"I guess 100 people live there now," he said. "Bunch of us boys got up a team to play Sundays when we wasn't turpentineing."

"We read about those trout camps, so four of us boys went down to Biloxi. They had me throw to three men one day, but I was still in school, so nothing happened."

"Next spring, Mr. Lewis came by our house. I was in the swimmin' hole, but got out and threw for him barefooted. That same night I graduated and he signed me up for $500."

Mizell was sent to Albany, Ga., where he hung up a 12-3 record after a little "smoothenin'." He struck out 175 in 141 innings.

Last year, his first complete season in pro ball, "Vinegar Bend" had a 17-7 record with Winston Salem in the class B Carolina League. He struck out 227 in 207 innings.
