Cyclists in the Streets of Cairo.

A correspondent of one of the English cycling papers, writing from Egypt, says of the increased use of the bicycle in the land of the Pharaohs: "Machines are ridden in all directions. They are also seen dotted about everywhere, and piles of them may be continually observed stacked at the entrances to the principal hotels. There are about 2,000 English troops, and, as it is the fashion for bicycles to go wherever the military sojourn, Britons have made it particularly lively for the dusky denizens on the banks of old Father Nile. There are many good riders, some indifferent ones and a few atrociously bad, these latter mostly consisting of natives, who look decidedly uncomfortable astride a pair of wheels. At the citadel barracks the sergeants have 13 machines, and at the large barracks close to the Nile bridge any number of them can be found. At the Gezira palace, the magnificent grounds of which are a dream to Europeans, ladies and gentlemen may be seen cycling at almost all hours of the day and night. The streets of Cairo are described as being decidedly lumpy, and, with the exception of the way out to the pyramids, roads as we understand the term are practically nonexistent. Outside the city it is all sand, and a six inch tire would be a boon to ride over the desert upon. A large riding school on nearly an acre of ground has been opened and is doing a thriving business."

In a London Hotel.

The American visitor to London who stops at a certain hotel in that city finds many novelties and conveniences that are not known here in America, where hotels are supposed to have reached the acme of luxury. It has an American plan dining room, but only a French bill of fare. It has an Indian room, where an Indian chef, in the costume of his country, prepares native dishes for those who desire them.

In this hotel each guest is known by the number of his room instead of his name, and it is rather odd to an American to be addressed as "Mr. 960," as though he were a convict in the penitentiary.

On each floor day and night are to be found a maid, a valet and a waiter, who are at your service and have free access to your rooms. When you come home at night, if you are a man, you find your clothes pressed and cleaned and carefully packed away in a chest of drawers. If you are a woman, the maid attends to frills and furbelows as though she were hired by you especially. Guests never bother with their keys. The maid or valet on the floor takes charge of the key and is ready at any time to open your door.—Chicago News.

Crude Rubber.

This remarkable substance is obtained from the milky juice of certain trees and different varieties of climbers. South America is the principal source of supply, Brazil, of the many states producing it, leading in quantity and quality and having in its great forests sufficient to meet twice the wants of the world. The best is Para—fine, medium and seranby—from the great basin of the Amazon, where more than 80,000 seringueiros (gatherers) are engaged in the dry season in collecting gum. White Para, "virgin sheets," a new variety in three grades, comes from Matto Grosso. Since its importance first began to be felt this gum has exerted an increasing influence upon the spread of civilization, especially along the Amazon and Orinoco and their tributaries and the great streams which pour out from the interior of the dark continent. Para, formerly an insignificant village, has grown to be a city of 100,000 inhabitants, with modern features, and Manaus, up the river, is fast following it. India rubber is the mainstay of the northern Brazilian states, Bolivia and eastern Peru.—Clarke Dooley in Popular Science Monthly.

RENEWED HEALTH.

EASILY OBTAINED BY THE USE OF DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

Grateful Letters from all Parts of the Dominion Testify to their Wonderful Power—as a Spring Medicine they Surpass all Others.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done more to alleviate suffering than any other medicine yet discovered. They have effected cures in hundreds of cases pronounced incurable by physicians, and they have brought rejoicing into the homes of thousands throughout the Dominion. Among those who speak of this wonderful medicine in terms of gratitude is Mr. Lemuel McCready, of Shannan, N. B. He says:—"A year ago I was taken with a pain in my hip which gradually worked down to the knee where it settled. At first I thought it was an attack of rheumatism and treated it with the medicine ordinarily used for that trouble, but with no benefit. The knee began to swell and the pain became excruciating. I wasted away to a mere shadow, and was no better than a cripple. I then consulted a physician, but still got no relief. Then I went to an hospital at St. John. The physician who examined me there said my trouble was consumption of the blood, and that it might be necessary to amputate my leg. Thoroughly discouraged, I returned home. Then my mother urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After using two or three boxes I found the pain greatly diminishing, and by the time I had taken seven boxes, the limb had regained its normal condition, the pain had all disappeared, I had gained greatly in flesh and was as well as ever I had been in my life. I feel very grateful for I believe Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved me from a life of helplessness.

It is such wonderful cures as Mr. McCready's that has given Dr. Williams' Pink Pills their great reputation and made them the favorite medicine in thousands of families throughout the land. They are especially intended for purifying the blood and strengthening the nerves, and at this season of the year, when most people are feeling languid as the result of close confinement during the winter months a couple of boxes of Pink Pills will give renewed life and energy. Do not be persuaded to take any of the numerous pink colored imitations, which some dealers, whose own profit is their own profit, try to impose upon the public. If your dealer will not give you the genuine Dr. Williams' Pink Pills they will be sent post-paid at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. Brockville, Ont. As a spring medicine a half dozen boxes will serve a whole family.

England sent 350,000,000 messages by telephone last year, 37,000,000 more than the year before.

Professional strong men have equals in various respects in private life. It is asserted that Alonzo Lowe of Greenfield, Ind., that he has lifted one of his horses clear of the ground and that he can shoulder alone and carry a barrel of sugar.

E. Trickett, the once famous oarsman, is now an active member of the Salvation Army, and may be seen any day at Kingsbridge in Sydney attired in a red jersey scolding the War Cry. Trickett held the championship of the world in 1876-7.

Lord Salisbury is to be elevated to a dukedom when her majesty celebrates the completion of the record year of her reign. If this occurs, he will become Duke of Salisbury. It is not improbable that on the same occasion an earldom will be conferred on the eldest son of Mr. Gladstone.

Andrew Bair of Warfieldsburg, Md., is a vigorous and active man of 83. He has never eaten a pound of meat in all his life, his diet being strictly vegetable. He has never experienced a day's sickness. He is regular in his habits, and attends to his farmwork. He attributes his good health to his vegetable diet.

Mr. Ernest T. Hooley of the Derbyshire district in England, recently came into the possession of a vast fortune. He at once determined to set aside £15,000 a year to be expended in charity. To towns in his district of 10,000 inhabitants he allots £1,000 a year; to a village of 3,000 inhabitants £300 a year, and so on in proportion.

SWEETS.

Painted candies are generally unhealthy and may be poisonous.
Before the discovery of sugar, drinks were sweetened with honey.

Nearehus, the admiral of Alexander the Great, noted the growth of the sugar cane in India B. C. 325.

The cultivation of sugar began in Spain in the tenth century, being introduced from Africa by the Moors.

In A. D. 100 Dioscorides mentions a substance which he calls saccharon as a great dainty among the people of the east.

The sugar found in walnuts, hazelnuts and almonds is of exactly the same kind as that which exists in the juice of the sugar cane.

Before 1850 Russia, Belgium and Holland produced no beet sugar. Now these countries are important factors in the sugar markets of the world.

The candy makers say that the most profitable part of their trade is in fancy candies, put up in ornamental boxes, the box frequently cutting more figure in the purchase than the goods.

In the second century Galen used sugar as a medicine, and at intervals it is mentioned by medical writers as an important article of the pharmacopoeia, down to the time of Avicenna, who, with other physicians in the ninth and tenth centuries, employed it as a medical remedy.
