BENEFITS OF COLD STORAGE.

A circular was recently issued from the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa dealing with the need there was for ventilated chambers on steamers for the carriage of apples. The circular is a very important one in connection with the shipment of fruit, and it is hoped that the required accommodation will be provided. In this connection it is pointed out that a lot of two hundred and sixty-seven barrels of apples was carried lately in cold storage to Glasgow which averaged eighteen shillings per barrel. At the same time a lot of three hundred and twenty-five barrels of apples was shipped to Liverpool without cold storage and realized only eight shillings per barrel. Both lots of apples were from the same stock. Of the three hundred and twenty-five barrels of apples shipped in the old way, that is without cold storage, one hundred and twenty-four barrels were reported as "wet" and "slightly wet," and eighty-one barrels were reported as "slack." Thus, out of the total shipment of three hundred and twenty-five barrels shipped without cold storage, two hundred and five barrels were reported as arriving in a damaged condition. This fact teaches an important lesson. It shows the great advantages of cold storage, in respect to the one article of apples. But what is true of apples applies as well to other perishable products shipped to the old country. In Charlottetown last year there was a good deal of talk about cold storage and a direct steamer to the old country. The Minister of Agriculture spoke of the importance of these things at a meeting in the Opera House, and the matter was discussed at considerable length in the Provincial Legislature. But the whole affair seems to have ended in talk.

THE BANKING SYSTEM OF CANADA.

The excellence of the banking system of Canada has on many occasions been referred to by bankers of the United States, and its praises have been sounded far and wide. The latest tribute to its worth that has come under our notice was made by Mr. William C. Cornwell, President of the City Bank of Buffalo, N. Y., when speaking at the annual dinner of the Canadian Bankers Association at Niagara Falls, in reply to the toast, "the Banking and Commercial Interests of Canada." Mr. Cornwell first referred to the fact that he had given much earnest study to the Canadian system of banking and had reported upon the same to his conferees of the American Bankers Association at their meeting in New Orleans in 1891. "That my words received so much attention in the press and from the banking and commercial interests of our country," said Mr. Cornwell, "was due, not so much to the manner of the setting forth, as to the fact that it was perhaps the first serious, and, to some extent, complete report which had been presented to the American public of the satisfactory working and great merit of the Canadian banking system." Continuing Mr. Cornwell said:

"The opening interest among our thinking people on the subject at that time has steadily continued, and the Baltimore plan was an outcome of that interest. And the Baltimore plan started the movement for currency reform, a movement which has steadily gained ground, and is to-day the most prominent question before the people of the United States.

"You of Canada have no reason to consider that question. You took it up twenty and thirty years ago and by the perfecting of your banking system in the acts of 1876-1880 and 1890 you settled it for Canada, and other countries of the world have felt the wave of depression which began to rise in 1890, but you have had no destructive panic like ours of 1893. This is due surely to the fact that you are upon an unmistakable gold basis. While you have suffered from depressed conditions of business and low prices, vanishing profit, agricultural distress, we have felt all these and in addition the destructive effect of doubt as to our currency.

"In other words you have had no collapse like ours of 1893. You have no flat money party, no silver craze, no fatuous yearning for international bi-metalism, and the reason that Canada is enjoying entire freedom from these diseases is due to the fact that currency all over British North America can be increased to any extent that the legitimate demands of business may require, while in the United States our only relief is the issue of national bank notes, which is such a slow process that the pressing demand for currency is always met before it can be got into the hands of the persons needing it and in far and thinly settled countries currency never goes at all. If the people in our western and southern states could obtain money as reasonably and as expeditiously as the people of your Northwest Territories, we would hear no more of 16 to 1.

"Today you are sharing with us in the advance of prosperity, and in that you are on a solid gold basis, and in that you are equipped with an adequate currency secure and elastic, you are much better prepared relatively than we would be benefited permanently by the resumption of good times.

"I cannot conceive why, because a thing is British, if it is good, we should not adopt it. The prejudice against the Mother Country does not exist in America among the thinking business men. It is voiced by the yellow journal and the demagogue, but it is not the creed of the American citizen. In his heart he is proud of the Mother Country; he honors your noble Queen; he rejoices in her sixty years of glorious sovereignty—he looks upon the world's advance in civilization, in humanity, in Christianity, which began with the dawn of 1830, and he knows that the advance was led by the woman who wears England's crown and he is glad on every occasion to do her homage and to honor her as a glorious representative of the highest womanhood with which God has blessed the earth.

"We are North Americans, all of us—brothers and friends, not across the sea, but hand to hand, on the border, ready to share and rejoice in the sunlight of the prosperity surely beginning to dawn for all of us in this great and rich and glorious continent of North America, which we own together."

NOTES AND COMMENTS

—What a happy family the Grits are to be sure. The Club National, a French liberal organization at Ottawa, had a stormy meeting a few nights ago, owing to dissatisfaction with the grit machine. It is said that the dissidents will form a new organization.

—It is pleasing to hear that the relief fund for the sufferers by the forest fires in Russell and Pre-cot counties, Ontario, is mounting up, and that merchants and private citizens have contributed large quantities of goods and clothing. Sympathetic messages of enquiry have been received from the Governor-General and prominent personages in different parts of the country.

—Le Courrier du Canada charges Sir Wilfrid Laurier with having sacrificed Canadian commerce in England without receiving any compensation. "Why should Mr. Laurier thus sacrifice our trade?" it asks. "Why did he reject the offers made him by Mr. Chamberlain? The periods of brass bands and banquets must be ended by this time. Let Mr. Laurier render an account of his great mistake, of his treason, of his incompetency, in a word, of his criminal folly when he lost the only chance we had of obtaining preferential trade."

—Mail and Empire: Mr. Benjamin Davies is a naturalized American citizen who, until last May, was in business in one of the Western States. During that month he was appointed Dominion emigration agent, and established himself comfortably at 154 East 3rd street, St. Paul, Minn., employing three assistants. He has since been making a gentle effort to induce Americans to emigrate to the Canadian Northwest. The important circumstance in connection with the appointment is that Mr. Davies is a brother of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries. A brother-in-law was made a lighthouse keeper several months earlier. As a nepotist Sir Louis is likely to be enrolled among the champions.

REV. MR. GALE'S MEETINGS.

"For whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."

Yesterday at 3.30 p. m. Evangelist Gale spoke from this text to the men of this city. Perhaps few men have ever spoken on this vital subject with more consideration and tact. Nothing that the weakest man could take offence at was presented; but in clear cut and convincing words he prepared the hearts of all to receive his arguments. No one could hear his words and not feel that wrong would come if they should not act under them. 850 tickets were received at the door, and others were admitted who had none. In the evening he preached acceptably to a large audience, in the place of Rev. Mr. Campbell. He spoke feelingly of his sainted mother, long since gone to glory, and thanked God that he could claim through Jesus Christ the spotless white robe of righteousness that his mother was now wearing in Heaven. He enlarged on the two classes of men—the moralist and the spiritual man. Contrasting the two he said this pertinent truth: "Morality makes you right with man. Spirituality makes you right with God." The most dangerous man, to his thinking, was not the drunkard, tamer or murderer, but the moral man who had no regenerate heart. He urged upon his hearers to beware of looking over sin with the mantle of a morality, while in the heart was rottenness as far as the changed heart was concerned.

Tonight at 7.30 Mr. Gale will hold his meeting in the First Methodist Church. A cordial invitation to all to come and hear the word spoken as few can speak it.

IN A DANGEROUS PLACE

Disagreeable Experience of Five Young Ladies of Mount Allison.

The Sackville Post says: The other day five young ladies from Mt. Allison started out on their wheels. The day was quite fine, the wind favorable and in a short time they found themselves in Pointe de Bute, having made the journey via A. Mac. Everything had gone so smoothly that it was suggested that they wheel home by the upper road. This was readily agreed to by all the members of the party and they at once started out. After they had ridden a few miles, the idea began to dawn upon them that they had made a mistake in selecting this road home, it being very wet and decidedly bad for wheeling. But greatly to the ladies' surprise the water became deeper as they proceeded, and like a flash the idea occurred to them that the tide was coming in. In the middle of a great marsh, at least two or three miles from any house and with the water becoming deeper every minute—it was a position to cause alarm. But just when the last vestige of hope was dying out, a farmer with a big wagon came in sight. It is probably needless to add that the face of that horny-handed son of toil was the most welcome one these young ladies had met that day. The old farmer got the young ladies into the wagon and in some manner succeeded in landing them and their wheels on terra firma once more.
