Urea Discussion Awaited By Island Beef Producers

By NEIL A. MATHESON
One of the most interesting developments in the feeding of beef cattle will be discussed here Wednesday afternoon and evening when a province-wide "Beef Producers' Rally" is held at the Basilica Recreation Centre. The afternoon session gets underway at 2:00 o'clock, the discussion will break off for a steak dinner three hours later, and then resume until early in the night. The aim is to let the farmers go home in time to do up their evening chores, even though they will be a few hours late in starting them.

Two guest speakers are coming from Ontario and both should prove interesting and informative. Leo McIsaac, the energetic president of the Island beef producers, was able to talk both men into coming here when he was in Toronto several weeks ago as a delegate to the annual meeting of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture. George Morris is the president of the Ontario Beef Improvement Association. Dr. D.W.G. MacAskill is a nutritionist with Cynamid of Canada.

NEW PRODUCT
The most interesting part of the discussion will likely centre around "Urea" the new synthetic product that is being used by beef cattle men as a cheap and effective protein source. Dr. MacAskill has done a great deal of research on this new livestock food product. Mr. McIsaac tells me that the Doctor is recognized as a knowledgeable man on this product in the United States and in Canada. Leo was pleasantly surprised when he was able to get Dr. MacAskill to come here in person. His services are in such demand that it seemed unlikely he would come to Charlottetown, when the effort to get him here was launched. Mr. Morris is a beef cattle feeder himself. The Ontario man feeds 1,000 to 1,200 animals. Leo tells me, and he was one of the early users of Urea as a protein supplement with corn. Originally Urea was used as a nitrogen source in fertilizer, a product which the Cyanamid people manufacture. The story of how it came to be used as a livestock feed supplement should be interesting, and that's part of the story the two men are expected to tell here Wednesday afternoon.

The Urea is produced in a white, pellet-shape form and it is fed into the blower that hoists the corn silage into the silos, it is said. Corn silage runs around eight per cent protein one producer tells me, though I have no personal knowledge on that score. Enough Urea is added to bring the protein content to perhaps 12 per cent. I haven't the details of cost but I am told the protein supplement is very cheap, that it will greatly reduce the cost of feeding steers for markets, or heifers if they are being fed for beef. The use of this product eliminates the need of more expensive protein supplements. With a silo "unloader" in operation it cuts down tremendously on labor costs in a feed lot operation. Discussed at the meeting will be such subjects as breeding, feeding, feed lot operation and corn production. Mr. Morris, for example, is a large producer of corn.
