

U of A vote bolsters CFS

Ottawa (Cup) — Bolstered by an important victory at the University of Alberta, the Canadian Federation of Students is preparing for its crucial general meeting that starts Nov. 7.

"When you have a big win like that, people get a new sense of vitality," CFS executive officer Dianne Flaherty said Oct. 27. "There's a new sense of vigor around the organization."

Fourteen per cent of U of A's roughly 20,000 students voted 56 per cent in favor of joining Canada's national student organization, Oct. 21. The win puts an extra $60,000 in the national body's coffers.

There was not an official "no" campaign in the referendum, although some students started an unofficial anti-CFS drive at the last minute, calling the organization the "Communist Federation of Students".

The federation was stung by a series of referenda losses last spring, where students at the University of Toronto, St. Mary's University and the University of Victoria rejected membership in the organization.

The federation will enter its one-week general meeting with 27 full members, plus a host of non-paying prospective members. The U of A puts CFS in a much stronger financial position.

But the federation still has problems. It's struggling out of a $47,000 deficit, and there will no doubt be a political struggle over the federation's spending priorities at the general meeting.

The federation will also have to grapple with a serious membership problem. Most of the member institutions are prospective, and have yet to hold referenda on their campuses even though most have reached the two-year deadline for full membership.
