Disappearing TV Youngster Touches Off National Search

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nine-year-old Evelyn Rudie, the impish Eloise of television, touched off a cross-country scramble Wednesday by disappearing from her Hollywood home and flying to Washington.

She got off a four-engine jet passenger plane at Baltimore's nearby Friendship International Airport with a tale of wanting to visit the White House and ask Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower to give her career a boost.

Suspicious of a possible publicity gag, reporters bargained at length with questions about whether her parents or anyone else knew she had left home alone at dawn.

With the coolness of the old theatre pro, the brown-eyed blonde stuck to her guns.

HELP SOLICITED

"When I saw Mrs. Eisenhower in Washington last year, she told me that she and her grandchildren and the president enjoyed my acting so much. So I decided to talk with her and see if she couldn't help me get a part in a film or TV series."

She said she had broken open four piggy banks in her room, extracted $160, and bought her airline ticket last Monday when she and her mother, Mrs. Emery Bernauer, separated during a shopping trip.

Then, she went on, she telephoned for a taxicab before 6 a.m. Wednesday, went to Los Angeles International Airport and boarded a plane.

The girl's father, police related, said he had taught the much-travelled youngster the details of making reservations, checking baggage through — the works.

MET PLANE:
Capt. Carl Kumaniec of the Baltimore airport police, said he was told that Los Angeles traced her through a check of Hollywood travel terminals. Kumaniec was asked to meet the plane when it arrived at the airport between Baltimore and Washington.

tacting farmers both in groups and as individuals in lending his service in directing farm production along economic lines."

The new arrangements will allow Mr. David MacLean, who is the representative for Kings County to pay a greater measure of attention to his county. Mr. MacLean's time has been taken up to some extent with keeping in the province which has taken away from the services that are incidental to the extension men in that county.

FIELD MAN

John Chandler will be an overall field man and will be working in close association with all the other extension agents.

David Rogers who has spent a good deal of his time on potato work during the past year has been transferred back as director of forage crops which would, of course, include a certain amount of time in connection with potatoes.

FORAGE CROPS

Mr. Shaw feels that there is a great need of study and promotion in forage crops as this is the basis of successful livestock production. That promotion will involve further demonstration in pasture improvement, the uses of acceptable pasture grasses, the production of corn, kale, grass silage and other crops that enter largely into successful animal husbandry. Mr. Rogers will be again assisted by the other field workers in the various counties.

In Prince County special emphasis will be placed on the improvement of the sheep industry and this will also be true regarding the sheep areas in Kings County.

CATTLE PROGRAM
In the cattle extension program and the testing of milk, changes are being anticipated in this particular division which will bring the testing and the selection of samples pretty much in line with that followed in R.O.P. where selections are made of one day's milking and on the basis of the weighing of this milk for that one day.

OPTIONAL
At the same time it is optional whether the owner of a herd of cattle weighs his milk for thirty days 'just for the one day indicated. It is felt that the easing up of the plan to a one day weighing will not only bring a larger number into this valuable work but will be substantially as accurate as the testing for the whole month period.

Some changes are also anticipated with the testing of cream at factories and this matter is now being discussed with factory management. It is hoped that in the over-all picture that the testing of milk in our milk distribution dairies and the creameries and cheese factories will be based on a system which will give greater accuracy and direction and information not only to the operators of these plants but to the producers who are sending their cream and milk to these plants.

CRAPAUD

Some suggestion has been advanced that another veterinary visit be necessary in the whole area extending from Bonshaw through to Summerside and Central Lot 16 and out through the north country. The present staff of two working out of Kensington are not always able to handle the demand and in this very wide section there seems to be ample reason for the establishment of another vet.

In addition, there are certain services to be rendered in Summerside in the inspection of meats and it is anticipated that the third veterinary might be placed in the Crapaud area who would work with the two at Kensington and take care by joint action of not only the work throughout the whole area but also the demands in Summerside.

LIST OF FARMS

Considerable attention is being given to farm survey with the idea of establishing a complete list of available farms for sale throughout the province. At the present time over a hundred applications have been received in the department for examination of farms offered for sale.

It is not, of course, anticipated that the whole province will be covered at once but where there are farms offered, an attempt will be made to examine these areas and record necessary detail. In the meantime, the staff will pay attention to a medical examination particularly in Queen's County, going over school districts and securing the names of those who have farms offered for sale, both vacant and occupied and in that way a complete record will be kept along methodical lines.

An appeal is made to secretaries of boards of trustees to assist departmental agents in making this survey. This does not insure sales of farm in a wholesale way, the premier noted, but the records will be available when purchasers become interested. In any event these records will show the actual situation regarding trends in property.

SHORT COURSES
During the coming fall and winter an elaborate attempt will be undertaken to conduct short courses throughout the province and this work is now underway.

Not only has very excellent work been performed by the fieldmen but in addition they have taken an active part in organizing study clubs throughout the Province and it looks now, the premier stated, as if the staff of the department is rolling on an extensive campaign of great value.

Not only will these organization be of considerable assistance in solving farm problems but a central course is also contemplated at the Vocational School which will take in the study of pressing farm problems, forestry, fishing and other developments.

This Mr. Shaw stated, should be a banner year in the carrying out to the people in their own communities the services of the department of agriculture.

While the full organizational work on farm radio and study clubs have not been completed, these will undoubtedly be a great increase in this work.

"I have emphasized in all the services that will be rendered that it is tremendously important that each individual work out his own program in collaboration with the minister and the deputy minister and be under very definite direction at all times; but there is a great need of the whole staff not only working on their own services but to integrate all these services into one overall machine which will be in touch in all its parts with the problems that are to be solved," the premier said.

"I am quite convinced that in this way with the spirit of helpfulness between all members of the department and with the direction which we hope to give to more effective field work in the province, the needs of the farm people in the way of educational assistance will be very completely served."

"In any event," the Premier concluded, "I am tremendously enthused with the new arrangement and with the eagerness and willingness on the part of all members of the department staff to work both on an individual and integrated basis for the furtherance of agricultural interests in the province."

Canada Resists Pressure On Security Council Issue

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Green said Wednesday Canada won't have its "arm twisted" or be "pushed around" over the issue of filling the vacant seat on the United Nations security council.

He declined to say what country or countries are trying to twist Canada's arm. Communist Poland and Turkey, a NATO ally of Canada, are deadlocked in the race for the seat and Mr. Green confirmed that Canada is supporting Poland's bid. The United States is backing Turkey.

"We don't believe in being pushed around or having our arm twisted," Mr. Green told reporters at Uplands Airport on his return from a 10-day trip to Paris and London. "Several other countries have the same opinion."

NATO nations intentionally, "but were not thinking of our feelings."

"We have been at fault, too, because we haven't been making our statements too definite."

KEPT PRIVATE

Britain, France, the U.S. and West Germany had been disagreeing and didn't want to air the disagreement in the NATO council.

But it would be better to thrash out these differences in NATO. Differences between Britain and the U.S. on one hand and France and West Germany on the other were "not half as great as portrayed."

Mr. Green said the impression had got around in Canada that President de Gaulle of France is not interested in NATO.

"This is quite wrong. He is in favor of consultation."

The French president would visit Canada if he came to North America but it was difficult to tell now whether he would have enough time to come.

Agriculture

It is anticipated that custom work with our fruit men will be undertaken by private individuals and every assistance will be given to this service.

So far as the agricultural economist is concerned, as already stated, the man in charge of this work will undertake a more intimate association and examination of the various crops and the practicability of producing such crops.

This might be not only associated with the ordinary production on the farm but on such new crops as peas, tobacco, broccoli, asparagus corn for canning and a great many other new products that may be grown here and handled by the frozen food and other plants.

An examination will also be made of the economy of the purchase of large units of machinery in relation to the farm production in any particular acreage.

"I feel," Mr. Shaw stated, "that the provincial economist can do a very fine job in con-

GENTLE PERSUASION
Later, at a press conference in the East Block of the Parliament buildings, Mr. Green was asked how the arm-twisting was done. "Persuasion," he said. Then he added with a broad smile: "We try to persuade other people ourselves but that isn't arm-twisting."

He said at the airport that Turkey was "dragged in at the last minute" as a contestant for the seat on the security council being vacated by Japan.

There had been "great relaxation" in world tension through an exchange of visits between heads of government and it "was not wise to make a cold-war issue out of the UN election." There was "not much justification at all" for doing this.

Mr. Green said the seat should go to an Eastern European country and Poland was the "least difficult" of Communist nations.

SPLIT PROPOSED

At the press conference he said Canada has suggested at the UN—"we are twisting arms"—that the two-year term on the security council be split between Poland and Turkey. Such a solution looked "very probable."

Mr. Green's other main theme was increased consultation in the NATO council in preparation for the Western summit meeting at Paris Dec. 19 and an East-West heads-of-government conference.

He said the Western view at an East-West summit meeting should be that of NATO as a whole and not just the major NATO powers.

"The NATO council is not being given enough responsibility," Mr. Green said.

Britain, France and the U.S. were not ignoring the small
