

THE DAILY EXAMINER.

JULY 22, 1884.

Editorial Notes.

The New York Post says the increasing depression in general trade is becoming more manifest.

The appointment of the Honorable A. A. Macdonald as Lieutenant Governor of this Province, has been gazetted. The commission will date from the first of August next.

Words cannot express the sorrow and regret which pervades the town on account of the death of Mrs. Warburton, or the sympathy which all classes feel for her bereaved husband and parents.

"Every year," says Le Moniteur Universel, "sees the consumption of spirits increasing in the most disquieting manner. The physicians who treat insanity continually raise their voices, exposing the fearful ravages produced by alcoholism. It is found by their reports that the consumption of alcohol in France is yearly increasing by from four to seven million gallons."

The St. John Sun says: "The Magog Print Works are at last at work, and have turned out the first lot of prints ever made in Canada. They are said to be of good design and first-rate quality. The print department is one of the most artistic and profitable in the whole range of cotton manufacturing, and both as a source of home supply for what has hitherto been altogether imported into our country, and as a help for our grey cotton production, which it uses as raw material, we hope it will be abundantly successful in Canada."

In a voyage from Rio Janeiro to Bordeaux two French savants carefully investigated the quality of sea air. They found in all instances that over the open sea, at a distance from the vessel, the air was singularly free from the multitude of organisms which are found in land breezes. It is now believed by these and other investigators that none of the germs of an epidemic can cross an ocean with the wind, but that all low forms of life contained in it must soon reach the water and die. Sea voyages are now sometimes recommended on this special ground.

A petition for the repeal of the order making the Scott Act operative in the County of Halton, has been presented to the Governor-General in Council; and a counter petition against submitting the question of repeal to a vote has also been presented—in which it is claimed that the other is invalid. The principal reason for the claim of invalidity is that after it was filed in the sheriff's office and the time it was required to remain there for inspection had expired, it was discovered that the provisions of the law with regard to witnessing the signatures, so that they can be identified as those of bona fide electors, had not been complied with.

Consequent on the rejection by the Lords of the Franchise Bill and the defeat of the motion by the Earl of Weymouth that the House should proceed to consider it provided the Government would undertake to present a Bill for the redistribution of seats in the autumn session, the enthusiasm over the movement for the abolition of the House of Lords is at high pressure. The London trades committee, we are told, are making arrangements to have a monster procession, numbering 200,000 men, to parade during the demonstration at Hyde Park on Monday, to awe the lords into passing the franchise bill. A majority of the workshops in London will close.

The depressed condition of many industries in France for some months past, and its effect upon the fiscal conditions of that country, have been the subject of much remark. According to information obtained by the New York Bulletin, up to the close of June there are some indications of a turn for the better in trade. There is, it appears, an improvement in the official statistics of foreign commerce for the past month, and in the bulletins issued from the largest financial houses and the railway traffic receipts. "Official reports as to the retail trade in Paris are also more encouraging than they have been of late. And, finally, during the first fortnight of the last month, no fewer than 50 industrial, commercial, or financial societies have been launched, being 22 more than in the corresponding period of last year; but what the final fate of these is to be, of course, must be left to conjecture." The appearance of the cholera at the Mediterranean ports, says the Bulletin, will be likely to postpone any improvement in that quarter.

What is It?

Outside of politics, just now, in the United States, one of the principal topics of discussion and curiosity is the Georgia "electrical girl," Miss Lulu Hurst, mention of whom was made in a recent number of THE EXAMINER. The power she exhibits is certainly phenomenal. She lifts immense weights, drags heavy and strong men about rooms or across stages, no matter how stubbornly they may resist, and all without seeming fatigue or unwonted exertion. Miss Hurst has given many exhibitions of her great powers before scientists and others, and since she came prominently before the public, in addition to her other performances, she has lifted the mortgage off her father's farm. This latter was a practical feat, and one appealing to public attention.

Miss Hurst is the daughter of a Georgia farmer, who is described as a good specimen of the average small farmer, with a heavy face and a long goatee. The mother is mentioned as a motherly looking person; while the daughter the "electrical girl," is a tall, large-boned, not ill-looking country girl, whose dark hair falls in old-fashioned ringlets about her heavy looking face. The reputation of the singular power she possesses has spread rapidly, and she has been engaged for a short season at Wallack's Theatre, in New York. An engagement at one of the principal theatrical establishments in the United States shows that Miss Hurst's gifts are extraordinary, and not tainted with Charlatanerie or else the Dime Museums of the city would be the scenes for her exhibitions. The first people of the land are interested in her.

A few days ago some thirty theatrical and newspaper men sat around the stage of Wallack's Theatre, to witness some of Miss Hurst's phenomenal feats. She was accompanied by her father, mother, and a young man acquaintance from Georgia, who acted as sort of manager, and in a short address said that they were plain country people, and could give no explanation of the remarkable power possessed by Miss Lulu. It was a "force," he said, and one which heretofore had defied all investigation. He hoped that all present would test the "force" possessed by Miss Hurst. It seems that she has no control over an umbrella in her hands, and those near her must look out for themselves. The young man, in stating this fact, showed that one of his eyes had been damaged, and in the exhibition to which we refer Mr. Wallack received such a prod in one of his optics, that it compelled him to leave the theatre for medical aid. Miss Hurst opened an umbrella, lent to her for the occasion, and held it lightly in the hand. It plunged viciously forward, and pushed the owner clear across the stage, despite all his efforts, and a newspaper reporter who was next experimented on tried to stand his ground, but the next moment found him extricating himself from a lot of chairs, amongst which he had been thrown. He had no disposition to try again. Miss Hurst caught hold of one end of a billiard cue with a light grasp of one hand, while a strong man took hold of the other end firmly by both hands. She dragged him all about the stage. With all his weight and strength he tried to force his end of the cue down to the floor, but was unable to do so. Miss Hurst's hand only rested on the cue, and did not grasp it during the latter feat. A muscular reporter grasped a common chair, when Miss Lulu lightly laid her hand on it, and the chair and man swung around the stage like a top. She raised the chair up by putting her open hands against each side, and requested the reporter to press the chair to the floor. He was unable to do so, and then one man after another came to assist him, until four stout men were doing their best to overcome the resistance of the "electrical girl's" light touch or hold of the chair. Finally she lifted a chair with a heavy man sitting in it, clear from the floor, without closing her fingers about it.

Since Miss Lulu began to give exhibitions, another Georgia girl has appeared as her rival, and a third one is reported to lay claims to the same powers. All these wonderful girls hail from the State of Georgia; and one writer thinks that it is perhaps as well that General William Tecumseh Sherman did not delay his immortal march to the sea, through Georgia, till this year, or he might have been whipped out of his boots by these girls, and that, too, without knowing what hurt him.

The fact that an athlete overcame Miss Hurst in a recent encounter, does not militate against the mysteriousness of the power she manifests. Her father stated, when she first appeared in New York, that at times the manifestations ceased, or that the force she possessed was not always equal.

Influential American journals call upon scientists to thoroughly investigate the matter. Miss Hurst first became possessed of the power she shows about nine months since. One day an umbrella began to move about in her hands, and since that time she has been unable to carry one of the articles, but she says she "knows enough to come in when it rains."

In 1864 a French girl named Angélique Cottin manifested similar "force" to that now shown by Miss Hurst. Whatever she touched was thrown down, chairs and all wooden articles being most affected. By putting her hands on a heavy bench, on which sat three persons, the combined weight being upwards of 600 pounds, bench and sitters were lifted in the air. French scientists investigated the extraordinary proceedings of Mlle. Cottin, and an affinity between the unknown force and electricity was shown. It was discovered that if the girl was cut off from contact with the earth, either by placing under her feet a non-conductor, or merely keeping them raised from the ground, the power ceased; and it was also noted, as in the case of Miss Hurst, that more power emanated from the left hand than from the right. This influence was repulsive in its nature, as objects were driven from her violently. The phenomena was curious, but the real cause of them was not demonstrated.

The Chinese Viceroy is reported to have rejected a French demand that Imperial troops be withdrawn from the Tonquin frontier.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Two Suggestions.

Sir,—I see by the St. John Telegraph and Halifax Chronicle that the appointment of Hon. A. A. Macdonald as Governor of this Province has been gazetted; and I have it on good authority that F. de St. C. Brecken, Esq., M. P., will be appointed Postmaster in his stead. This settles the matter of an election in Queen's County. It will be held, no doubt, in September next. I, therefore, beg to offer two suggestions:—

- 1. That a Convention of the Liberal-Conservatives of Queen's County be held immediately; and,
2. That the strongest Liberal-Conservative—not one seeking Grit as well as Tory-votes—be selected to contest the County.

My reasons for making the first suggestion is: I wish to have the election run on strictly party principles. Now, without a convention this cannot be done. Because any individual who believes he is popular, and further believes, and leads others to believe, he can command sufficient votes from both parties to secure election, may bulldoze the constituency and foist himself on it as the candidate. This individual may be elected, and if so he would appear in Ottawa as what? Not as a Conservative representative, I assure you—but as the personal representative of the mongrel party which elected him. Holding such a position the Liberal-Conservatives of Queen's County would have no guarantee of his loyalty to the great party which they so much admire and so strongly support. On the contrary, his Grit followers would cherish the hope that in case of a crisis, Mr. Blake would have at least a delicate supporter.

My reason for making the second suggestion is: If Mr. Brecken takes office the party will be without a leader. It would therefore be the duty of the Conservative party to meet in convention, select the strongest man, and place him at their head as a Conservative leader, and not have a personal representative of a subservient following, composed of bad Grits and worse Tories at their head. The Liberal-Conservative party of Queen's County is a noble one. It will therefore repudiate a self-constituted leader. Taking this view of the matter, I think we should by all means have a Convention.

Yours, etc.,
A THOROUGHbred LIB. CON.

New Perth Items.

The influence of Fidelity Lodge in the cause of Temperance still increases, and under the management of its present efficient staff of officers, it has been productive of much good. The entertainments, for the most part, interesting, especially the debates, which are very instructive, and at the same time agreeably conducted.

Our school is in a very efficient state and is well advanced. French, Latin, Greek, Geometry, Algebra, Natural Philosophy and Agricultural Chemistry, as well as the primary branches, are ably and effectually taught. If the present teacher had an assistant for the summer months it would enable him to carry on his work more satisfactorily. Miss Hamilton, lady teacher of Summerside, who visited the school not long ago, was also of the same opinion. But of course we cannot expect this during the winter season—the attendance is not so large.

For the past few weeks the question of the day was, who will be our next Governor? When it was officially announced that the Hon. A. A. Macdonald, a descendant of the very illustrious Perthshire Clan, received this honored appointment, a feeling of great satisfaction prevailed the whole neighborhood. It is universally allowed that he is a man of unswerving justice and patriotism and of the strictest integrity, at the same time destitute of national prejudice and religious bigotry. Such a man will undoubtedly command the respect of all parties, and merit their love and esteem while performing his governmental duties in behalf of our beloved sovereign, Queen Victoria.

Edward Pool vs. Henry Pool—Action on contract for wages. Terminated in a non-suit. McLean & Martin for plaintiff. C. Palmer, Q. C., and Duncan McLeod for defendant.

John G. Scrimgeour vs. Owen Connolly and another—Action for trespass and assault. Verdict for plaintiff for $1,000. This case occupied four days. C. Palmer, Q. C., E. J. Hodgson, Q. C., and D. McLeod for plaintiff. L. H. Davies, Q. C., F. Peters and Morson for defendants.

Cattle Down.

The Ottawa Sun of the 16th says:—For the past two months there has been a great depression in the live stock markets in Montreal, and consequently the farmers here have been obliged to either hold their cattle back or sell them at a reduced price. This depression was caused by the great influx of American cattle buyers who went all through this section of the country buying up cattle, which they shipped to the Montreal markets, so keen was the competition during the time the prices were up, that the buyers not thinking of the future, did all in their power to get all the cattle they could in the market. So great was the supply that the demand for stock slackened and day after day the quotations were lowered, and it is owing to this that the farmers in the vicinity are unable to find purchasers for their cattle. The live stock market here is well supplied, but the buyers are only offering a very small price and accordingly very few sales were effected. The market this morning was very dull, there being only twenty cows offered for sale, and up to twelve o'clock only two sales had been made. Sheep, however, are very scarce and the demand very large. It will be remembered that about three months ago as many as 32,000 sheep were shipped from this district to the United States by American buyers. This, to a great extent, pushed the local buyers and butchers, who to-day cannot find enough to satisfy the demand.

CURRENT NOTES.

The Irish American Republican Committee has adopted an address urging Irishmen to vote for Blaine.

Nearly three hundred Hungarian peasants have been sentenced for complicity in the escutcheon riots last September.

Nova Scotia crop estimates promise a good crop of hay, grain and roots, the fruit prospect being remarkably good.

Ottawa having threatened to tax the insurance companies doing business there the underwriters have raised their rates ten per cent.

Richard A. Proctor, the astronomer, says that Mr. Wiggins' new moon theory is not worth notice, and that the Canadian weather prophet is either a noodle or a rogue.

The Post Office Savings Bank statement for June shows deposits $628,000; withdrawals $403,000; balance at credit of depositors $13,000,000, or about $1,000,000 over last year.

The River Thames between Teddington and Isleworth has almost entirely disappeared. Cricket was played last week on the bed of the channel between Eel-pie Island and Twickenham, and a tent erected.

Roger Amero has obtained $400 damages against the constable who arrested him in Nova Scotia some time since on a charge of murder, of which he was acquitted after extradition to Boston.

Cholera does not in the least scare the residents of London, but the barrel organs are worrying the life out of the people. Visitors to the metropolis contribute so liberally to the maintenance of this nuisance that it cannot be got rid of.

Mr. Labouchere, M. P., propounds a c. nundrum:—There are some things I never have been able to understand, although very possibly the explanation is a simple one. Why does a horse get fat if he is turned out to grass, and fine down when fed on oats, and yet a man gets fat when he feeds on bread, and thin when he only eats meat and green vegetables? What is the difference between our inner mechanism and that of a horse?

Mr. McGirr, the Indian Superintendent at Regina, "having being asked if there was any truth in the rumor that Lois Riel was in the territories, replied that Supt. Crozier had telegraphed to the effect that he was, and is heading the half-breed agitation in regard to their land claims. Riel makes Duck Lake his headquarters. He is supposed to have driven in from Montana by way of Wood Mountain, Troy and Touchwood Hills."

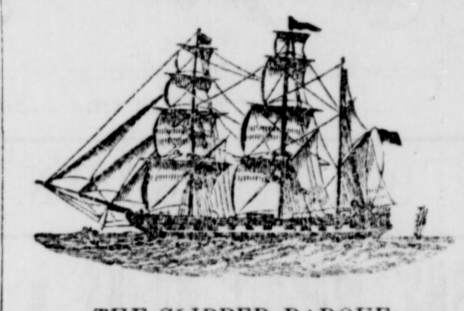

The "spirit" of James A. Garfield responded to the call of a medium at Syracuse and wrote upon the slate. It was his first post mortem message to the United States. Its brevity is commendable, but it lacks that dignity of tone and elegance of expression that marked the writings of the late President when in the flesh. The message in full, as delivered by the "spirit" at Syracuse, was as follows:—"Blaine can knock the stuffing out of Cleveland, and I'll help him do it.—James A. Garfield."

The famous picture by Landseer, the "Monarch of the Glen," which was recently sold with the late Lord Londesborough's pictures and brought £6,501, experienced when first offered for sale a lack of appreciation which reminds one of the history of Hood's "Song of the Shirt." It was painted in 1851, for a compartment in the walls of the House of Lords, as a specimen of the artists work. The art authorities to whom was entrusted the selection of pictures, rejected this and sent it back. Landseer was so indignant at this treatment that he at once sold it to Lord Londesborough for £350. It is one of Landseer's best; his very best having sold for only £115 more.

A number of deaf mutes lately arrived at the Immigration sheds in Winnipeg, and the argus-eyed itinerant and despatcher of Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition blazoned the fact far and wide. The editors "caught on" in most approved style, and, after arraigning the Dominion Government for all the sins in the political calendar, ended up with this last crowning proof of the utter inefficiency and baseness. Scarcely were these hot editorials flung off from the press before the whole facts, a little inconvenient and stubborn it is true, leaked out. A wealthy English lady and philanthropist had purchased a piece of land from the C. P. R. Company, is having proper buildings located upon it, and intends to place the deaf mutes, brought out at her own charge, in the home she has provided for them. She will provide instructors to teach them practical farming and other trades, and will support them until they become self-sustaining. Yet the itinerant and editors have spread the falsehood and made the assault; neither of them will take the trouble to set the matter right.

The next church congress in England will be held in Carlisle, on September 30th and the 1st, 2nd and 3rd of October. The programme of subjects for papers and discussion as provisionally arranged, is more than ordinarily comprehensive. In naturally embraces several topics peculiarly interesting to the Church of England. Among these are the report of the Ecclesiastical Commission, with special reference to legislation, Church schools and Board schools, etc. But the tenor of most of the subjects chosen is of a general religious or ecclesiastical character and such as might be taken up in any Anglican or even Christian community. Such as the duty of the church to the poor in town and country; popular literature with reference to infidelity and public morality; the best means of raising the standard of social purity among the wealthier and educated as well as the poorer and more ignorant classes; foreign missions; the result of recent historical and topographical research on the Old and New Testament Scriptures. Others seem to invite to participation in the discussion the members of the American, Irish and Scottish branches of the church, as foreign chaplaincies and the relation to them of American and English congregations; "What can England learn from Scotland and Ireland in religious matters?" "The duty of the Christian teacher with regard to National politics," is a subject which should give rise to some interesting debate, and "England's religious duties to Egypt," also opens up the question of England's political relations to that "house of bondage."
