

Fresh Tracks Spur Search For Missing Quebec Child

MONTREAL (CP)—The sighting of fresh tracks, believed to be not more than an hour or two old, resulted in an intensified search Sunday for Andrew Brown, 11, who disappeared in Laurentian wilderness last Monday while on a fishing trip with his father.

The tracks were sighted after roughly 140 troops from the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps school joined a search of a 35-square-mile area, 65 miles north of Montreal.

The RCMP pressed into service a specially-trained dog flown here from Moncton, N.B., Wednesday, in an effort to follow the spoor. REPORT BOY SEEN Sighting of the tracks followed reports Friday that sounds resembling the cries of a child were heard and that the missing boy, from the Montreal suburb of Verdun, had actually been sighted.

Marcel Laferrier, 12, of Ste. Beatrix, Que., told police he thought he saw the missing lad about 12:30 p.m. Friday. He walked toward the boy, but as he approached, the lad dashed back into the woods.

"I tried to follow him but he disappeared. He was acting wildly," Marcel said.

Earlier, RCMP Cpl. H. W. Burkholder, flown into the search with the dog, said he heard sounds resembling a child's cries as he was preparing to take the dog out of the search.

Crash Victim Is Improving

LANCASTER, N. B. (CP)—Army medical officials said Sunday, plane-crash victim Lieut. Raymond G. Hall of South Slovan, B.C., and Camp Gagetown, N.B., underwent minor surgery Saturday to "reduce facial fracture." Lieut. Hall was found near Norton, N. B. after spending more than two days in the woods when his rented single engine Tri-Pacer aircraft crashed into the woods on a flight from Fredericton to Saint John. He was said to have a skull fracture, lacerations and possible limb fractures.

Officials said his condition is still serious but he is progressing satisfactorily.

Almost Sure Bet Commons To Okay Pact

By DAVE MCINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer
OTTAWA (CP)—It's almost a sure bet that the Commons will ratify unanimously the Canada-United States air defence agreement.

But unanimity is unlikely to feature the debate preceding the vote on ratification. No date for the debate has yet been fixed.

The government did a flip-flop last week on the agreement, which sets out the principles governing operation of the North American Air Defence Command—

NORAD — at Colorado Springs, Colo., which was established by Canada and the U.S. last Aug. 1. External Affairs Minister Smith said one day that the agreement would not be submitted to Parliament for ratification, as the government had promised in the last Parliament. The next day, under opposition pressure, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said it would be submitted for approval.

APPENDAGE TO NATO

The government has maintained right along that the agreement should be considered merely as an appendage to the North Atlantic treaty, approved years ago by Parliament.

The Liberals have held there is no direct connection between NORAD and NATO, and that the agreement should have been submitted to Parliament before NORAD was established. However, the Liberals have not opposed the principle of the agreement, and have given every indication they will support it.
