ceive, and that a sense of humor is an asset in the nursing profession. She said that because the primary function of nursing meant taking care of patients, nurses must like their profession if they are to do it well. She told the girls that it was important for them to show leadership and responsibility, and that those who had these qualities should take advantage of any financial assistance available from their Provincial Government which might assist them to take special training, and said she was pleased to learn that many of the nurses in this class were planning to remain in the nursing profession at their own hospital.

NURSES NEEDED

The need for nurses at Prince County Hospital was stressed also by Dr. J. B. Downing, president of the medical staff, who noted that in the past three years thirty nurses had graduated from this Summerside Nursing School. He said the next two or three years should see the implementation of the national hospital program in the Province of P. E. I., and the need for nurses then would be even greater in order to provide adequate care for patients. During the graduation program New Testaments were presented by Mr. A. H. Hubley, president of the Gideon Society, and Missals were presented by Mrs. Wilfred Perry, president of the C. W. L. The Hospital Ladies Aid prize

Child Injured At Kensington

Donna Lee Simmons, 4-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Simmons, New Annan, was taken to the Prince County Hospital Saturday afternoon with a broken collar-bone. The little girl was visiting her grandmother in Kensington when the accident occurred. It is understood her brother David, age 10, was attempting to move the Simmons car parked near the house of Mr. and Mrs. William Profit, grandparents of the children. Donna Lee ran out of the house at the same time David was moving the car and was pinned between the open car door and the house. The mother and grand-parents ran to her assistance as did also a neighbor, Mr. Green, who moved the car and drove the child to the hospital. Her condition last evening was described as improving.
