ADDRESS GIVEN

The address to the graduates was given by Dr. Frank MacKinnon, principal of Prince of Wales College, who called the ceremonies "a day of stocktaking".

"This is a time to examine yourselves, to see what you have already done and what you plan to do in the future", he told the graduates.

"Ask yourselves where am I going from here? What am I striving for?

"Success in life depeads not on how many talets you have, but rather how you use those you have", he asserted. "No matter what you do in the future, continue your education. This does not necessarily mean going to school, the main thing is, don't go stale in mid-career".

Congratulating the graduates on their success, Dr. MacKinnon said, "There is no magic in a diploma. It is merely a passport to enter the race of life".

Directing his remarks to the parents present, he declared, "These people are not children anymore. They are now adults. We say they are the citizens of tomorrow. That is not so. They are the citizens of today".

Valedictorian Ann Noseworthy praised teachers and parents for their assistance to the graduates during their 12 years at school. "All of us have treasuresome memories that we shall always cherish", she said. "This is just the first phase of our careers".

N.B. Civil Service To Be Studied Here

The set up of New Brunswick's civil service commission will be examined by representatives from this province Monday with a view to setting up a similar organization here.

Meeting with New Brunswick's civil service commissioner, Charles Murray, will be Welfare and Labor Minister Henry Wedge; J.V. MacIntyre, president of the P.E.I. Public Servant's Association, and other association members, J.A. Gallant, Dr. Allison Deacon and Dr. James Higgins.

New Brunswick's program of job evaluation and employee classification will be studied by the representatives of this province.

At the last session of the legislature, an act, entitled the Civil Service Act, was approved which allowed for the setting up of a commission in this province.

Pontiacs Top Legion 7-4

SUMMERSIDE — Garth Harris gave a peak performance of his pitching prowess for six innings and though losing control in the final inning, managed to eke out the victory as the Summerside Pontiacs won their second straight ball game, defeating the Legion Junior baseball team by the score of 7-4.

Harris allowed only two hits for six innings, and struck out 12 batters. The Juniors got to him for three more hits in the seventh, scoring three runs.

Donnie Schurman started for the Juniors, lasted 2½ innings, giving up six hits. Terry Carrier finished the game with three more bingles reaped off his slants. The winners scored four runs, largely because of Legion errors.

Irv Arsenault belted a home run in the fifth, and Ed McCue duplicated the feat in the next frame. Both these boys hit 2 for 3, leading the Pontiac attack. Alan Gaudet hit the only extra base blow for the Juniors, a double to left field in the sixth inning.

Frank MacCormack, smooth fielding short stop for the Legionaires, started a nice double play in the first inning, grabbing a grounder to short field, tagging the runner going to third, and snapping the ball to home plate to cut off a run there.

Gerald Gay called the balls and strikes, and Harold Mitton and Ralph Crossman looked after the base calls.

Seven St. Mary's Graduates Honored At Banquet In S'side

SUMMERSIDE — Seven young ladies were given a banquet in their honor in the Knights of Columbus Hall in Summerside last night, the event being graduation from St Mary's Academy.

The graduates were Eugenia Arsenault, Elizabeth Walsh, Eileen Praught, Geraldine Praught, Janette MacDonald, Joyce Ross and Marsha MacLellan.

Guest speaker was Dennis Clow, Summmerside, who stated that people nowadays are not preaching the gospel. He stated that over the past five years, the Roman Catholic population has increased by 500,000,000. He said in the U.S.A. it takes 274 Catholics to produce one convert.

"We have failed to modernize our convert methods," he charged. He advised more people to become lay workers in the church. "When a lay worker takes an active part in the church, he becomes a better Christian," he said.

Mr. Clow stated that Communism survives because the individual is told that he is important. This creates a feeling of brotherhood, he asserted.

Also speaking to the graduates were Summerside Mayor J. Ernest Morrison and Rev. Pierre Arsenault. George Olscamp proposed a toast to the graduates.

Mrs. Levi Arsenault presided. The supper was served by members of the Catholic Women's League.

Premier Expects To Resume Tours

Premier Walter R. Shaw said yesterday that he plans to "get out among the people again this summer", and expects to make a tour of part of Kings County, and possibly a portion of Prince.

He said that his tours are a new concept. "Rarely has a premier moved out among the people to see their problems at first hand, and he's the very one who should go."

APPOINTMENT, SOON

On other government matters, Premier Shaw said he expects that a deputy provincial secretary will be appointed soon. The post was left vacant several weeks ago by the death of P.S. Fielding.

It has been suggested that Premier Shaw's executive assistant may receive the appointment. Premier Shaw's only comment on the suggestion was "whatever appointment Mr. MacKay may receive, he will fill it extremely well However, we would have to find someone to fill Mr. MacKay's present position before any appointment is made."

Asked to comment on Liberal leader A.W. Matheson's suggestion that young Liberal candidates are wanted for the province, and none older than Mr. Matheson should run, the premier said "I was almost dumbfounded by the statement; it's the most undemocratic thing I ever heard. The people are the ones to decide whom they want to represent them."

Premier Shaw said that the government is looking for a site to construct new cold storage facilities for the province. "I expect construction will begin this year," he said.

Baptist Ass'n Is Headed By C.B. Jelly

The 95th annual meeting of the United Baptist Association which met in the Hazelbrook United Baptist Church came to a stirring close Sunday night when Dr. M. O. Brih iHngf-noot when Dr. M. O. Brinton of Highfield United Baptist Church, Moncton, brought the closing message.

Before Dr. Brinton spoke, Rev. C. W. Passey of Hazelbrook, who was moderator this year, welcomed the new moderator, C. B. Jelly, of Summerside.

The Sunday morning session was under the leadership of the moderator, Mr. Passey. Rev. T. W. Howard of North River led in prayer, and Rev. H. L. Estabrooks of Central Bedeque preached the association sermon. Special music was provided by the Hazelbrook choir and by Miss Eva Wood and Miss Sharon Passey of Hazelbrook.

A special memorial service was held in the afternoon led by Rev. L. R. Graves of Tryon. The names of all Baptists who died since the last association meeting were read by Mr. Estabrooks. After a moment of silence Rev. Stackhouse of Dundas led in prayer.

Following the memorial service the Lord's Supper was observed led by the moderator.

The ladies of Hazelbrook provided meals and overnight accommodations for the guests and delegates.

Bankers Nip Jets 23-22

The Bankers, last night scored often in the early innings and then held on to defeat Canadian Tire Jets 23-22 in a spirited Commercial League softball game.

The Bankers pounced on southpaw Hector MacDougall right from the start as Gerry McCarten opened with a home run. Two walks followed then Eric Arsenault followed with a booming triple. Two errors, another walk and a pair of doubles accounted for eight big runs.

The Jets came back in their half of the first with four runs on three errors, a single and Layton Stone's triple. The Bankers kept on blasting away and chalked up seven more tallies in the second inning to open up a commanding 15-4 lead.

The Canadian Tire was held scoreless in the second but came up with two runs in the third, and one in the fifth. By this time the Bankers had a total of 19 runs. They scored three more in the sixth to make it 22, then the Jets started to come back. They batted around in the bottom of the sixth and collected 11 runs to come to within four runs of tying the game.

The Bankers scored what proved to be the winning run in the seventh when Eric Arsenault smashed his third triple of the game and came in on a ground out

The Jets gave in a game try in the last of the seventh, by coming up with four runs to make the final score read 23-22.
