

Kleaner's Klosit

By Ed Orlowski

The gallant Knight of the Kleaner's Klosit stood ready for the challenge of the day's action. His charge is to keep the Dirdrips off the floor, by going whole heartedly headlong into battle with his friend and constant companion "Blue Lance", who is another Knight of the long narrow soapy twisted table. Together they do daily battle with staggering odds against them, but somehow they, fighting back to back, manage to mop the pockets of Dirdrips.

The Dirdrips are by no means slouches either; they slosh in on weary boots of students, and professors too, even the Kleaner himself has been know to harbour Dirdrips, dragging them into the Cass Chemistry Building on his Sasquatch boots, and has been literally boooooo'd by the whole mop family in the broom Klosit.

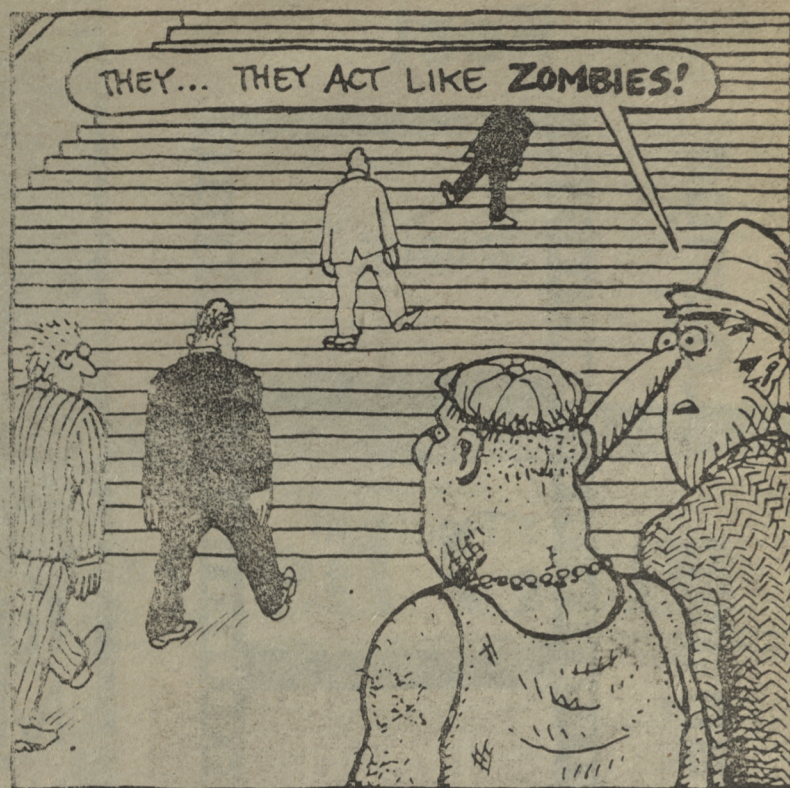

Then a quick and thorough general attack alert to rid his Sasquatch boots of the dreaded Dirdrips is mustered by Clingerbelle, who is the dipsy doodler pumper sponger in charge mopping up operations, who always complains about feeling washed out after an attack.

When the Knights of the long narrow soapy twisted table got a hold of the Kleaner's Sasquatch boots, all their smuckering puckerletts came to full attention and they did an onion peeling job on the Dirdrips, who yelled and screamed "dirty water", as the Kleaner sudzied them down the sink drain.

All was calm again in the Klosit except for the droplets of fresh dreamy eyed droplets of water that trickled off the Kleaner's Sasquatch boots.

The Knights of the long narrow soapy twisted table all sat dozing as they held their super whipper flapperletts high in an honor guard for the Kleaner, who was putting on his shirt, sweater, vest, oversweater, scarf, another sweater, jacket, coat, gloves ... inside his mits, shoes, Sasquatch boots, and hast ... now ready to go home at the end of a busy day.

The Kleaner sloshed his way through the maze of mop, broom, and shovel handles, through the door, down the hall, out the front door, down the steps, and out of sight and into the hands of relatives perhaps cousins of those little people they call "Dirdrips".
