Hull And Mikita Tired?

THE NATIONAL Hockey League semi-finals scene switches again tonight to Montreal and Sunday night to Chicago with the series (that's a tough word to pluralize) all square at 2-2.

According to press reports, a gift goal presented Chicago by Alex Delvecchio was all that prevented the Black Hawks trip to Detroit from becoming a disaster of the magnitude of the one that hit Alaska recently. At Toronto Leafs needed no gift goals in whipping the Canadiens. The Big M Frank Mahovlich did the job nicely.

Having finally broken through the jinx on Detroit ice, possibly the Black Hawks will now begin to show the form expected of them and bomb their way through to the finals. The Red Wings have been doing a tremendous job of putting silencers in the Hawks' big guns like Hull, Nikita, Wharram and friends, but how long can it last?

Syd Abel at times must have the feeling of a man sitting on a powder keg as he remembers the heavy shelling provided by these players over the regular season. There is the possibility that maybe both Hull and Mikita are pretty well played out after what has been a most gruelling season for both of them, although they seem to thrive on hard work. But even in the playoffs Billy Reay has been using them to kill off penalties as well as giving them regular duty on forward lines. Bobby Hull is a magnificient physical specimen of a man, but the human body can take just so much.

M, Army And Red Too Much

THE MAHOVLICH-Kelly-Armstrong combination was much too much for the faltering Canadiens at Toronto, especially the Big M who enjoyed his most productive night to date with a pair of goals and three big helpers.

Canadiens weren't skating anywhere near the speed they displayed in the two tussles in Montreal and just maybe the rough going—and it is mighty rough—is taking its toll. However, the Habs will be back home again tonight and are certain to be a lot tougher to beat on their home ice.

Although the Leafs seemed to win rather handily, they needed a big scoring night to do it as their old man Johnny Bower seemed well below his usual sparkling form. A couple of the Canadiens' goals were shots the old timer would ordinarily catch in his teeth with ease, but they got by for goals.

The more we watch Eddie Shack in action the more we wonder how he sticks in the big leagues. His passes are inaccurate his shooting even more so. Imlach must value him for his scare value; for the potentially destructive force he is. 'Tis true he is more popular with the garden fans than Mahovlich and colorful too, if you see color in his rough-house tactics, but it seems to me you should be more than colorfully popular to win a big league berth. We all know hockey is no pink tea party, but after all ....

Tonight in Montreal the Leafs and Canadiens square off again on equal terms in their bid for a spot in the finals in what is now a best-of-three affair. It will be interesting to see if they renew the warlike tactics used Thursday night or go back to the style of the second game in Montreal, by far the most crowd pleasing to date. Certainly if the two teams keep belting each other around with the abandon seen in games one and four, neither will be a match for either Detroit or Chicago when all the marbles are on the line.

Summerside Wins Ch'ship

SUMMERSIDE LEGIONAIRES won the Maritime junior hockey championship Thursday night and will be the toasts of the town when they arrive back in the western capital. These words were being typed before the new Maritime champs were home last night and by the way snow was coming down at the time, it seemed a definite possibility that the team might not make it home.

It was a well deserved, well earned victory and the team showed its championship stuff by coming from behind a two-goal deficit to overtake the Sydney squad in overtime in winning the game, series and title. It was a champion's way of winning and the team, its sponsors and others who paved the way for such a successful season are to be commended.

With two Maritime titles chalked up in a row, Prince Edward Island will be gaining more respect from mainland fans, players and officials. Last year Old Spain Penguins also went all the way. There is a big difference between the Legion and Penguins, however. The Charlottetown based squad had a Maritime title in mind when it was organized early in the season. The Legionaires are not a packed team, but they managed to do the trick anyway.

Again, well done.

Crossbones Defeated; Two Titles Captured

By ED CLINTON
Souris Bureau of the Guardian

One win, two losses. That was the total of Souris' playoff wins and losses in Island Hockey playoffs last week. The victory came about when the Reg Peters coached Elementary School whipped Summerside RCAF to win the Island championship. This was Souris' second hockey title of this season, and their first ever in this particular bracket. To the new champs, congratulations.

The Midgets earlier had won the King's County title by eliminating a team from Montague, and at the same time won the right to advance into the finals. Their opponents in this round were North River, who won the round 14-4. However, in getting to the finals, they became the first Midget team from this area to advance that far into Island playdowns.

And now we come to the Crossbones. And the biggest disappointment in hockey this past winter. They won the King's County title by beating Georgetown and Murray Harbour with relative ease, and then drew a bye into the finals. There, they met the Hampshire Bulldogs, and everyone figured that Souris would win their third intermediate "B" title in four years. Such, however, was not the case. In fact, it was exactly the reverse. The title went to Hampshire in two straight games.

Both teams were at disadvantages in the first game played in Souris. The local Crossbones went into the game without having played in two weeks. And Hampshire were able to ice only nine players, and one of the missing players was their regular goal-tender who was out with the flu. Both teams were back at full strength for the second game in North River.

According to Hampshire team officials, we did them an injustice last week. As we mentioned before, Souris were forced to wait two weeks before the finals were played. Last week, we said that apparently Hampshire were more interested in playing off for the Shaw Trophy, than in the Island playoffs, and that, if such was the case they should withdraw from the Island playoffs. Hampshire officials told us that the Shaw Trophy could have been played for at any time, but that Tyne Valley could not secure ice surfaces for their playoff round.

They told us that the delay in playing the semi-finals was due entirely to Tyne Valley, and that they had been willing to play at any time. To the Hampshire team, and to the lady who came over to the penalty box to correct us we extend our apologies and at the same time extend congratulations to the new intermediate "B" champs, the "Bulldogs".

The interscholastic "B" basketball tournament was played in Morell on Saturday past. We haven't received too much information as yet, except the main part, and that is of course, who won. The host for the tournament, Morell Regional High School, were apparently a greedy host, as they won both the Boys and Girl's titles. For Morell, it was their first championship in either division. And what makes it more impressive, is the fact that it's only their second year in playoff competition.

We don't know who played who, except the finals in the girls bracket. Morell and Souris each won their first game, and met for the title. And Morell won by one point with the score being 20-19. Earlier, we had mentioned that these two teams were the top contenders, but, we had picked Souris to finish out on top. We went against many, by predicting that the boys from Morell would be the winners, but, they have made us look mighty good. To both teams, congratulations.

Another playoff basketball tournament is coming up. This one takes place in Souris at the Regional High School, on April 11th. This one is for Elementary schools, and will have six entries. Three boys teams, and three girls teams from Summerside RCAF, Montague and Souris will vie for Island honors. For the latter two centers, it'll be their first entry into the basketball wars on this level. It might also be the RCAF's first attempt, we don't know. More details next week.

Getting back to hockey for a minute, we find many things wrong with the present playoff set-up. In some instances, very little, if anything, can be done. In other cases, changes could be made to bring about improvements. We'll go into this in a later column.

The regular schedule in the Souris Mixed League has just passed the half-way mark. Last week's results were: Knowalls 6 Jets 0; Lassies 5½ Sputniks ½; Millionaires 4¼ Tempos 1¾; Old Pros 6 Vips 0; Lassies 4 Hottentots 2; Ramblers 4½ Lakers 1½.

The league standings up to date are: Old Pros 29½, Sputniks 28 ¾, Jets 28¼, Knowalls 27, Hottentots 26, Lassies 23, Vips 21, Ramblers 19, Go Getters 15½, Millionaires 14¼, Lakers 12¾, Flyers 9¼, and Tempos 3¾.

THE TOP TEN:

Women: Bernadette Mahar 186, Emma MacDonald 181, Florrie Stewart 174, Eleanor Clinton 174, Isabel Power 173, Anne Poole 172, Amy MacDonald 170, Kathetine LaVie 166, Margaret Mc Innis 164, Alice MacDonald 164.

Men: Edgar Glenn 215, Stewart MacAulay 193, Cyril MacDonald 192, Steve Cheverie 189, Edward McGaugh 184, Edward Kassner 183, Arthur Peters 183, John MacLean 178, Edward Clinton 176, Mickey MacDonald 174.

Legion Playing Saints

St. Dunstan's Junior Varsity meet up with the Charlottetown Legion Juveniles in the first game of the final round of the Charlottetown and District Junior Hockey League Playoffs at the Charlottetown Forum tonight. The second game is scheduled for the Forum on Sunday afternoon.

There is no love lost between these two classy Junior teams and both squads will be anxious to pull out a victory in this opening contest.

The Legion squad although a bit on the light side compared to the Saints, don't let this interfere with their style of play as they play a fast skating close checking type of game, no matter who the opposition happens to be.

The Saints have a star studded lineup with such notables as George Monaghan, ex Varsity performer, Dick Flynn, also saw action with the Varsity team of 1962-63, and Dave O'Brien, a rookie who has been having an impressive year with the Fr. Charles Cheverie coached band of pucksters.

Action is slated to get underway at 7 p.m. tonight so that the fans will have ample time to get home to watch the N.H.L. fixture.

Caps Smother S'side Squad

FREDERICTON (CP) — Fredericton Capitals smothered Summerside Combines here Friday night taking a 15-8 decision in the opening of a best-of-five semi-final series in the Maritime Intermediate A hockey playoffs.

The second game is scheduled here this afternoon. The series winds up in Summerside with games Monday, and if necessary Tuesday and Wednesday.

Coley Fraser spearheaded Caps attack with four goals. Earl Nash and Bob Mabie each triggered three and Von Parent had a pair. Singles went to Billy Hughes, Richard Clark and Bob Grant.

Ulric Gallant scored three times for the Prince Edward Island champs. Coke Grady and Benny Grady each rifled a pair and Ron Gallant got the other.

Caps led 5-4 after the first period and 11-5 after 40 minutes of play.

Al Perry played two periods in the Summerside goal and made 10 saves. Ron MacDougall played the third period and was peppered with 14 shots. Dave Inch kicked 38 shots from the Fredericton nets.

Ed Shack Is On His Own Against Montreal Tonight

By DAVE BETTS

TORONTO (CP) — There wasn't a private detective in sight as Eddie Shack boarded the train for Montreal Friday.

Like a blind billy goat wandering into a wolves' convention, the hard-headed Toronto Maple Leaf winger was on his own for tonight's appearance in Montreal Forum for the fifth game of the Stanley Cup semi-final.

While his teammates were winning 5-3 here Thursday night, the rambunctious Shack butted and slammed two of Montreal Canadiens' biggest heroes.

For a real setback to biculturalism, Shack used his head to crack open the skull of talented centre Henri Richard and then knocked captain Jean Beliveau out of competition with a body slam into the boards.

Beliveau's injuries have been diagnosed as possible torn ligaments, and the Canadiens have called up rookie Claude Larose from Omaha in the Central Professional League. Montreal earlier lost Gilles Tremblay, a 22-goal man, who suffered a broken ankle.

CALLED SHABBY TRICK

In what was described by NHL president Clarence Campbell as "a shabby trick," Shack opened a six-stitch cut in Richard's forehead by butting with his head while the two players had each other tied up.

Richard had been getting much the better of a first-period fight when the Leaf player resorted to his goat-like tactics.

After Thursday's loss, the Canadiens locked themselves away from reporters and then left hurriedly for home. The Leafs practised briefly Friday before boarding a late-afternoon train.

In addition to the Shack-Richard affair, Thursday's game featured two other major brawls and the teams drew 30 penalties worth a total of 102 minutes.

MOTHERS CALL GARDENS

A spokesman for Maple Leaf Gardens said Friday the hockey emporium was deluged with calls from irate mothers of minor league and peewee hockey players.

"They said they were trying to teach their youngsters to play cleanly and were disgusted by the example set by the professionals," he said. "They complained mostly about Shack, but they also mentioned (Dave) Balon, (John) Ferguson and (Ron) Stewart."

Toronto's Stewart drew two major penalties and an automatic misconduct for engaging Balon and Ferguson in knuckle-cracking contests.

The big man for the Leafs has been Frank Mahovlich, who has scored three goals and set up four more to inspire wins in the second and fourth games. Club officials look on the Big M as the catalyst who sets the mood for the entire team.

The series shifts back here Tuesday and if a seventh game is necessary it will be played in Montreal Thursday.

Manager-coach Punch Imlach has quit the fortune-telling business, but he makes a cryptic staement for his team's future: "As long as we don't lose the last game we play, I'll be happy."

Closed Season Seen Vital To Revive Upland Birds

Sir,— Over the past few years we have been reading a weekly column in the morning paper called Hunter's Corner, with considerable interest particularly when the writer stays within the bounds of his extensive knowledge of outdoor life. The description of nature with all its beauty, mainly in the fall of the year, is not often surpassed. However, too often the column is of a very different nature and the writer fills in with destructive criticism always disparaging individuals and groups who are interested in an organized system of study and action concerning our fish and game.

The impression is given that the writer's ideas are of the highest order and of course always correct. Any individual or group advancing a program for the improvement of our fishing and hunting is termed dictatorial and asinine.

Recently the question was asked in H.C. why the season was closed on our upland birds. The reason should be quite clear particularly to a real conservationist. But to answer the question we believe that when a species is depleted almost to a vanishing point, by various causes, then the survivors must be protected. This is the procedure everywhere, sometimes too late, but it would be illogical to shoot off the remaining birds when we could protect those left with a closed season, until they recover from whatever it was that affected them.

The Fish and Game Association and the Department of Industry and Natural Resources have been severely criticized for taking no action to close the season some two or three years ago and we are sure the writer of Hunter's Corner would be among the first to complain it this had not been done last year.

Accusations against individuals of flagrant law breaking are made, mostly by insinuation, without any more basis in fact than second or even third hand information given to the writer by "a prominent farmer". This sort of evidence is not acceptable in courts and we believe it should not be accepted in a feature article on outdoor life. The gullibility of the author is well known and many a leg- pulling story is passed to him as a joke but they usually all make the headlines.

We now have a full time biologist working for the Government and with the Fish and Game Association who will advise regarding bird propagation, improvement of habitat and other pertinent subjects and we wonder just how long it will be before he feels the barbs of destructive criticism jabbing him. This will surely come to pass unless of course he consults the author of H.C. and follows his dictates.

The tourist dollar is becoming more important every year and the hunting and fishing of this Province is an important part of the overall picture, so we would hope for a little more co operation in the future from all the sports-minded fraternity in a concerted effort to improve our Fish and Game.

We are, Sir, etc.,

Saints Meeting PWC Pucksters

PWC Welshmen go against the defending champion St. Dunstan's High School hockey team in a sudden death game, for the Island Interscholastic Senior "A" championship, this afternoon at the St. Dunstan's rink.

The Saints ended up in third place in the four team loop in the final league standings. They met Montague High in the semi-final round, as Montague had captured the top slot in regular league play.

The Montague pucksters walloped the Charlottetown squad 8-2 on home ice in the first game of the best of three series. The Saints eked out a 2-1 victory at the College rink in the second game to tie the series up and force a third and crucial game to be played at the Montague rink. The Saints led by the three goal performance of Cecil MacDonald pulled out a 3-0 upset against the Montague aggregation in this contest to advance into the final championship round.

STARTING TO MOVE

The Welshmen who had completed the regular league schedule on the bottom of the heap came up with a surprise victory as they downed the Summerside High School team, at Civic Stadium, in the first game of the two game total goal series. The Bill Mulligan coached crew then defeated the Summerside lads 4-1 in the second of the series which was staged at St. Dunstan's Rink. Previous to these two victories the Mulligan coached crew had been unable to come up with a single victory in either the Charlottetown and District Junior League or the Interscholastic loop. Coach, Mulligan must have been saving his charges till the chips were down; and he may just have the material to upset the powerful Saints who have dominated this Interscholastic loop in recent years.

In the accompanying picture is, Blain Jelly, a youngster who has been playing great hockey for the St. Dunstan's team this season. Blain who is a little short on experience has caught on fast and has been skating with the best of them on the St. Dunstan's squad this year. Veterans in the Saints lineup include Rex MacCarville, John Irwin, Les Affleck, Cyril MacDonald and Frank Robinson who were all members of last year's championship team.

Game time is set for 2:00 p.m. and a large crowd is expected to be on hand to witness these two top-notch high school teams battling for the Island Interscholastic Senior "A" championship. Both teams will be going with a full lineup for this all important contest.

Montreal Super Star Suffers Injured Knee

By JOE DUPUIS

STE. MARGUERITE STATION, Que. (CP)—An obviously worried coach Toe Blake pondered the grim prospect Friday of continuing the Stanley Cup hockey war without super star Jean Beliveau.

It was the cause for worried frowns from both Blake and his Montreal Canadiens players as they tried to relax in the mountain retreat where they spent four days prior to the start of their semi-final series with Toronto Maple Leafs.

Beliveau, the team's veteran centre who is having one of his finest seasons, injured his right knee when Toronto's Eddie Shack carried him into the boards in Thursday's fourth semi-final game at Toronto. Leafs won that penalty-packed game 5-3 to tie the series 2-2.

The teams play the fifth game tonight in Montreal, the sixth back in Toronto Tuesday and the seventh, if needed, in Montreal Thursday.

Blake got hourly reports from Montreal on his big centre who was x-rayed to determine whether any of the knee ligaments were torn. Blake said a final conclusive report on Beliveau's injury may not be ready until today.

WILL USE BACKSTROM

"It depends on how seriously the ligaments are torn, if any of them are," Blake said. "But I'm not counting on him... and I'll put Backstrom in there."

This means the Beliveau line of Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion and John Ferguson will be centred by Ralph Backstrom, one of the smaller men in Blake's charge, who has distinguished himself in the Toronto series.

In Montreal, the Canadiens announced they are calling up Claude Larose, a right winger with Omaha of the Central Pro League, to fill in for the injured centre. Larose played 21 games with Montreal in the regular season and picked up one goal and one assist.

The loss of Beliveau came on the heels of an ankle injury to speedy winger Gilles Tremblay, a 26-goal man during the season, lost to the team after the opener against Toronto.

"We can't afford to lose Beliveau, too," a chagrined Clade Provost said.

"That's two good scorers and that's too many to lose, especially in a playoff." Ferguson was the only other ailing players, bothered by a sore throat for which he was given penicillin.
