Scotland Yard Reports Police Dogs Great Success

LONDON, (Reuters) — Scotland Yard's 114 police dogs have been putting teeth into the law with remarkable success since the four-legged sleuths began pounding regular beats in 1946.

The German shepherd and Labrador dogs have proved most successful in Hyde Park, the rolling acres of lawns, woods and flower gardens in the heart of the metropolis.

In 1946, the harassed police force, seriously depleted by war demands, received reports of 219 cases of handbag snatching.

The thieves have learned canine cops are harder to fool than the human ones.

Some dogs have achieved remarkable records. Ben, a black Labrador, has 114 arrests to his credit, and Rajah has 66.

They're generally one-man dogs. Each goes through the entire three-month training period with a policeman, or "handler," and learns to work with him alone.

An exception are the Hyde Park squad dogs, who are trained to work with more than one man.

At school, the dogs learn to track; to chase their prey over walls and other obstacles, and to grab him and hang on without harming him.

Blank revolver shots are fired at them, together with other loud noises and distractions.

When a dog finishes his training, he lives in his policeman-master's home and the policeman is paid an allowance for his keep.

One hour of the dog's work day is spent in grooming and keeping fit for the other seven hours.

Their job consists of more than just catching criminals. One dog, Rex, recently was called out to help search a forest on the outskirts of London for a man who tried to commit suicide by taking poison.

Historic Car Is Still On Roads

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP) — A horseless carriage that was a revolutionary development in 1898 can be seen chugging around the roads here now and then.

The historic car was the first of 25 LeRoy Autos made by the Good brothers here. It has been restored to running condition by Lionel Sandy Rider, a garage mechanic whose hobby is rejuvenating "antique" cars.

The LeRoy looks like a buggy and is steered by a tiller bar instead of a steering wheel.

Dr. Milton Good, now of Wasaga Beach, Ont., and the late Nelson Good manufactured 25 of the autos before they had to give up for lack of financial backing.

Dr. Good says the vehicle was the first car to cross the Canada-United States border. The crossing was made in 1900 when he and his brother drove from Waterloo to Brown City, Mich.

Parts for the cars were made in the basement of the Good home. A blacksmith at Waterloo, named Kaufman, built the chassis.

Sees Brighter Future For Coal Industry

HALIFAX, (CP) — Dr. R. D. Howland, economic adviser to the Nova Scotia government, said Tuesday it is his belief that the coal industry can look to "a far more profitable future" after a struggle of 10 or 15 years.

Speaking before the Anglican diocesan council for social services, Dr. Howland said, "We definitely have our backs to the wall but... if we have the courage to tackle the problem in its true light we can look to a far more profitable future."

Sydney Oram, president of the Nova Scotia Federation of Labor, said the miners are co-operating with management in the current mechanization program.

"We fully realize the future well-being of the miners depends on the success of this venture," he said. But he criticized the provincial government for not providing aid for miners thrown out of work.

Is Named Croydon Justice Of Peace

LONDON, (CP) — Geoffrey H. Ward, secretary of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in Great Britain for 33 years, has been named a justice of the peace for Croydon, Surrey.

Ward, one of the best-known members of the Anglo-Canadian community in London, was born in Britain but emigrated to Canada as a child and farmed at Watford, Ont., and Perdue, Sask., later serving in the Canadian armed forces during the First World War.

He says he considers himself "virtually a Canadian" because of his long association with the Canadian business community here.

The new appointment means he will sit as one of three magistrates on the Croydon bench.
