HENRY FIELDS, at Pleasant Valley, Brook field, had his house burned on Friday forenoon last. Mr. Fields had been sick and confined to his bed for some time, and to warm his room an iron pot filled with glowing coals was placed within it. No one was present except himself at the time the fire started, and he was too weak to help himself. It was some time before the unfortunate man was rescued, the house being almost burned over his head. Neighbors placed him within two beds, and carried him to an adjacent dwelling. The furniture was partly saved. No insurance. The family are thereby left in rather poor circumstances.—Truro Guardian.

GRIP in its last issue says: "Unless Mr. Blake makes a sharp curve as the result of recent enlightenment it would not be at all surprising to find Sir John Macdonald coming out for Prohibition in time to save himself in the next General Election. It is broadly hinted that he has the matter under consideration at the present moment, and that cannot be denied that he has done more startling things in the past. It is said that personally, Sir John is in favor of Prohibition, and that for some years past he has been a total abstainer. However that may be, he is unquestionably keen enough to see that as a political move Prohibition is safe and popular, and as a politician that is all he wants to know about it.

A SHORT time ago we copied a paragraph from the Gloucester, Mass, Advertiser, relating to a suit brought by the Russian Cement Co., against Mr. W. N. LePage, Manager of LePage's Liquid Glue and Cement Co., to restrain the latter Company from using the name "LePage," the Russia Cement Co. claiming that it was a trade mark of theirs. In giving a decision in the case, the Court decided that it was not a trade mark; the law of Massachusetts being that when a man leaves a concern in which his name has been used, that concern cannot use the name without the written consent of the party retiring. The Russia Cement Co. were about eight months ago notified to stop using the name, but paid no attention to the request. As a result, a suit has been instituted against them to restrain them from using the name.

To the Civic Electors of Ch'town:

GENTLEMEN,—

With the approval of the great majority of the Electors who so unexpectedly and unsolicited nominated and so generously elected me in September last to the vacancy in the Mayoralty caused by the lamented death of Henry Beer, Esq., I am again a Candidate for the office. Having been informed that my opponents are actively engaged in mis-representing me to the Electors upon the question of supplying the City with water, I take the earliest opportunity of stating that I am strongly in favor of the introduction of Waterworks, and as the contract for their construction by a Company has been abandoned, I shall be prepared, if elected Mayor, to cheerfully support their introduction and construction by the City Corporation, provided a majority of the taxpayers are in favor of so doing.
