Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

A Quality Most Desired.
Among the qualities most to be desired in a young girl's character is a high sense of honor. I wish I could impress on every reader the need of being always above everything petty or small, so that one would not for a single moment be tempted to do a mean or underhand thing, to speak unkindly of a friend, or to repeat a conversation which was confidential.

It may happen to you, for instance, to be visiting in the home of a relative or friend, where there may be a little friction at the table, or where some anxiety arises about the course of a member of the family. No matter what you see or hear, in such circumstances you are bound, if you are an honorable person, to be silent about it, neither making comments nor looking as if you could tell something if you choose, nor in any way alluding to what is unpleasant, at any future time. A guest in a home cannot be too careful to guard the good name of those under his roof, for it is an honor to be a guest in the first place, and honor is demanded in return.

Again, a nice sense of honor in matters connected with money is very important. Polly is treasurer of a society, and has the care of the funds. She must never for an instant, or in an emergency lend these funds to other people, or borrow them for her own use. I know a girl —Polly was her name, by the way—who was induced, being treasurer of a certain guild, to lend her brother, for one day, the money she had in her care. The brother was older than Polly, and a very persuasive person. He said: "Why should you hesitate? I'll bring it back to you to-night, and it will oblige me very much if I can take that fifty dollars and pay a bill I owe before noon to-day." Foolish Polly permitted her scruples to be overruled. The money was not brought back, but but for her father's kindness in making it good she would have been disgraced as a dishonest treasurer. She told me long afterward that the lesson had been burned in her mind never to take liberties with money which she held in trust.—Harper's Round Table.

Instruction in the preparation of most of these dishes could be clearly and practically given, and each family in which they are introduced would be decidedly benefited by the acquisition of knowledge on this subject.
