THE DAILY EXAMINER

AUGUST 9, 1899.

"WE ARE IN FOR IT."

It was expressly stipulated that the Provincial subsidy on account of the bridge across the Hillsborough should "not exceed $2,000 a year," and the idea that it might be much less was sedulously cultivated and kept before the public by the Liberals in the Legislature. But this idea has now been knocked all to pieces. We quote the following telegram from Ottawa: "On bill (183) to authorize the government to construct a railway from Charlottetown to Murray Harbor, Prince Edward Island, Mr. Martin called attention to the clause making construction contingent on the payment of $12,000 a year by the provincial government toward the cost of the Hillsborough bridge, which constitutes part of the line. Mr. Martin said provincial legislation provided for the payment of only so much per year as would meet the interest on the cost of a highway bridge. This might be less than $12,000. Mr. Martin thought that in view of the large subsidies given to bridges in Quebec the federal government might well afford to contribute 15 per cent. of the cost of a highway bridge. If the Minister of Railways could not agree to this he would suggest that the bill be amended, providing that the provincial contribution should not exceed $12,000, so that it may be made less."

"Davies and Blair said that the local Government was willing to contribute $12,000 and had arranged to do so."

"Mr. Bell, P. E. I., liberal, supported Martin. He did not agree that the provincial legislature contemplated so large a payment."

"Sir L. H. Davies grew quite impatient over these objections and Blair said no smaller amount than $24,000 would be received."

"Mr. Bell maintaining that the Dominion was driving a hard bargain with the province. The bill was reported and read a third time."

So that the Province must, in any case, contribute the full amount of $12,000 per year. This is the first result of "going it blind" against which the Opposition in the Legislature protested. We look for other unpleasant results in the future. It appears according to the report, that the whole work—railway as well as bridge—is under the bill, absolutely contingent upon the payment of $12,000 a year by the Province. The Liberals here us before the wind and evidently intend to drive us.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

—There are "ballots" in the cry "Vote Them Down" that was raised by Mr. Marshall. But the Guardian hesitates to use it. Would it be "discreet," you know, for our independent contemporary to hit the Liberal leaders hard.

—The Guardian's smartness lacks the essential element. It will be admitted, we think, that THE EXAMINER'S courtesy in giving a full reply to its jering question deserved courteous recognition and not flippant misrepresentation. Perhaps the Guardian will now say why it refrains from supporting Mr. Marshall's reasonable appeal to all prohibitionists to vote the false Liberal Governments out. Wouldn't it be discreet to do so? The programme is an excellent one, and the list of entries large. The medals to be awarded in the different events are on view in Paton & Co's window. Arrange to attend.

CALEDONIAN CLUB.—Members of the Caledonian Club and visiting clansmen are requested to meet at the Club Rooms this evening at 8 o'clock. Tomorrow all members of the club and all visiting clansmen are expected to be at the Club Room in full regalia at ten o'clock to watch thence to the music of pipes and band to the athletic grounds to attend the games.

DANCING COMPETITION.—The step dancing competition to have taken place at the League of the Cross picnic, did not come off at that time because of the unfavorable weather. It took place yesterday afternoon at the summer quarters of the League at McNally's Island. Sam Doyle won first prize, George Hennessey second and Pat Hughes third. The competition was limited to the boys of the League. Dr. Conroy, D'O'M Reddin, and W. J. O'Rielly were the judges.

OPERA HOUSE.—There was a large audience at the Opera House last evening to see Jepson's production of "Darkest Russia," and everyone was pleased with the manner of presentation. The play has an interesting plot treating of life in the Czar's domain, and there is a vein of good clean comedy running through it. The stage settings were very elaborate. The company is a strong one, and the various characters were cleverly delineated. The only drawback was the late hour at which the performance began, but this was unavoidable.

A correspondent writes concerning the death of Joseph Enman: "He had not touched liquor since last March. He has been subject to weak heart, and several times he has fallen when attacked. On Monday afternoon he complained of feeling ill and took some liquor, but not enough to affect him. As he was driving, the reins suddenly dropped from his hands, and he fell, evidently in one of his fits, and being unconscious he had no chance to extricate himself from his dangerous position." This explanation is given by one who has enquired into the matter, and we sincerely hope that it is true, notwithstanding the report to the contrary.

It's here awa', there awa', how they will rin, at the gathering on Thursday.

Harrah for the thistle, the bonnie Scotch thistle on Thursday at the gathering.

Come all ye jolly Scotchmen and go to the gathering on Thursday.

Scotchmen for home and for love will go to the gathering on Thursday.
