Successful Field Day Held At O'Leary

Another in the series of Field Days was conducted yesterday under the direction of Mr. W. N. Black, Supervisor of Illustration Stations for this province, on the farm of Mr. Robert Woodside and Son, O'Leary. It was largely attended with over 150 people taking part.

Guest speaker of the afternoon was Mr. J. E. Shuh, Assistant Provincial Agronomist in the Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture and Marketing. The methods adopted in ensiling grasses and clover were reviewed by the speaker who stressed the importance of high quality silage as a partial substitute for mill feeds.

Mr. Shuh pointed that dairy farmers in Nova Scotia were finding it satisfactory and most economical in greatly aiding in cutting down on the feed bills. He dealt with the various types and preservation of silage, as well as telling of the machinery used in harvesting grasses and clover. He will speak again today at the Field Day to be held on the farm of William E. Johnstone, New London.

After a welcome to the farm extended by Mr. Woodside the guests heard a review of the varieties of oats, wheat and barley under test at this station. It was given by Mr. R. B. MacLaren, Cerealist of the Experimental Station, Charlottetown, who intimated there were a number of interesting varieties of barley which showed some promise and which might serve in the future as parent material for development of new and improved strains. However, Charlottetown No. 20 has proved satisfactory and is still the recommended variety. Judging classes were conducted in livestock and four Holstein cows in milk were scored by the visiting farmers under the supervision of Mr. S. C. Wright, Provincial Department of Agriculture. While the men were in the fields the women were entertained by Miss Mary H. Robin, Supervisor of Women's Institutes, who gave an interesting demonstration and talk on 'Good School Lunches.'

Dr. G. Fisher, Director of Veterinary Services, gave an outline of the work of his department and the services available to farmers as well as dealing briefly with some common diseases in livestock herds.

Mr. William N. Black reviewed the experimental work active at this station and took the farmers on a tour of the various experimental plots.

The afternoon concluded with a splendid bean supper served by the Women's Institute of the community.

Federal Aid

has come for the C.T.F. to review carefully the stand taken in respect to this question in August, 1947. He accordingly recommended that consideration be given to the appointment of a special Federal Aid Committee to review the progress of the past three or four years and to suggest in some detail a course for future policy and action. This recommendation was referred to the resolutions committee.

Also referred to the resolutions committee was a proposal by Mr. Crookery that a study be made of means to extend the research programme of the Canadian Teachers' Federation.

"Many of our members," he said, "engage in research projects under other auspices; a number of provincial teachers' organizations are ready to embark on provincial research programmes. Let us consolidate our resources, pool at least a portion of the funds that may be earmarked for research, and set up a central organization for this purpose that will earn the respect of the educational authorities, the parents and the public generally."

Mr. Crookery's report also contained an extensive review of the year's activities of the C. T. F.

their creed or their color may be."

The speaker said he particularly noticed after sitting in on executive meetings of the National Union of Teachers in London that their program was very similar to those of Canadian teachers. Speaking of the devastation of London through the bombings of the early days of the war and the still existing piles of rubble ten years later, he asked if it was "already too late for the world to find a solution to the fears and greed and distrust and the selfishness and the insane ambitions in the minds of men that bring such things to pass."

He added that in the future civilization would have to apologize for the hard, cold cruel logic of guns and tanks and bombs and scientific unemotional murder.

Marshall Plan Aid

Mr. Wiggins related how on Sunday a week ago he spent a few hours with the chief administrator of Marshall Plan aid to Italy and thus learned a new concept of citizenship. He said he was given evidence from the source that the material assistance North America has poured into Europe during the past four years has not been in vain. Italy for the first time is tasting the benefits of democracy.

"North America and the Western World has accepted the challenge to save our way of life and to save for them their way of life for all those who believe in the basic freedoms and the dignity of the common man."

Telling of the part the average person can play, he said that here in Canada the Canadian Teachers Federation has within its grasp an opportunity to be a force not only a contributing force shaping the destiny of Canada, but the most powerful force for good that exists in the whole nation. He said the teachers must go on with no thought of dividing or diluting their effectiveness and no hesitation in accepting the challenge of Europe.

Mr. Wiggins closed with a plea to the teachers in their deliberations of the next few days to prove to the peoples of Europe that Canadians can live together in harmony. This can be done by tolerance and a greater understanding of the problems which tend to divide the teaching profession.

Fraternal Greetings

Following the presentation of reports yesterday morning there were several speakers present who offered fraternal greetings from the organizations they represent. Among them was Dr. Willard E. Givens, executive secretary, National Education Association of the United States.

Dr. Givens said that his visit with the teachers here finally completed his tour of Canada as he had now visited every one of the provinces. In seconding Mr. Wiggins' remarks about the devastation caused by war, the speaker presented some startling financial figures. He stated that in the 44 months the United States was in World War 2 the country had spent $10,000 per second. He emphasized it by pointing out that if his country embarked on a peace campaign it could spend $13 billion a year for the next 100 years to equal what the last war had cost them.

He spoke of the high speeds reached today in all fields of locomotion and said that education had to move fast in this modern world to keep up with the speed of living.

ada' for the country's future because life was made for victory and never for defeat. He described the work of labour in the educational field and said he would like to see the teaching profession more closely allied with organized labour. He compared salaries paid teachers with the minimum $200 per month the union paid its stenographers and said the educators could have union help for the asking.

Mr. J. A. Whitebone, Trades and Labour Congress of Canada, reiterated the ideas previously expressed and said that teachers of British Columbia were already affiliated with his organization. He told the teachers it was all very well to have pride in their work, "but you also have to make a living while you do it."

Greetings were also presented at the gathering from Lt. Col. L. T. Lowther, on behalf of the Canadian Legion, Dominion Command; Mrs. T. W. L. Prowse, for the National Council of Women of Canada; Dr. L. W. Shaw, for the Canadian Education Association; Rev. Dr. R. V. MacKenzie, the National Conference of Canadian Universities; Mr. F. W. Begin New Exhibition Building At Alberton

New Business In Summerside

The foundation for Alberton's new Exhibition Building was completed Tuesday afternoon. It is of cement blocks two feet square placed five feet apart. The new building will be 125 by 32 feet, which is six feet wider than the old building which collapsed during a storm last month. The new building will be finished with novelty siding and the roof will be done with black asphalt twin-but shingles. There will be double doors at each end as well as side entrances.

Details of plans for the interior of the building are not yet completed but some changes from the old ones are being contemplated. One of these being to have the domestic science booth at one end rather than in the middle of the building.

The kitchen and dining room which were at the west end of the old building did not collapse and have been made into a separate building which stands some thirty feet west of the building now being constructed.

Much lumber was salvaged but it has been necessary to purchase a quantity of new material as well. This has been obtained from the airport at Mount Pleasant. Construction is in charge of Mr. Howard Clark, assisting him with the foundation were Mr. Russell Hardy and Mr. Lester Wallace who are skilled in cement work. A number of other men have been employed as well. It is hoped that with the completion of the making there will be considerable
