IN some localities apple trees are already badly infested with caterpillar webs and the foliage will soon be loaded with worms unless proper measures are taken Cornell university and the experiment stations at one or two other places, have fixed upon Paris green as an effective remedy for worms or insects of any kind, which infest trees or plants. The spray used should consist of four ounces of Paris green in fifty gallons of water, or in that proportion.—Hlfx Chronicle.

AT the police court yesterday forenoon in the liquor stealing case, after taking the evidence of Cummings, which corresponded in all material points with that of O'Connor, these two lads as well as Valley and Mahar were sent up for trial in the Supreme Court. Wakefield and McEwen were remanded. For entering Arch. Kennedy's store and taking knives and some other articles therefrom Wm Mahar, Bernard McMahon and Wm. Potter were sent up to the Supreme Court.

IF you want a standard-bred stallion, mare or filly, you can get it by attending the sale of royally bred horses at Parkside Farm, Summerside, on Dominion Day. C. D. Rankin :

DEAR SIR,—I was induced to try a bottle of the Lilac Flower through the agent of the Company as a test of its merit, and must say that one bottle gave me relief, and have not felt since the pain I had suffered for ten years previous to taking the above remedy. I had consulted many doctors without any good result and can now cheerfully recommend this medicine to any one suffering from dyspepsia.

ON Sunday evening, while Mr. Donald Nicholson, tobacconist, was looking through the steamer Northumberland he asked one of the hands to show him into one of the cabins. By some misunderstanding instead of entering the cabin he stepped into the hold, falling a distance of nine feet. He was taken up unconscious, and considerably bruised about his body and face. Dr. S. T. Jenkins was on the steamer at the time, and after some time succeeded in restoring consciousness, and did all he could to relieve the injured man. We are pleased to learn that Mr. Nicholson is recovering rapidly from the effects of the accident and hopes to be able to move out this evening, although he suffers a good deal from his elbow which was badly sprained

ON Sunday the Rev. J. R. Thompson, M. A., D. D., of Washington, preached morning and evening in St. James' Church. His subject in the morning was "Christ's Divinity," and in the evening "Christ's Humanity." Both sermons gave evidence of much thought. We have heard a number of the ablest preachers on this side of the Atlantic, and can truly say the sermon preached last night was a masterpiece of eloquence. After the evening service the Doctor addressed a large gathering in the Upper Prince St. Methodist Church on missionary work in the Northwest, and for upwards of three-quarters of an hour held the close attention of all as he graphically described the working of the missions in that large field. Dr. Thompson is an Islander, and the son of the late Isaac Thompson, Esq., of Suffolk, Lot 34.

Nothing adds so much to a person's appearance as a fine thick head of hair of even color, and to assure this, use only Hall's Hair Renewer.

THE gymnasium of the Charlottetown Athletic Association was opened last night. There was a large attendance of spectators who heartily enjoyed the exercises gone through by a class of some fifteen or sixteen of the members, under the direction of Instructor King. The first exercises were given upon the parallel bars where some of the amateurs almost rivalled the professor himself. Then there came the tumbling, turning, handsprings and summersaults. The agility shown by some of the tyros in tumbling over one, two, three and even six men speaks volumes for the future success of the gymnasts, and is sufficient guarantee that when, two or three months hence, they will give an exhibition, there will be something worth going to see. There were also exercises in vaulting, exercises with rings, poles, etc., etc., which were all very interesting. The applause sometimes when a novice followed close upon the example of his instructor was most cordial; sometimes the faux pas of an ardent but untutored gymnast produced a lively burst of merriment. The performances of Mr. King were every time greatly admired by the spectators, and we may here say that in every respect he seems to be the right man in the right place. We wish the association great success.

Education and the State.

In yesterday's issue of the Daily I noticed your note of alarm lest the Government meddle with the School Law. I may say my political complexion is Grit every time; yet I have always considered the provisions of our School Law exceeded the necessities of the case. I believe it to be the duty of the state to afford facilities so that every child may obtain a fair English education, and that every child be compelled to take advantage of those facilities; but I deny the right of the state to expend public monies in teaching Classics, Mathematics, etc.

You say the reported change would effect a saving of from $10,000 to $11,000 a year, and you add the Government would tax the teachers that amount. Now, Sir, I can hardly see it in that light. There is quite a number of our schools—first-class schools—with a principal and an assistant in charge, and in many instances, if not all, the principal draws more than double the pay his assistant does; and in many cases also the principal has not one-third the pupils to teach that his assistant has, and that one-third advanced branches or studies which I deny the state had any right to provide for.

In many school districts the education of a few advanced scholars cost the state more by far than all the rest of the children of the district. If it is proper that this luxury be enjoyed by one district why not by all.

Very many of our teachers have received their education at the public expense. Nearly one half of our revenue goes to support education. This being the case I think the teachers have little to complain of if they should be placed on the same plane as the rest of us. Merit as a rule will always secure a position with reasonable pay. Would it not be fair that those who require a first-class school should pay for it In the case of a man having two sons one is to remain on the farm the other is to prepare for a literary profession, I ask why should the state furnish education for the one and not a farm for the other.

I am not opposed to education but I am opposed to taxing the poor man, who has to make sacrifices in order to send his children to school to get a common English education, so that a few who could well afford it may have their children taught Latin, etc., at the public expense. I believe a great deal of the stuff taught in our schools is useless. Is there not enough in the domain of studies to occupy the school days of our youth that in after life would be of some service? I think not only our law but our text books want overhauling. I believe we can safely trust those who made the law to revise it so as to suit the changed condition.

Yours, etc.,

NEWS BY TELEGRAPH

Cabinet Making !

NO EASY TASK FOR THE NEW PREMIER.

OTTAWA, June 15.—Hon. Senator Abbott is having trouble over the construction of the ministry. Chapleau is likely to cause disturbance as he wants to be made Minister of Railways and Canals. It is said Abbott will defy him and stand by Sir Hector Langevin. Trouble is expected and Chapleau men state that they will ask the house to-morrow why Langevin was not given the precedence to which he was entitled and if Sir John Thompson was passed over because he is a Catholic. [A despatch to the Times (Conservative) says:—"The announcement that Mr. Abbott had been called spread with lightning rapidity. Soon the news was eagerly discussed at every street corner and in the clubs and hotels. Nearly all the government supporters are absent, but those in town differ greatly in opinion as to the wisdom of the Governor General's choice. Sir Charles Tupper still possesses many warm adherents who feel certain he will be summoned before another week elapses. All his Quebec supporters do not regard Hon. Mr. Abbott favorably, and if they persist in this course, great events will occur during the coming week. Sir John Thompson gave his assurances of support to Mr. Abbott, who after an hour's conference with the Governo General to-day, proceeded to hunt up the the Hon. Mr Chapleau.
