Of Special Interest to our Farmers

Feeding the Pigs.

An Experimenter, in Farmers Advocate, remarks that the most important principle to be observed in feeding for bacon seems to be the development of the animal naturally. Let his weight come as far as possible by growth rather than increase of fat. To this end, therefore, it is necessary to feed a ration containing a high proportion of flesh forming food, and peas, oats and barley fill the bill. Any one of these grains fed alone will not, as a rule give such good gains as a mixture of them. Variety is usually a very important consideration in feeding animals, and the pig is no exception.

In feeding for bacon, it is found that the early rations in the feeding period are not so marked in their influence upon the quality as the later, and advantage may be taken of this to use some cheaper ration during the building-up of, say, the first 125 lbs. of his pigship, care being taken to keep in a good growing condition rather than to fatten. Shorts, bran, corn and pasture or roots may, therefore, very properly go to make up his early rations, and will materially lessen the ultimate cost. With corn, it is necessary to supply a liberal quantity of foods containing protein for muscle-building and ash for the bones.

The ration which gives the greatest gain in pork for amount fed is corn-meal and milk, and is, in most sections, the cheapest ration as well, but great care must be used in feeding it, as it is very liable to give soft pork, or at least too fat to suit the best markets. On the average, 3 lbs. of corn and as much milk will produce a pound of pork in summer, while the amount of every other grain required for a similar gain is considerably greater. Barley stands well up in rank as a rapid pork-producer, and a very high percentage of animals finished on this feeding may be expected to yield hard bacon. Peas and oats also give good results, and may be counted upon as economical and rather reliable finishing feeds.

With feed stuffs at present prices, and under usual winter conditions in Canada, a pound of gain in live weight may be estimated to cost on the average: from corn, 2 3/4c; from barley, 3c.; from oats, 3 1/4c.; from peas, 3 1/2c.; from a mixture of oats, peas and barley, almost 3c. The above estimate takes into consideration the cost of a due proportion of milk.

To prepare a field and get it into a perfect state of tillage and then sow it with an inferior quality of seed is simply an absurd policy to follow. Yet there are many farmers guilty of just such practices as this, and if when harvest approaches the crop is a failure they wonder what is the matter. In rearing cattle or any other kind of stock, good feeding and good breeding must go hand in hand. And so with growing grain, good seeding or providing good seed and good tillage and cultivation must go hand in hand.—Exchange.

Fowls in Confinement.

If poultry confined in yards could be well managed, they would pay better than when given a range; but to give a small flock proper attention would cost too much labor. When one keeps a flock for pleasure, the labor is bestowed without regard to cost, but on the farm the case is different.

When birds are confined they learn vices. They begin to eat their eggs, and pull feathers from the breasts and bodies of one another. This is due to idleness. If idleness can be avoided, the fowls will not learn vices. Fowls in yards become pets, and they are fed by every member of the family. As the hens soon learn to recognize their friends, they run to the attendant upon the first sound of approaching footsteps, and the result is that they are given food frequently, because they are supposed to be hungry. Their crops are always full, they become lazy and fat, having nothing to do; then, like all other idle creatures, learn vices. There is no point more essential to learn in keeping fowls in yards than that of when not to feed. All know when to feed, but to have the courage to withhold food is the most important requisite in the management.—Farmer's Advocate.

A Question of Pedigree.

'Now, who is that,' asked the dignified hen.— That chicken in white and grey? She's very well dressed, but whence did she come, And her ancestors, who are they? 'She never can move in our set, my dear,' Said the old hen's friend to her later, 'I've just found out, you'll be shocked to hear, She was hatched in an incubator!' —Selected.

Farmers should make it an object to have a good garden, one that will supply the family with choice, fresh vegetables from early in the spring until frost. The health of the family will be better. And living expenses less as the vegetables take the place of less wholesome food, that would otherwise have to be bought with products of the farm.
