

MR. AND MRS. DALE CAMPBELL

Free Church Of Scotland Has Very Pretty Wedding

The Charlottetown Free Church of Scotland manse was the scene of a pretty summer wedding when Rev. J.H. Bishop united in marriage Eleanor Carol, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Omer L. Ferguson to George Dale, son of Mr. and Mrs. A.G. Campbell, both of Melville.

The bride looked lovely in a street length dress of Heavenly Blue film nylon chiffon and tulle over net with white accessories. Her corsage was of white roses.

The bridesmaid, Miss Kathleen Campbell, sister of the groom, chose a street length dress of delicate pink nylon, coin dots, with white accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses. The best man was Mr. Howard Ross of Charlottetown.

Following the ceremony the wedding party then drove to a reception at the groom's home, where amid friends and relatives a delicious turkey supper was served. The reception room was delightfully decorated with pink and white streamers and assorted balloons.

The bride and groom's table was centered with a three tier cake topped by a miniature bride and groom. Mr. Omer Ferguson proposed a toast to the bride, which was ably responded to by the groom. Amid flashing bulbs the bride and groom cut the wedding cake in the traditional manner.

The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing, the music being provided by Mr. Clayton Singleton and Mr. James MacLean. The young couple were the recipients of many lovely gifts both at the wedding and at a post nuptial shower tendered them the following week at the groom's home.

Five Hundred Guests Are Welcomed To Gov. House

Government House was the setting for a lovely summer dance last evening when approximately five hundred guests enjoyed the gracious hospitality of His Honour, the Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. Ryndman.

Massive arrangements of peonies formed the background against which the Governor and his wife received the guests to Government House.

Peonies and snap dragon were used as decorations throughout the other drawing-rooms. In the dining-room the defecatory square table was centered with a silver bowl of pink snapdragon with lighted pink tapers.

Pouring tea were the following ladies: Mrs. A. W. Matheson, Mrs. Mark MacGuigan, Mrs. George Mackay, Mrs. W. R. Shaw.

Serving were the following: Mrs. H. H. Simpson, Mrs. Wilfrid Brennan, Mrs. K. A. MacEachern, Mrs. E. McCarey, Mrs. Charles Bentley, Mrs. Bennett Carr, Mrs. A. W. Gaudet, Miss Barbara Dodson, Miss Nancy Ryndman, Mrs. Roy MacGillivray, Mrs. Thomas Rogers, Miss Jan Rankin.

ELLEN'S DIARY

Maligned Fowl Company Enjoy Mangel Munching

This afternoon the farmers at Alderlea sharpened hoes and went then in the road to John Rob's at the wedding. In all five worked along the rows. If this had not been the afternoon of his church-school picnic (in the near park) a pleasurable outing of the summer, Mack too would have been numbered with the rest at this chore which according to James he and Gage manage "very well for their age" and so are "quite a help" to their elders at this farming.

If Science has shown the content of turnips to be in the main only water, our farmers still continue to grow them, indeed each year it seems sees more pieces along the fields given over to their culture and that of mangels as well. They believe there is no better (helping) feed grown to maintain the health of the stock through the winter-stabling and spring.

In autumn the mangels are stored in this old cellar in a quantity which allows the present poultry-woman of the place to appropriate a choice pair or more of them daily. And openly and above board without drawing the least murmur of criticism, or the complaint that "It's that sow in the far pen should be getting those and not those pesky hens!" carry them across the yard to make favored pecking material for her often maligned company of fowls.

Chicks, interesting babes, of things, some home-hatched according to nature, others incubated and brought in to make replacements for the flock which so nicely supplies our tables are now among the varied subjects summering in the old orchard. And as a result of solving with much surprise a mystery of continued disappearance in the number in last year's poultry farming, a current reminder of cooos and children is "Keep your eyes on the cats!"

A July week we now part with. One of our favorites of the year, July's daughter that we are. Freshly green it beguiles us—haylands unspooled by the mowers. Meadow flowers bloom; the daisies in white, tangles of blue

We must get home—we must get home again!

We must get home! There only may we find. The little playmates that we left behind—
Some racing down the road some by the brook;
Some droning at their desks with wistful look
Across the fields and orchards—farther still
Where laughs the old wheel at the mill.
Until Monday — — — Dairy, Good-night.
