KODIAK ESKIMOS ARE EVACUATED

This family of Eskimos is one of the many which have been evacuated from Kodiak Island's Old Harbor area after disastrous tidal wave struck the island off the Alaska coast. Brought to the mainland they are being quartered in Anchorage's Airport Heights school by the Red Cross. (AP Wirephoto).

Most Dealers Favor One Desk Spud Sales

"A break we should have had 10 years ago," was the way Horace B. Willis deemed the possible change to a one desk central selling agency for all seed potatoes and the export potato business on Prince Edward Island.

It would be an advantage to the dealers because they would not have to arrange to supply growers with fertilizer.

Other opinions expressed on the possible change were that dealers would have to meet for a "wide discussion" and it would separate the men from the boys. Most dealers will go along with anything good E. D. Reid said.

If the growers make a success of the change it will be good, but if they make a mistake it would be a disaster, Jerome O'Brien of Gulf Potato Co. commented.

He also said it was too soon to comment on the situation as they have no information on what they hope to do. They will sell have to have a plebiscite.

Mr. O'Brien also said that there would be a lot of danger in the change for the dealers.

The change was discussed at a largely attended meeting held Monday by potato growers and they voted in favor of such an agency and passed a resolution asking that a plebiscite be held among Island farmers. The dealers comments were made yesterday morning.

Centennial Chorale To Perform April 2

KENSINGTON — The Kensington Centennial Chorale will stage their first performance at the Kensington Regional High School on Thursday, April 2, at 8 p.m., and the girls have been diligently practicing on week ends. All are former members of the Kensington United Church Junior Choir. Nancy Clark, Betty Marjorie Paynter, Norma Ramsay and Kathleen Walker are students at Kensington Regional High School. Astrid Johnson is married and lives at Margate with her husband and a small son. Elizabeth Waugh is married and has three children. She lives on a farm in Wilmot. Myrna Moore is also farm wife and has two boys. Sharon Howatt is a nurse - in - training in the P.E. Island Hospital. Judith Waite is a first year student at Prince of Wales College. Jean Murray teaches in a school in Oxford, N.S., and her sister, Margaret is also a teacher at Bedford.

The girls are a little disappointed that the blazers in Centennial blue that have been on order for some time have not been delivered. However, an attractive uniform of a white box pleated skirt and a red over blouse will be worn for this presentation.

Songs on the Patriotic theme will include "Our Island Home". Sacred songs will include "All Glory be to God on High", "Country Garden" will be one of the old favorites, and one of the classical songs will be "Come, see where Golden Hearted Spring". Spirituals will include "He never said a Mumblin' Word", and one of the folk songs will be "In the Valley Below".

This is bound to be a rare treat for all music lovers, and a large audience is expected for this first performance.

Speaker Appeals To Islanders To 'Accentuate The Positive'

KENSINGTON — Have we taken full advantage of the opportunities we do have?" was a question asked by Wendall MacKay, Deputy Provincial Treasurer, addressing the ensington Area Board of Trade at the general meeting held on Wednesday night.

"Accentuate the positive", was the theme throughout Mr. MacKay's address as he appealed to the people of the province, and especially to the people of Kensington to forsake negative thinking in their attitude toward the opportunities to be found here.

Speaking specifically of Kensington, he pointed out some of the many advantages enjoyed by the town and area, which should be put to use, attracting the tourist with dollars to spend, some of which might as well be spent here.

The three basic requirements of tourists, he said, are a place to eat, a place to sleep, and something to occupy their time in between. On the first, tourists only want our native dishes "which happen to be good, plain, wholesome, well - cooked, home grown food, well served in bright, clean surroundings." Fresh fruit and vegetables, should replace the canned product which is now served in so many restaurants even in the height of the harvest season. Developing this theme, Mr. MacKay went on to deplore the fact that much of our rich agricultural land lies unused, while our hotels and restaurants must import fruit and vegetables, which could more easily and cheaply be grown here, and be of much higher quality".

Speaking on the second requirement of the tourist - accommodations, he expressed the opinion that many of our farm homes offer the most ideal accommodations, especially for family groups with children, and suggested listing "all the farm homes in this area, where tourists might stay".

The third requirement, tourist attractions, was answered by the speaker with a long and varied list of places which he said, were within 20 minutes drive of the town of Kensington, included were the many beautiful farms, miles of beaches, Cabot Park, the National Park and a Wildlife park, a number of historic sites, plants of various kinds including one electric plant, fishing wharves and coves and Woodleigh Replicas, which annually attracts thousands of visitors almost to the town's boundaries." "Why," he asked, "Is not Kensington the richest town in Prince Edward Island?" then answered his own question by saying, "I believe there is too much negative thinking by the people who live here and call this area their home", resulting in lack of leadership and initiative.

After pointing out the enormous potential in Kensington, which can only be developed by the people themselves, Mr. MacKay concluded by saying that he had not come to make himself popular, but "I came to point out what I feel is the greatest need in Kensington today — positive thinking."

The speaker was introduced by Keith Harrington, M.L.A., and thanked by Lloyd Lockerby "for his very challenging address".

In the absence of the president, Don Wood presided. In regard to a recent meeting on flax growing, Mr. Wood made it clear that the Board is not sponsoring or rejecting the idea of the flax industry in the area, but is merely carrying out its function by seeing that the information with regard to this industry, is placed before the people who then can judge their course of action for themselves.

Keith Harrington reported on progress being made by the Department of Tourism, on communications system and will link the Kensington and other tourist bureaux for the purpose of exchanging information on accommodations.

Transportation chairman Leaman Caseley was instructed to obtain further information on complaints which had been received on the closing of the waiting rooms at the Borden pier while the ferries are still running.

Fred Semple reported that no action had been taken on the sale of the old Elementary school building.

Willard Stewart reported that the Town Clock had been shipped but installation would not take place until May.

The secretary, Archie Johnstone asked for the names of anyone interested in attending the annual meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce in Winnipeg.

An open invitation was received from E. C. Moore, bank manager to attend the opening of the new bank of Nova Scotia at Kensington on April 4, from 2 to 4 p.m.
