THE TATTLER.

Mrs. Lily Langtry benefits to the extent of $300 yearly by the death of her husband.

Mrs. McKinley prefers Secretary Porter's black horses for her morning drives and has discarded her pair of bays.

Miss Mary Andrews, a graduate of Buchtel college, '96, has just taken charge of the Universalist church at Hamilton, O.

Mrs. N. Honsinger and her daughter Maud of Missoula, Mont., are employed by the state land department in drawing township plats at the different land offices.

Little Ethelwyn Kyle, the 11-year-old daughter of the South Dakota senator, is said to be one of the best bicycle riders in Washington and to be especially fond of trick riding.

Dr. Frieda Lippert has been appointed physician of the new girls' high school in New York. She will have the chair of physiology and also give attention to the needs of the young women.

An interesting character is Mrs. Jacob Wallace, 92 years old, who has lived in the same house on Dutch Neck, in Waldoboro, Me., for 71 years, and who has smoked a pipe every day in the last 66 years.

Miss Stella F. Jenkins, a Kansas City schoolteacher, has been made minister of the Friends' church in that city.

Her mother, Mrs. Frances C. Jenkins, has been a minister of the Quaker church for 45 years. Another sister has also occupied a pulpit in Richmond, Ind.

The only woman engineer in the United States, so it is claimed, is Mrs. Annie Shanivan of Tulare, Cal., who by all accounts is a real Tom Grogan.

She runs a planing mill at Mountain Home, and the mountaineers thoroughly respect her. They call her "our new woman."

Miss Louise Winthrop Keous of New York city, who was recently awarded the scholarship in history offered by the Daughters of the American Revolution, has been re-elected historian of the Governor Thomas Dudley Family association, a position she has held almost since its organization.

Miss Chella Connor, the 19-year-old daughter of A. B. Connor of Felton, Del., recently walked 17 miles in her sleep.

She woke up to find herself on the railroad track near Cheswood. She took the next return train for home and found the whole community scattered far and wide searching for her.

Miss Mary Ann Crothers of Philadelphia, who recently celebrated her one hundred and fourth birthday, claims to be the oldest old maid in the world.

Notwithstanding her great age, she is active and vigorous, doing some of the light work in the house every day. She goes up stairs without help and up to nine years ago walked regularly every Sunday to church, a distance of one mile.

FRUIT FACTS.

Select the potato seed when the crop is dug. In the fall is one of the best times to set out raspberry plants.

Apples should be evenly sorted, uniform in size and quality throughout.

Of the different varieties of fruit the grape is the most difficult to graft.

In fall planting it is best to make a little mound around the stem of a tree.

By planting in long rows, strawberries can be grown as cheaply as potatoes.

Pack apples tightly, so as to prevent damage from moving about in the barrel.

Seeds of nut or forest trees should always be planted before they have had time to dry.

Give trees plenty of room if you would have them thrifty, vigorous and good bearers.

In selecting a place for fruit it is always safest to choose dry upland and avoid a low, muddy soil.

Mulching well in winter and maturing well in summer are the principal secrets in growing fine quinces.

For all kinds of berries mark out the rows wide enough apart so that the cultivation can be done with a cultivator.

Both apples and pears are better if picked before they are quite ripe and kept in a dark, cool room until ready for market.—Exchange.

Lobster Factory

FOR SALE.

The subscribers offer for sale their Lobster Factory, and Premises at Guernsey Cove, Lot 64, consisting of three-fourths of an acre of land, with main buildings 117 feet long, by 22 feet wide and 12 feet post, shingled roof and walk, two floors laid with six inch matched spruce flooring, boiling house attached to south, and 1 1/2 feet square, and 8 feet post, bath house on west side 18 feet square, and 7 1/2 feet post.

—ALSO— Dwelling house 28 1/2 feet long by 23 feet wide and 12 feet post, lower flat all plastered, kitchen attached, 14 feet square, and 8 feet post. The dwelling house with about one third of an acre of land, will be sold separately if desired. A Good Bluff.

There are tricks in all trades, even in cable testing. During last summer's hot spell a certain cable tester made quite a reputation by his rapid and accurate location of faults in a large cable system, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. On the leak being reported at the cable terminal he would appear to make one or two calculations, and then walk, apparently intuitively, to the exact spot where the fault existed.

His cleverness attracted the attention of the officials, and he was in a fair way to have his salary substantially increased when the secret of his astonishing facility leaked out. It turned out that his tests were mere bluff, as he had no knowledge whatever of testing methods.

The cables in this system were saturated with paraffin. When the line was faulty, he started at one end of it and carefully watched the ground or the trees over which the cable hung until he discovered where the paraffin had oozed out through the punctures and left its mark on the ground or foliage beneath. Unfortunately for the tester his method was available only during the very hot weather.

Realistic Journalism.

The palm of journalistic enterprise belongs to a Parisian journalist, though he, poor fellow, has been placed beyond the reach of worldly honors by that same enterprise. M. Henri Martin was editor in chief of the Courrier de Lyon of Paris. He became greatly interested in hanging and had been publishing articles on that subject viewed from a scientific standpoint. Fascinated by his investigations, the journalist announced an article describing the sensations of a hanged man, in collecting the data for which he met his death. He was found dead in his room, hanging from a cord passed over a hook in the ceiling and attached to a dog collar around his neck.

The facts had been brought out in a suit against an insurance company, in which the wife of the journalist seeks to recover 30,000 francs, the amount of the insurance policy held by her husband in the defendant company. The company refused to pay on the ground that he committed suicide. The counsel for the widow contends that M. Martin was making experiments on himself and that his death was accidental.—Newspaperdom.

A Meteorological Phenomenon.

A few days ago the Vicksburg (Miss.) Herald said in a joose way that there would be relief from yellow fever as soon as J. Frost arrived. Two days later the editor received this letter:

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 27. I see in your columns an inquiry about J. Frost. I am the wife of J. Frost, and I'd like to know what you want of J. Frost. Please advise all parties concerned to address me at once in regard to this. MRS. ELIZA FROST.

The Vicksburg paper prints this letter and adds: In explanation of the matter referred to in the foregoing it may be said that the little article in The Herald did not refer to any individual known as Frost, but to a meteorological phenomenon.
