uel. On the final hole, down one to Manuel. Randles missed a 25-foot putt by no more than an inch on his second shot. It would have won the hole for him. As it was, both golfers had par threes.

Manuel, an army colonel now stationed in Halifax, is the tournament dark-horse. Unheralded, he won his way from the qualifying round, in which he was not too impressive with an 80, to the final match.

A native of Halifax, Manuel has moved about the country quite a bit, and revealed Thursday night his links career includes a couple of eastern Ontario championships. His first big victory of the tournament was a one up win over Roy Morrison of Moncton Thursday morning. Then he capped the day with his triumph over Randles.

The title will be decided in 36 holes of match play with Downing and Manuel meeting in 18 this afternoon and another 18 this afternoon. The first round is slated for 10 a.m. and the second for 2:30.

Let's Talk It Over

Now that the Liberal Government has rolled back into power for the fifth successive time, among the general jubilation of the Liberals there must be some little misgiving as to what is to become of our Canadian Senate. Before the next four or five years have passed, the small opposition at present in the Upper House will shrink further, perhaps almost to the vanishing point, and the composition of the Senate will be virtually entirely Liberal.

There are many people, a fair share of them Liberals, who deplore the meagreness of the opposition in the House of Commons. They believe that the stronger a force the opposition is the better will be the Government. But 95 in a House of 265 is at least large enough to create a fairly healthy atmosphere of constructive criticism. In the Senate the somnolent atmosphere which is sometimes ascribed to the Upper Chamber might be expected to increase with everybody pretty much in agreement with the policy of the Canadian Cabinet. Under such circumstances the Senate might conceivably degenerate into little more than a government dormitory.

Such men as Senator J. Walter Jones should be welcome in such an emergency. We cannot imagine our ex-Premier being a "yes-man" even in the Senate. Of Liberal persuasion, he is still ruggedly independent in his way of thinking, and if there were many men of his stripe in the Upper House, it would keep all the members awake just "keeping up with the Joneses."

Huge Attendance At Ball Games In Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, (AP) - National League travelling secretaries are developing an occupational ailment this year—calloused thumbs from counting their clubs' money after a series at Milwaukee with the Braves.

Leo Ward of the St. Louis Cardinals is the latest "victim". His club drew 105,927 fans for a three-day series ending Wednesday night which means the Cardinals took close to $24,000 out of here. Visiting teams get 22 1/2 cents on each paid admission by the turnstile figures. The series was the biggest of the season here. The previous high for a three-day set was last June when Brooklyn pulled 103,880.

The Braves already have drawn 1,344,835 paid admissions for 49 playing dates at their Milwaukee county Stadium home, top figure in the major leagues. That makes the average 27,446. If the average holds up the Braves will come close to 1,800,000 for the season. The all-time National League record is 1,807,526 at Brooklyn in 1947.

Barlow - Mills Wedding

A pretty wedding took place in St. John's Anglican Church, St. Eleanor, Wednesday, July 8, when the Rev. Canon Harrison officiated in holy bonds of matrimony Freda Ann Katherine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mills, of St. Eleanor, and Robert Sterling Bruce, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Barlow, St. Eleanor, in a double-ring ceremony.

As the choir sang "The Voice That Breathed Eden", the bride entered the church on the arm of her father and was attired in a floor-length white satin wedding gown with princess lines with neckline and panels of chantilly lace, long tapered sleeves, and her finger-tip veil of embroidered silk net was held in place with a coronet of pearls and orange blossoms. She carried an arm bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Miss Eleanor Peterson, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor and wore a floor-length head dress and long net mittens, and carried a bouquet of red roses.

Miss Joyce Mills of Toronto was her sister's bridesmaid, and chose a gown of delft blue nylon net over tulle, with matching headress and long net mittens, and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Wilfred Barlow, brother of the groom was best man. Little Carol Ann Mills, sister of the bride, and Katherine Mills, a cousin of the bride, were train bearers and wore silk organdy dresses of pink and green and matching hair bands of net, and carried baskets of pink and red roses.

Mrs. Horace Andrew was the organist and Mr. Gerald Compton and Mr. Freddie Mills were the ushers. The church had been decorated by friends of the bride with spring flowers, and the guest pews marked off with white bows of ribbon and flowers.

After the ceremony a reception was held at Mulberry Lodge where about 45 guests sat down to a supper.

The table was centered with a three-tier wedding cake with miniature bride and groom and white tapers tied with bows of white satin ribbons. Archdeacon Harrison proposed the toast to the bride and the groom responded.

The couple left by plane for a honeymoon in New Brunswick and the U.S.A. For going away the bride chose a mauve suit with white accessories and corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Mills, the bride's mother, wore a gown of fowered nylon and white accessories and corsage of yellow roses.

The couple will reside in Halifax where the groom is stationed with the R.C.A.F. Their many friends wish them a long and happy wedded life. Among the out-of-town guests was the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Leopold Compton of Sackville, N. B.

Lobster Catches Reported Poor

The lobster catch on the south shore has been consistently poor ever since the opening of the season on August 7th. Fairly good results are being obtained in the area extending from Campbellton to North Cape but south of Campbellton to West Point fishing boats are landing unusually small catches for the opening week of the season. The weather has been good although high winds kept some boats ashore on the opening day of the season.

Prices are good at 27 for canners and 29 for markets, but are far from approaching the prices paid at the close of the season on the north side. The market for live lobsters is expected to improve in the immediate future.

neth Dunphy, Durham Bridge, N. B., and C. J. Gallant, New Waterford, N. S. Delegates on Wednesday were advised by J. Howard MacMichan, general manager of United Maritime Fishermen Ltd., Halifax, to them into bigger and stronger units. Speaking at a banquet in Legion Hall, he told the members that "only by consolidation can co-operatives face the uncertain future which lies ahead." Mistakes can be seen in past years, he pointed out. Nevertheless, the original architecture of the plan is sound and great advances have been made since the M.C.S. Over the next five or 10 years, Maritime Co-ops need a careful stocktaking for the present good times are "artificial prosperity" since industry has stepped up to meet national defence demands, the speaker concluded.

Observer Groups Attend A. C. W. W.

Among delegates attending sessions of the seventh triennial conference of the Associated Country Women of the World, which opened Wednesday at the Royal York Hotel, are a special group of observers from non-member countries, sent by the Ford Foundation and the Technical Assistance branch of United Nations.

Discussions of ways and means of raising living standards for rural women the world over are on the agenda, and it is felt that such knowledge, carried back to such non-member countries as Egypt, Japan and Lebanon by their observers, may result in the formation of organizations like Canada's Women's Institutes, affiliated with the A.C.W.W.

The government of Japan sent two observers from the Ministry of Agriculture and Forestry, Kiyoko Niimi and Yoshie Omura, and a Toronto Japanese, now married to a Canadian, interpreters for them during the business sessions.

Two countries which already have member associations but which would otherwise be unable to send delegates is represented through the action of the Ford Foundation, administered by the Institute of International Education. Under this project, two of Pakistan's outstanding women leaders and two special observers from India are attending.

Outstanding among Pakistan's delegates to the Begum Ikrumullah, wife of the Pakistan high commissioner in Ottawa, and a member of the All Pakistan Women's Association. Direct from Pakistan to the Begum Mian Amin-ud-din, wife of the governor of the Punjab, and the Begum Hussain Malik, daughter of Pakistan's governor-general and secretary to the All Pakistan Women's Association.

Junior Tennis Finals Open Today At Ottawa

OTTAWA, (CP) - A new touch will be added to the Canadian junior tennis championships opening her today at the Rideau Lawn Tennis Club.

Eddie Condon, chairman of the tourney and vice-chairman of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association junior development committee, said Thursday that closed championships will be held in the junior men's singles and the boys' and girls' singles for the first time in the five-year history of the event. Only Canadian talent will be allowed to enter the closed matches.

Some 210 players from Canada, the United States and other countries have entered the 11 events of the week-long championships. Thirty of them are from the States.

In the past, American entries, backed by more tournament experience, have grabbed the lion's share of the honors at the Canadian, forcing the formation of the closed matches.

Mariette Lafontaine, blond-husky daughter of a Montreal policeman, won the only major title for Canada last year, the junior women's singles. She will be back to defend the title and as there is little American competition in the event, it will not be close. Miss Lafontaine also paired to win the junior women's doubles last year.

TO THE BROAD SHOULDERS OF THE SOLDIER IN THE SEAT AHEAD

We will remember you soldier, When we view the purple mist, That overhangs our mountain tops, That fleecy clouds have kissed.

We will remember you soldier, When the shimmering light of dawn, Shall glide from out the Cosmos In silvery cadence born.

We will remember you soldier, When sunlight glides the sands, And your interest lies, beneath the ricks, Of far off foreign lands.

We will remember you soldier, Whenever we see a train, And the wish of our hearts, tho' we're miles apart, We may journey together again. —Mary Catherine Christy.

Flag Issue To Come Before New Parliament

OTTAWA, (CP) - The controversial issue of a distinctive national flag will be one of the first to be placed before the new Parliament when it convenes in the fall.

Bona Arsenault, newly re-elected Liberal Commons member for Bonaventure, Que., gave notice Thursday that he will renew a 1946 proposal for a compromise aimed at satisfying conflicting views.

The Quebec member, long a fighter for a Canadian flag, said he has been informed his resolution will be one of the first—if not the first—private members' motion placed on the Commons order paper.

He said he advocates: 1. Reaffirming that the Union Jack is Canada's Queen's flag and the official symbol of this autonomous nation's partnership in the Commonwealth. 2. Maintaining the Red Ensign, Britain's merchant marine flag, as the ensign of Canada's merchant marine, with possibly the coat-of-arms being replaced by the maple leaf. 3. Giving Canada "a national flag, which will not be an English-Canadian flag, or a French-Canadian flag, or an English and French colonial flag, but an all-Canadian national flag."

Well Known Alberton South Man Dies At 77

Mr. William Aubrey passed away at his home in Alberton South yesterday morning. He had been in good health and engaged in his usual work until he suffered a heart attack early Wednesday morning.

Born in Hills River seventy-seven years ago, Mr. Aubrey moved as a young man to Alberton South where for many years he was a fisherman. About the turn of the century he began to build fishing boats in the winter months and soon became a master in this craft which in later years, he devoted full time. He also did some contracting. In company with Mr. Alexander Leard he built St. Peter's Anglican Church in Alberton.

Mr. Aubrey was a man who took time for thought. He was a lover of books and had a very retentive memory. He was a man who was respected for his good qualities and for the skill he possessed. He was a past master of Zetland Masonic Lodge.

Besides his wife, Mr. Aubrey is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Aratas Lewis (Sophie) in Berlin, N.H., and Mrs. Horace Lyle (Jean) in Summerside. Funeral arrangements are not yet completed.
