ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION.

To Miss Mary O'Neill, Music Teacher, Vernon River.

DEAR MARY,—As it is now near the close of your first year's labour amongst us, we, the undersigned, members of your musical class of '98, wish to convey to you some mark of our appreciation of your excellent tuition, as well as our gratefulness for your untiring efforts in our behalf.

Since it has been our privilege to be placed under your musical direction we have always found in you an earnest, persevering and efficient teacher, and in fact ever since we have known you, which acquaintance, with the most of us, carries with it fond memories and dates back to happy school days when we were boys and girls together, we can look back with pleasure and say that you have ever been courteous and ladylike on all occasions.

And further, we feel that we can always look forward with hope of more pleasant associations to come, resting assured that we can ever count on your warm friendship and good will in our regard.

We thank you for your kind attention towards us, and fondly hope that you will long continue to exercise the function of tutor in this, the most important of the fine arts—music.

Nor can we allow this opportunity to pass without tendering to you our sincerest wishes for a bright and happy New Year. We would be pleased to have you accept the accompanying gift as a remembrance of our esteem for you.

Signed in behalf of other pupils,
CLARA McDONALD, MINNIE EDMONDS.

Death of a Centenarian.

Died at Rollo Bay Cross roads, on Christmas Day, Reuben Chiverie, aged 104 years. The deceased retained the use of his faculties up to the time of his death. He was one of the good old stock of Acadian French, whose tenacity to longevity has become proverbial. Mr. Chiverie was an honest, industrious, hard-working man, and can well be numbered among the pioneers of Prince Edward Island. He was born and brought up at Little River, Lot 56, on the property at present occupied by James Jenkins, Esq., but removed to Rollo Bay in the early forties where he has resided ever since. In the early part of his life he followed the sea, and at one time owned a vessel of his own. The writer of these lines can remember what a sensation it created when Capt. Chiverie or "Uncle Reuben," as he was generally called, would arrive from a voyage to Halifax, Pictou, Arichat, or the Magdalens, as the case might be. How he would tell us boys of the dangers of the deep, and the perils of the ocean; and we, in turn, thought that no man could tell a sea yarn like Uncle Reuben. Mr. Chiverie was also possessed of a great knowledge of the forest—and many were the stories he could tell of tricks he played on the wood rangers of those days. Any shipbuilder in need of spars had only to apply to "Uncle Reuben"; and if they could be procured he knew exactly where to find them. He prided himself upon his skill as a chopper, and always had a choice axe; he could chop fifteen loads of firewood in a day, and whoever presumed to chop with him had to look to his laurels. Game was very plentiful around our Island shore when Mr. Chiverie was young; and how the young folk would listen amazed to the old man telling of the wonderful numbers of ducks he shot, trout he caught, and the immense quantities of eels he could spear. Of course the boys always allowed the usual grain of salt that is accorded every fish story. But the old man was undoubtedly a great hunter and fisherman. He was a warm friend, as can be well certified by every person who had the pleasure of clasping the hand of the venerable man. There was something in the manner of his shake of the hand that was no mere affectation; it had a ring in it that told you it came from the heart, and his expression of countenance told you that he meant it. In early life he married Margaret Chaisson, sister of the late Capt. Dominick and Robert Chaisson, long since deceased, by whom he had four sons, Oliver, the eldest, who resides at Rollo Bay, Frank, who was lost on the Grand Banks some years ago, and Capt. Alfred Chiverie, of Gloucester, Mass.

Wedding at Alberton.

A large number of relatives and friends of the family assembled at the residence of Mr. Wm. Wallace, Alberton, on Wednesday, Dec. 27. The occasion was the marriage of Miss Alberta M. Wallace to Mr. John A. S. Williams, of Summerside. Miss Lizzie Dyer, of Alberton, played a wedding march as the bridal party entered the parlour, the bride being attended by her sister, Miss Ruby Wallace, and the groom by his brother Mr. S. A. Williams. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John Goddard. Numerous and valuable presents testified to the esteem which her friends have for the bride.

About Capers.

"About 8,000 kegs and barrels of capers, a small, sour berry resembling in color and shape a green pea, are annually imported into the United States from Spain and France," said a wholesale dealer in all sorts of foreign condiments in New York to the writer recently. "Capers grow on a bush, and are extensively used by all classes of cooks in this country for garnishing salads and making a sauce which is usually served with boiled mutton and other meats. There are four sizes of capers. The smallest are commercially known as nonpareils and the three other sizes are called capucines, capotes and surfines. The smallest capers are the most desirable and bring the most money. Very few capers are imported in glass. They are shipped to America in kegs and barrels, holding from 15 to 40 gallons of the berries in brine or vinegar. The work of bottling the capers is done by the wholesale dealers."—Washington Star.

Bridegroom's Fatal Indiscretion.

A queer case of cannibalism is reported as having recently taken place in the Solomon Islands. The Jeannette took from Noumea a Kanaka who had acted as orderly to the immigration office there and was on his honeymoon with his wife, intending to land at Aoba, where his wife's tribe lives. He, however, made the mistake of disembarking among the wrong tribe and was at once seized by the natives, overpowered, killed and eaten.

The widow was provided by the tribe with a second husband.—London Mail.

Doctors said Incurable

But the Notary, Mr. Lemire, was cured of Kidney Disease in two months by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

It is only when thoroughly convinced of the superior merit of a remedy that public men will give their sanction.

Mr. E. H. Lemire, Notary Public, 1694 Notre Dame Street, Montreal, tells of his remarkable recovery from a severe attack of kidney disease. When doctors had failed, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills saved his life. He writes: "I give this statement, first because it is only just that the merit of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills should be made known, and again in order that others may profit by my experience. For years I suffered with kidney disease which doctors pronounced incurable. Thanks to Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which I have used for two months, I am completely cured. They helped me from the first, and the cure is now perfect."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills act directly on the kidneys, and through their combined influence on the kidneys and liver, cure the most complicated diseases of these delicate organs. One pill a dose. 25 cents a box at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

The Sailor and the Figurehead.

Old sailors sigh as they wander around the water front these days and note the disappearance of the famous old figurehead, which used to be the delight of every clipper ship's crew. They were huge wooden images of almost everything imaginable, but the female form predominated. Many figureheads were to represent the fair one after whom the ship was named, and there is an old sea yarn about a sailor who fell in love with the handsome wooden female which adorned his ship. He used to slip down the "dolphin striker" and hang on there, while the ship bowed and lurches, talking love to the figurehead. Finally, according to forecastle tradition, the figure sneezed, and the sailor, who was known as "Lovely Mike," because he was the ugliest man that ever set foot on a ship's deck, nearly fell into the sea. He recovered his senses and said, "Did you speak?"

"No, I didn't speak," returned the figure. "I just sneezed to attract your attention. You're known as 'Lovely Mike,' ain't you? You're a married man, ain't you? And your wife has to take in washing both when you're at home and when you're away, because she can never get a cent out of you. Mr. Farmer, just climb back to the forecastle and don't bother any more about me."

This rather curt interview is alleged to have worked a marked change in Mike, and when he got home he astonished his wife by giving her a couple of dollars.—Baltimore News.

Fish Poisoning.

In the United States fish poisoning is most frequently due to decomposition in canned fish. The most prominent symptoms are nausea, vomiting and purging. Sometimes there is a scarlatinous rash, which may cover the whole body. The writer has studied two outbreaks of this kind of fish poisoning. In both instances canned salmon was the cause of the trouble. Although a discussion of the treatment of food poisoning is foreign to this paper, the writer must call attention to the danger in the administration of opiates in cases of poisoning with canned fish.

Vomiting and purging are efforts on the part of nature to remove the poison and should be assisted by the stomach tube and by irrigation of the colon. In one of the cases seen by the writer large doses of morphine had been administered in order to check the vomiting and purging and to relieve the pain. In this case death resulted. The danger of arresting the elimination of the poison in all cases of food poisoning cannot be too emphatically commended.—Victor C. Vaughan in Popular Science Monthly.

The camel is a beast of great strength and endurance.

Nothing hurts it until the proverbial "last straw" is added to its burden. The human digestive system is very much like a camel. It is really astonishing how much abuse it will stand. Sometimes, however, something worse than usual will be eaten, and will go through the stomach into the bowels, and there it will stick—that's constipation. Nine-tenths of all sickness is due to constipation. Some of the simplest symptoms are coated tongue and foul breath, dizziness, heartburn, flatulence, sallowness, distress after eating, headaches and lassitude. A little thing will cause constipation, and a little thing will relieve it. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a certain cure for constipation. They are tiny, sugar-coated granules, mild and natural in their action. There is nothing injurious about them. Sold by drug gists.

A Bilious Letter

Thursday evening we dropped a bill in the Post Office for a prominent gentleman of this town. The next morning we had the pleasure of receiving it. This is what we call promptness. (Oh, that others would do likewise.) We have been dropping, dropping, softly dropping a number of bills in the Post Office; and we are waiting, waiting patiently, to have the pleasure and to give the pleasure of receiving them.

Please do not all come together; but if you do, what a happy, happy gathering it will be. We have a number of bills to pay, and a large number of small bills that should be paid us. Kindly pay yours and we will be in a position to do likewise.

Yours very truly
