Youngsters Are Delight Of Alberton Exhibition

By ALICE GREEN
ALBERTON — Participation of the very young is one of the delights of Alberton Exhibition. It was pleasing this year to find three young ladies in their early teens among the prize winners in domestic science. Leas Profit, Mary Gard and Sheila Dunn were not satisfied to place entries only in the sections especially designated for those not over 16. They had sufficient confidence in their skill to enter into competition with experienced cooks and were not disappointed. And in the 4-H garment club exhibit there was an excellent display of needlecraft. There were young folks in the showing, too. Most of them were showing calves and they know how to show them well. They also have a surprising knowledge of the points on which an animal is judged. Many on-lookers would like to know some of the things Graeme Linkletter hears as entrants in the 4-H judging competition told him the reasons for their placing on the cows they judged. YOUNGEST SHOWMAN Youngest little gentleman in the showing was Ronnie Palmer, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Palmer. The first time he appeared he was helping his daddy lead a big Guernsey prize winner before the judge. Later when both his parents were showing, he lent mom a hand. No doubt Ronnie will be exhibiting Guernseys on his own before too many years, and maybe we shouldn't tell that once in a while his eyes strayed to the pony foals that were being shown nearby. Maybe Ronnie will be a cowboy some day. Six-year-old Evan Locke was busy helping his father with a most important part of the pony show. He had a very fine pony there but even more exciting was the new pony foal that had been born in the pony barn on the exhibition grounds last Tuesday night. This tiniest of three pony foals in the class would not weigh more than 25 lbs. And it was certainly the youngest prize winning animal at the fair. How many animals get a third prize before they are two days old? To be sure, there was a three-hour-old calf over in the Holstein barn but Ethner Smith didn't bring it to the showing so it didn't get a prize. DETAILED DESCRIPTION There were other little horsemen showing their lovely ponies in the big Jacques Cartier Arena. But one in particular had an interesting description of his pony on the entry form. It was the most detailed description of any animal that came in to the secretary of the exhibition. Most people just said their entry was a pony or a horse or a cow, but this pony was super special. In his owner's words he has "white face, white eyelashes, white main and tail, white legs and white spot under stomach, and brown the rest." Finally a young entertainer almost "stole the show" during his amateur program in the arena Wednesday evening. Herb Matthews and Perley Hardy claim the entertainment committee didn't invite him, emcee Don Campbell didn't announce him, Gene Gray and Bill McNeill say they did not practice with him, but what difference does that make if a fellow has talent? The two boys were playing their closing orchestra selection when the unidentified performer, probably about three years of age, suddenly appeared on the stage with his instrument "a tiny cane — held in position against his shoulder, and upon it he promptly and vigorously began to strum a lively tune. And he was not playing "second fiddle." He brought down the house!

Many Gallant Families Will Reunite Today

Today is the day of the Gallant Family Reunion. It will begin this morning with Concelebration Mass at St. Dunstan's Basilica celebrated by Most Rev. Malcolm A. MacEachern, bishop of Charlottetown, assisted by the parish priests of the French parishes on the Island. At noon there will be banquet at the Basilica Recreation Centre at which Edgar Gallant, director of finance for the Dominion government, will give the main address. Lieutenant Governor W.J. MacDonald will be in attendance, as will be Hon. Andrew MacRae, representing the province and Mayor Walter Cox of the City of Charlottetown. In the afternoon at approximately three o'clock a motorcade will leave Charlottetown for the 20-mile trip to Port, La Joie (Fort Amherst) near Rocky Point. UNVEIL MONUMENT Around four o'clock in the afternoon Lieutenant Governor MacDonald will unveil a monument commemorating the founder of the family, Michael Hache Gallant. There will be a dance at St. Dunstan's University in the evening. Michael Hache Gallant was the harbor-master when the French first settled in the Charlottetown area in the 1720's. His name was Michael Hache and the Gallant part was a nickname he picked up because of his personality and a number of episodes which occurred during his term as harbor-master. He was the father of 12 children, 10 sons and two daughters. All the sons who remained on the Island took Gallant as their surname and all the Gallants in Canada and the United States stem from Michael Hache. Two of the sons moved to New Brunswick and all the Haches that now reside in New Brunswick and the Gaspé are all of the same family.

New British Taxation Policy May Hit Exempt Farmland

By CAROL KENNEDY
LONDON (CP)—A tough new property taxation policy for Britain which may be adopted later this year would extend taxation to farmland, exempt since 1929, and to all Crown property, ranging from government offices and hospitals to Buckingham Palace. Nationalized industries such as the railways and docks, given preferential treatment by the post-war Labor government in 1948, would also be affected. The proposals are contained in a 20,000-word report drawn up by the rating committee of the Association of Municipal Corporations. They are scheduled to be considered at the association's council meeting in November. PAYMENT MADE The idea of the Queen joining the army of British municipal tax-payers is not as revolutionary as it sounds. Although Crown property is technically exempt from local taxes, the government makes a contribution for each building in lieu of regular rates. Far more controversial is the plan to make farmland, farm buildings and forest land taxable. The area of agricultural land in Britain, currently estimated at 30,000,000 acres, would add more than £100,000,000 to the valuation lists. British farmers, whose heavily subsidized industry forms only 3 1/2 per cent of the gross national product, immediately denounced the proposal. The National Farmers' Union said that, despite the fact agriculture has increased its production twice as fast as industry, farm incomes have fallen further behind.

Young Liberals Cast Eyes To Canada, 2000

OTTAWA (CP) — Some 300 young Liberals from across Canada will meet at St. Andrews, N.B., Sept. 9-11 to cast their eyes 35 years ahead to "Canada-2000 AD." This is the theme of the biennial convention of the Young Liberal Federation of Canada. Working papers, announced Friday, will include these topics: The problems of increasing urbanization; the impact of automation; development of the northland; and the shape of political structures. Gary Smith of Dutton, Ont., has been named executive director of both the YLF and the Canadian University Liberal Federation, the organizations announced Friday. The Maritimes convention is to hear speeches by Forestry Minister Sauve, John Nicol, Liberal Federation of Canada president, Labor Minister MacEachern, Premier Louis Robichaud of New Brunswick, and Keith Davey, National organizer of the party.

Papandreou Is Facing Split In Party Ranks

ATHENS (Reuters) — Former premier George Papandreou appears to have lost the initiative in his effort to regain power in Greece as a split spread through his party's ranks. A crucial meeting was scheduled among Papandreou's three top aides in the Centre Union party — Stephanos Stephanopoulos, the deputy leader; former interior minister Elias Tsirniakos, and Sava Papapoulos, former commerce minister. Usually well-informed sources said the three leaders would decide how to dissociate themselves from the policy of Papandreou, who Friday threatened an "unrelenting struggle to restore democracy" following King Constantine's rejection of his plans to end the political crisis. Thursday night, Papandreou had a 90-minute audience with King Constantine in which he demanded that the king either appoint him as premier or call new elections. His demands were rejected by the king, who ousted Papandreou a month ago when they clashed over the latter's insistence that the armed forces be purged of rightist elements. Commentators here said Papandreou's threat Friday was an indication that he realized he had lost the initiative in the new turn of events. Meanwhile, it was announced that Panayotis Camilopoulos, ILO spokesman said Monday. The spokesman said the ILO director-general received a letter from Albanian Foreign Minister Bahar Shytilla informing him of the decision, but he did not know the reason for Albania's decision.

Athena Ratepayers Plan Further Liquor Protests

SUMMERSIDE — It was decided at last night's meeting of the Athena Regional High School ratepayers to hold another mass protest meeting in connection with the erection of the retail liquor store here. The meeting is planned for August 25. The liquor commission was invited to attend last night's meeting but did not acknowledge the invitation, Earl Cannon, chairman of the board of trustees, told the small gathering. Mr. Cannon told of receiving a letter from M.A. Farmer, acting premier of the province, stating that after giving the question still more thought it had been decided to leave the decision entirely in the hands of the commission. In answer to a question as to what more could be done in regards to stopping the erection of the building, one man suggested demonstrations in front of the government buildings in Charlottetown. Some of the people present had the attitude that the commission was determined to have their outlet whether the people of the school districts wanted it or not. Others asked that if the government would not support the ratepayers plan then who would. Others suggested that a liquor store so close to the school was sure to wreck some lives and that the people who were not present at the meeting last night may have decided to show their displeasure on the ballot in the next election. EVERYTHING DONE The liquor commission will again be invited to the mass meeting. Mr. Cannon said he felt the people had done everything possible and had good hearings by the government. He also stated that still no reasons had been given for the site chosen by the commission nor were any reasons given as to why other proposed sites were not used. The question of a centennial project for the school district was also discussed and a motion was passed to leave the decision up to the school board as to whether an observation dome should be built on the top of the school over the classroom area. Mr. Cannon, in explaining the proposed plan for the dome, stated that it would possibly have a diameter of 16 feet and be rotated by an electric motor. He said that short courses in astronomy might be offered to all Island schools if the dome were erected. The ratepayers would be responsible for paying one third of the cost with the rest coming from the federal and provincial governments. Mr. Cannon stated that one of the school's French teachers has suggested that maybe a language lab could be installed.

Sask. Man Appointed To Senate

OTTAWA (CP) — A. H. (Hammy) McDonald, former minister of agriculture in the Thatcher government in Saskatchewan, was appointed Friday to the Senate by Prime Minister Pearson. Mr. McDonald, 46, a former leader of the Liberal party in the province, resigned his cabinet post and seat in the legislature last May and his appointment to the Senate was rumored for some time. Mr. McDonald was first elected to the Saskatchewan legislature in 1948. He was re-elected in the next four elections, and took over the party leadership in 1954. He was deputy premier of Saskatchewan when he resigned his seat. Mr. McDonald was born in Fleming, Sask., in 1919. During the Second World War he was a fighter pilot in the RCAF, serving from 1940 to 1945. He took up farming in his home district after the war.

HORSES EVADED TAX

One explanation for the herds of wild horses on Sable and Assateague Islands, off the Nova Scotia and Virginia coasts, has been that they were sent there to evade a 1962 tax on horses.
