Gloom

Of ill health, despondency and despair, gives way to the sunshine of hope, happiness and health, upon taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, because it gives renewed life and vitality to the blood, and through that imparts nerve strength, vigor and energy to the whole body. Read this letter: "Hood's Sarsaparilla helped me wonderfully, changed sickness to health, gloom to sunshine. No pen can describe what I suffered. I was deathly sick, had sick headaches every few days and those terrible tired, despondent feelings, with heart troubles so that I could not go up and down stairs without clasping my hand over my heart and resting. In fact, it would almost take my breath away. I suffered so I did not care to live, yet I had much to live for. There is no pleasure in life if deprived of health, for life becomes a burden. Hood's Sarsaparilla does far more than advertised. After taking one bottle, it is sufficient to recommend itself." MRS. J. E. SMITH, Beloit, Iowa.

Hosiery of Royalty.

Probably the most fastidious woman in Europe about her stockings is the Princess of Wales. She generally wears lace ones of cobwebby fineness, which cost her from seven to nine guineas a pair, or from $40 to $50. She often uses black or white ribbed, hand-woven silk stockings, however, which are very soft and comfortable. For country wear the young princesses don those of soft, black spun silk, which are warm and delightful to walk in. For more dressy occasions they wear stockings of embroidered silk of various shades.

The Empress of Russia wears English hose also, and is said to have recently ordered a large supply of the softest black Angola stockings, fine as Indian cashmere, with the sheen of black silk, all handspun, and finished with white toes. At the same time the Czar ordered several dozen pairs of black Angola and tan socks, strong and elastic, for walking, and a quantity of bicycle hose, which, it is interesting to note, are in patterns of lively colors.

How to Write a Note.

There is an etiquet about everything, even about the way a woman ought to write her notes. Considering all things, it is perhaps as well that woman should read, mark and inwardly digest the laws that ought to rule her conduct when she "takes up the pen." Two things, above all others, betray the inelegant or unaccustomed letter writer. If she be guilty of neglecting the margin at each side of the page, or if she so far forgets her precepts as to add a P. S. she is forever doomed. Society is exact in details, and society declares such omission or commission to be the unpardonable sin. The note, to be correct, must be written upon paper of medium size, preferably cream white, and must be clear and distinct. The monogram is stamped on the paper, or the crest if one have the right; but upon the inside of the flap of the envelope must be the address. When the writer has borne all these facts in mind, and has signed her unabbreviated name, she may rest content.

Remember the "Other Half."

We, who have comfortable homes and shall spend our Thanksgiving among friends with turkey, cranberry sauce and good cheer; we, upon whom a kind Providence hath bestowed the common blessings of life's needs; we, who upon this Thanksgiving day, 1896, have everything—good health, home, friends and turkey—how many of us think how the "other half" lives?

Some Early Thanksgivings.

During the war of independence Congress appointed eight days of thanksgiving. They fell in April, May, July and December. The appointments were made in the form of recommendations to the heads of the various state Governments. With one exception Congress suspended business on the days appointed.—Chicago Post.

Is Housekeeping Hard?

The revolt of certain women against housekeeping is not a revolt against their husbands; it is simply a revolt against their duties. They consider housework hard and monotonous and inferior, and confess with a cynical frankness that they prefer to engross paper, or dabble in art, or embroider pillow shams, or sell goods, or in some way make money to pay servants who will cook their husbands' dinners, and nurse their babies for them. And they believe that in this way they show themselves to have superior minds, and ask credit for a deed which ought to cover them with shame, for actions speak louder than words. And what does such action say? In the first place it asserts that any stranger—even a young, uneducated peasant girl, hired for a few dollars a month—is able to perform the duties of the house mistress and the mother. In the second place it substitutes a poor ambition for love, and hand service for heart service. In the third place, it is a visible abasement of the loftiest duties of womanhood to the capacity of the lowest paid service. A wife and mother cannot thus absolve her own soul; she simply disgraces and traduces her holiest work.

Suppose, even, that housekeeping is hard and monotonous, it is not more so than men's work in the city. The first lesson a business man has to learn is to do pleasantly what he does not like to do. All regular useful work must be monotonous; but love ought to make it easy, and, at any rate, the tedium of house work is not any greater than the tedium of office work. As for housework being degrading, that is the veriest nonsense. Home is a little royalty, and if a housewife and mother be of elements finely mixed, and loftily educated, all the more she will regard the cold mutton question of importance, and consider the quality of the soup, and the quantity of chutnee in the curry, as requiring her best attention. It is only the weakest, silliest women who cannot lift their work to the level of their thoughts, and so ennoble both.—Presbyterian Banner.

A New Diving Dress.

The Australian papers describe a new diving dress invented in Melbourne. The Buchanan-Gordon diving dress — so named after its inventors—claims to have conquered the two great difficulties of the past—how to withstand the tremendous pressure at great ocean depths, and how to give the diver while down there a normal supply of air. At the preliminary trials the diver remained below at a depth of close on thirty fathoms for the full period of twenty minutes without having any air pumped down to him. The great merit of the invention seems to be that the diver carries his own air supply down with him. The dress is described as practically a suit of armor wherein dories all assaults, yet enables the wearer to move about with the utmost ease. The inventors are confident that they can reach with ease a depth of thirty-three fathoms, and, if so, they will be in a position to explore the wreck track of the English Channel. But the greatest possibilities before the invention are associated with the pearl fisheries. Hitherto the pearl divers in Australian waters have not been able to exceed a depth of twenty fathoms, and not a few of them have been hauled up dead from that distance.

BACK IT UP.

THAT'S WHAT WE DO.

Manley's Celery-Nerve Compound "re-backs" weak backs and the "re-backed" people "back" up our statements with their testimony. Here's a sample:

For a number of years I have been troubled with a lame back, which at times became so painful that I had to lay off work. Nine months ago I was lucky enough to be advised to try Manley's Celery Nerve Compound, and after taking 2 or 3 bottles the pain entirely left me; and I feel certain that my cure is a permanent one as I have had no return of the pain for eight month now.

SENSE OF TOUCH.

It is the Most Capable of All of Improvement.

The sense of touch of all the senses is most capable of improvement. Strictly speaking, the senses are capable rather of attention and specialization than of improvement. For instance, those who have much to do in the open air become immensely long-sighted; but this is abnormal, and the increased superiority in one direction is compensated for by inferiority in another. But there are many trades which afford abundant evidence that the sense of touch at any rate in certain directions can be largely developed. For instance, the connoisseur of Wedgwood china relies much more on an almost imperceptible difference of feeling in the texture than on his eyes to discover the genuineness of any piece.

The blind beggar can very soon discern between different metals merely by the sense of touch, and in fact the education of the blind affords a remarkable instance of the development of this sense In certain manufactures the skilled workman knows entirely by this sense when a mixture has reached the proper degree of solidity or a material is of the right texture, and he receives very high wages by virtue of this sense alone. On the other hand, the sense of smell and the sense of taste are each of them blunted and lose their finer perception if the same object is frequently presented to them. In every case, however, it is not the general sense of touch that is improved, but a special excellence of the sense.

Social Tragedies.

An old man who had worked for one firm thirty-five years, and who all the time had been punctual and faithful, at the age of sixty-one was thrown out of employment because he was not able to keep up with younger and stronger men. That such is the fate of old and patient wage-earners—a fate which an English paper calls "the worst of all our social tragedies"—is to be deplored. In this particular case the man thrown out of employment was at the end of his resources. He had nothing to show for his life of toil and went and hanged himself. This man's circumstances in old age is by no means exceptional. Thousands come to the end of life as poor as he. Is it obliged to be so? By no means. It was not necessary even in the case of this unfortunate old man.

Taking into consideration sickness and death and misfortune that visit the homes of the best and most industrious of people, it must needs be that we have "the poor always with us." It was so when Jesus was on earth, it will always be so. It is easy to see why men thus afflicted are poor in old age; and everybody is prepared to excuse them and sympathize with them. It is just as easy to see why this man at sixty-one was discharged and left in poverty. He was a drinking man. True "he was never seen the worse for drink," but a large share of his earnings were spent for rum. Any man on earth who starts life with no capital save a trade will face want at sixty years of age if he spends the earnings of thirty-five years in strong drink. Indeed, they are in poverty all the time, waiting only the roll of years to throw them out of work, and reveal to them their true condition. It is then too late to build up a fortune—alas! in most instances it is too late to make a living.

Persuade men to let drink alone or banish the saloons from our land, and at once more than half of the poverty and distress of the people would be abolished. Then the social tragedy of an old man "thrown aside like an old boot for younger men" would no longer wring tears from the eyes of the sympathetic, nor would there be need to shift them on to the community for support. Every man would dwell under his own vine and fig tree, and enjoy the luxury of a [illegible] rest.—Nashville Advocate.

No Need of Them.

"Girls are becoming more sensible, don't you think?" she asked.

"In what way?" he inquired, for he was a wise man and objected to committing himself until he had seen all the plans and specifications.

"Well, for one thing," she explained, "they no longer wear tight gloves."

"They don't need to," he answered. "They have probably learned that they can get their hands squeezed other ways."

"Well, that's sensible, isn't it? And a great many of us don't wear such tight waists, either."

"Yes, yes, of course!" he exclaimed, hastily.

And thereupon they went into executive session.—Chicago Post.

"My six-year-old daughter, Bella, was afflicted with eczema for 24 months, the principal seat of eruption being behind her ears. I tried almost every remedy I saw advertised, bought innumerable medicines and soaps, and took the child to medical specialists in skin diseases, but without result. Finally, a week ago, I purchased a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and the first application showed the curative effect of the Remedy. We have used only one-sixth of the box, but the change is very marked; the eruption has all disappeared, and I can confidently say my child is cured. (signed) MAXWELL JOHNSTON.

Curiosities of the Bible.

The following Bible curiosities are said to have been gained by the study of the good book by the Prince of Granada, heir apparent to the Spanish throne, during his thirty three years' imprisonment at the Place of Skulls Prison, Madrid:—

In the Bible the word Lord is found 1,853 times; the word Jehovah, 6,855 times; and the word reverence but once, and that in the ninth verse of the One Hundred and Eleventh Psalm. The eighth verse of the One Hundred and Eighteenth Psalm is the middle verse of the Bible. The ninth verse of the eighth chapter of Esther is the longest verse. The thirty-fifth verse, eleventh chapter of St. John, is the shortest. In the One Hundred and Seventh Psalm four verses are alike—the eighth, fifteenth, twenty-first, and thirty-first. Each verse of the One Hundred and Thirty-sixth Psalm ends alike. No names or words with more than six syllables are found in the Bible. The thirty-seventh chapter of Isaiah, and the nineteenth chapter of 2 Kings are alike. The word girl occurs but once in the Bible, and that in the third verse and third chapter of Joel. There are found in both books of the Bible 3,586,483 letters, 783,693 words, 31,373 verses, 1,189 chapters and 66 books. The twenty-sixth chapter of the Acts of the Apostles is the finest chapter to read. The most beautiful chapter in the Bible is the Twenty-third Psalm. The four most inspiring promises are John 1:29; John 6:37; Matthew 11:28; and Psalms 37:4. The first verse of the sixtieth chapter of Isaiah is the one for the new converts. All who flatter themselves with vain boastings of their perfection should learn the sixth chapter of Matthew. All humanity should learn the sixth chapter of St. Luke from the twentieth verse to its ending.

Performing Animals.

"For the last six years I've been on the road with a show of performing dogs and ponies," said J. D. Newman, to a reporter at the National.

"My employer has a farm out in Indiana where he breeds all the animals he educates to do such amazing tricks. Long years of experience has shown that the Russian poodle is the brightest dog in the world and the quickest to become educated. It is exceedigly hard to raise, but after maturity gets quite hardy. It takes about six months to teach one of them to perform fairly well; after an act has been learned it is never forgotten. It is a work of infinite difficulty to train them, and the professor I am with has about ruined his back from constant stooping. Neither will it do to use the whip often, for a dog that is punished much will not take instruction.

"Not long since one of our dogs got too sick to go through his role. To guard against such accidents each of the band has an understudy. We had time only to give this understudy one rehearsal, and yet that evening he went on and did the part just as smoothly as his sick colleague could possibly have done. It was a marvelous revelation of canine sagacity, and a proud man was the professor.

"Ponies learn very quickly such things as waltzing, military movements, and the like, and a great deal more can be done with the lash in their case. Although it would seem that the limit had been reached, I do not think that we have as yet fully sounded the depths of animal intelligence, for every year adds to the list of wonder-causing acts they can be trained to do."—Washington Post.

"Accident" Swindlers.

The extension of electric traction has brought upon the scene a particularly dangerous and offensive swarm of rascals who prey upon the street railroad companies by bogus claims for personal injuries received in real or imaginary accidents. They are fostered by a tribe of disreputable attorneys, who make a practice of communicating with all persons whom they can identify as concerned in any street railway mishap, and often without instructions issue processes against the companies. Some of these legal sharks have a regular staff of detectives, who prowl about the depots and termini of the lines on the lookout for cases. False witnesses are easily procured and juries are usually liberal in the matter of damages, the greater portion of which are swallowed up in the attorney's "costs." The evil has become so great that the street railway press is suggesting the formation of a mutual protection society of some kind. It is proposed to keep a register of the names of claimants, and interchange information as to persons who, it is more than suspected, make a trade of the business and travel from city to city for the purpose.

CATARRH IN THE HEAD.

A Constitutional Disease, Requiring a Constitutional Remedy.

Thousands of people are afflicted with catarrh in the head in a more or less aggravated form. It is not only one of the most troublesome and disagreeable of common complaints, but if allowed to continue, it is almost certain to lead to serious and even fatal consequences. In fact, it is only a step from catarrh to consumption. Catarrh in the head consists of inflammation of the mucous membrane in the nasal passages, and sometimes it extends to the air cavities which cover a considerable portion of the face and extend to the lower part of the forehead. Persons afflicted with catarrh sometimes feel as if their whole face and head were involved.

There is usually a constant and very disagreeable discharge from the nose and the putrid matter fills the throat, and unless continually expelled it reaches the stomach, causing nausea and a general derangement of the health. Sometimes the sufferer can breathe only with the mouth open, and on rising in the morning a great effort is required to clear the head and throat. Catarrh in the head frequently destroys the senses of taste and smell, and its tendency is always to wear out the patient, who becomes reduced in flesh, weak, debilitated and discouraged.

What is the cure for catarrh, suggested by a reasonable, sensible, scientific view of the disease? Certainly it cannot be found in applying local remedies to the affected parts. The best authorities say catarrh is just as surely a constitutional disease as is scrofula. It is caused and promoted by impure blood. Therefore, the true way to cure catarrh is to purify the blood.

This must be admitted to be a sensible view of the disease and its remedy. Now, what is the teaching of experience? Read the testimonials of those who have been completely and permanently cured of catarrh by purifying their blood with Hood's Sarsaparilla. Thousands of statements have been written by honest, straightforward men and women; they have been published year after year; and their genuineness is beyond any possible question. These testimonials are proof and not simple assertion.

If you are suffering from catarrh, do not dally with snuffs, inhalants and useless local applications. Take the direct road to health. Cleanse the stream at the fountain head. Purify your blood with the One True Blood Purifier, Hood's Sarsaparilla. In a short time you will be convinced of the wisdom of this course. Hood's Sarsaparilla will give you an appetite, tone and strengthen your stomach, make rich, red blood, and remove all the disagreeable symptoms of catarrh by permanently eradicating the causes which produce them. wd.

British Columbia Mines.

A Few Dollars invested now may make you rich

The Buffalo Gold Mining Company have acquired and paid for in full, three claims, The Buffalo, Ontario and Great Britain No 1, each 1,500 ft square, are situated on O. K. Mountain about three quarters of a mile from the famous O. K., the great free-milling property (Trail Creek, and about three miles from the town of Rossland On the Buffalo claim, there are two leads, one of quartz, from four to fifteen feet wide, and cropping for 800 feet, from the surface of which assays have been taken running from $8 to $12 in gold per ton. The other is an immense iron cap nearly 50 feet wide.

On the Ontario only prospecting work has been done, consisting of stripping a fine ledge which crops out through the claim.

On the Great Britian No 1 there is a white quartz lead running through the property from which free gold has been obtained. This is confidently expected to prove up well when further work has been done.

Taking everything into consideration, having three full claims, the numerous ledges, and especially the free milling ledge, cheap transportation, the stock in this company should prove a paying investment and well worthy of your attention.

Four men are now working and more will be added to keep up quick and continuous development.

A limited number of shares of the treasury stock will be placed on the market at the remarkable low price of 5 cents, and no more will be sold at this price after the first issue. Address all letters to
