

What is Scott's Emulsion?

It is the best cod-liver oil, partly digested, and combined with the hypophosphites and glycerine. What will it do? It will make the poor blood of the anemic rich and red.

It will give nervous energy to the overworked brain and nerves. It will add flesh to the thin form of a child, wasted from fat-starvation.

It is everywhere acknowledged as The Standard of the World.

Of Special Interest to our Farmers

Eggs and Egg Farming.

Stamina makes eggs. Are you feeding drones? Fat hens are poor layers. Breed "in line" for eggs. Hens need encouragement. New bloods makes stamina. Neglected hens go on a strike. You need not inbreed for eggs. Starved hens cannot make eggs. Hatch for the year round egg crop. The trap-nest will pick out the layers. The condition of the shell tells the condition of the fowl. The shell of an egg contains 50 grains of salt of lime.

Between 40 and 50 degrees is the proper temperature to keep eggs for hatching during winter.

Eggs intended for hatching should not be kept over four weeks. They must be turned every day or two.

In an egg of 1000 grains, 600 belong to the white, 300 to the yolk, and 100 to the shell.

A Light Brahma hen's egg will weigh from 2 1/4 to 2 1/2 ounces, or about 1 pound 12 ounces per dozen.

The eggs of the White Leghorn, Black Minorca, and Houdan are of about the same weight as those of the Light Brahma.

For good results in egg production, the hen-house during the winter should not be allowed to become colder than 40 degrees.

It costs one cent each, in the East, to produce an egg; out West, where grain is cheaper, the cost would hardly exceed half a cent.

In 100 parts of the white of an egg, about 84 per cent. is water; 12 1/2 per cent. albumen; one per cent. mineral matter; 2 1/2 per cent. sugar, etc.

The busy, noisy, scratching, singing hen is usually a good layer. There seems to be some connection between vivacity and ovariosity, says Texas Farm and Ranch.

A young hen lays a larger litter than the old hen. The first and second years of a hen's life are the most productive of eggs. How unprofitable, then, to kill off the young fowls and leave the aged ones.

A writer on poultry topics says a hen long in neck, and legs, prominent in breast, deep behind, flesh hard and muscular, rather above the average size of the breed, of lively disposition but not easily frightened, larger eater, and always hungry, makes the best layer.

There is just as much difference between the eggs of fowls allowed to roam and forage for themselves, and those which are fed regularly on good, nutritious food, as there is between a leg of Southdown mutton and that of a common, half-starved sheep.—"A Few Hens."

A Distinction.

Farmers who read and keep posted on the progress of their occupation and endeavor to adopt improvements as soon as they come within reach, should bear in mind that all that is written or declared, while it may be appropriate enough in some cases, does not apply to their condition. We are thinking now of the advice in regard to pastures. In sections where the farm is all capable of being plowed and cultivated, methods may be employed that cannot be followed where all the land that has been cleared of rocks is needed every year for the production of farm crops for market and for winter use. On these farms the pastures are in that portion of the farm that is only half-reclaimed and much of it not worth going any farther with then to cut off the wood and burn the brush on the ground and get some kind of grass to growing. This portion of the surface of P. E. island, neglected as it appears and really is, has always been depended on to feed the stock at least half the year, and when they begin to fail and the owner reads directions about plowing up and seeding to clover or including the pasture lands in the farm rotation he finds but little satisfaction in such instruction and should not attempt to follow it nor feel that he is behind the times or out of the race because he cannot do so. It is on these apparently waste places that a large part of the beef, milk and wool produced in the country is fed, and as they will for a long time remain in their present condition but as necessary adjuncts to our system of farming, some method adapted to their means must be found out and adopted wholly distinct from the conventional directions which speak of pastures as if they could be handled at pleasure the same as any other field on the farm. Just now we are engaged largely in the production of milk, and all working for the largest yields, and the consequence is that the cows must be well fed with proper food and there is less cropping of rushes than when less attention was given to this specialty.

A Farm Idyl.

The Old Man Did.

Who built them splendid buildin's
Where grain and hay are hid?
Who built that noble pig-pen?
The old man did!

Who built them bull-proof fences,
The glowing fields amid?
Who cleared that cedar slashing?
The old man did!

Who siew the deadly mustard
In happy spring crops hid?
Who thrashed the rowdy ragweed?
The old man did!

Who built that splendid mansion
No mortgage for a lid?
Who planted all that orchard?
The old man did!

He did it with affection,
It was his joy and pride;
And when his work was finished
The old man died!

The Danger of PILES

Too frequently overlooked, Dr. Chase's Ointment a Prompt and Positive Cure.

The suffering caused by the intense itching and burning sensations of piles is only one of the horrors of this disease, for there is always great danger of piles developing into fistula, one of the most disgusting diseases imaginable. Even the great danger and expense of an operation are preferable to running the risk of contracting this most loathsome of diseases. But there is no necessity for a surgical operation for piles. Dr. Chase's Ointment is guaranteed to cure any case of piles, no matter of how long standing, or how aggravated the case may be, so long as piles have not become fistula.

It is only by rare chance that internal treatment will cure piles. But it matters not from what cause they arise, Dr. Chase's Ointment will at once stop the itching and burning, and soon effect a perfect cure. You can use Dr. Chase's Ointment with fullest assurance that what has cured scores of thousands of cases of piles will cure you. For sale by all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

OLD MAN'S EVIDENCE

Mr. H. S. Barnes, of Rat Portage, Speaks in no Uncertain Terms of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Rat Portage, Sept 18.—No old gentleman in Rat Portage is better known or thought of than Mr. H. S. Barnes, father of ex-mayor Barnes, of this place.

"Some months ago," writes Mr. Barnes "my wife asked me to get her some of Dodd's Kidney Pills. She was suffering from kidney trouble and I got a box but she never lived to take them. I had long been suffering from symptoms similar to those of my wife and these now become severe, and having a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills in the house, I resolved to try them. The first box eased these symptoms, and continuing their use I was completely cured. Dodd's Kidney Pills possess genuine merit."

Weary of Experimenting

With salves, suppositories and ointments and dreading a surgical operation, scores and hundreds have turned to Dr. A. W. Chase's ointment and found it an absolute cure for piles. The first application brings relief from the terrible itching, and it is very seldom that more than one box is required to effect a permanent cure.
