W. I. Convention At Kensington Hall

On June 29 the annual district convention for the Women's Institutes of Baltic, Spring Valley, Malpeque, Darnley, Sea View, Hamilton, Indian River and Clermont met in St. Mark's Hall, Kensington. The hall was artistically decorated with blue and gold and summer flowers, where the president, Mrs. Edison Rayner, and the secretary, Mrs. William Mill, conducted the convention.

After a few remarks of welcome by Mrs. Rayner, the afternoon session opened by singing "The Institute Ode" followed by repeating "Mary Stewart Collect" in unison. An address of welcome was given by Mrs. Cecil Mills, president of Clermont W.I., which was responded to by Mrs. Edgar Mathews, president of Baltic W. I.

The presidents of the various Institutes were then invited to take their places in the front seats of the hall, and a report was given by the secretaries of each Institute. A very interesting paper on Education was given by Mrs. Clarence Hickey of Darnley, and a panel discussion by Hamilton W. I. with Mrs. Neil Simpson as convener and including Mrs. James A. Ramsay, Mrs. Leslie Ramsay, Mrs. Wendell Crozier and Mrs. James M. Ramsay.

A hearty sing-song under the direction of the Indian River Institute and led by Mrs. Manning was followed by an address, and the report of the Federated Women's Institutes in each province was given by the Provincial President, Mrs. Doyle.

Some discussion then took place on the scholarship fund, and it was decided to have the convener of the committee appointed from the scholar's district, with a member from each Institute on the executive.

It was suggested by Mrs. W. J. Harrington that we form a book club among our Institutes. A demonstration and talk on the making of clothes was given by Mrs. Manning and the question box, in charge of Malpeque W.I., was opened at the evening meeting. Baltic, Spring Valley and Indian River also contributed to the evening program. A delicious supper was served by Clermont and Indian River W. I.'s.

Western Personnel Arrive At S'side For Air Operation

—Since last Saturday, July 9th, officers, airwomen and airmen of the reserve units located in the cities of Saskatoon, Saskatchewan and Edmonton, Alberta have been arriving at R.C.A.F. station daily in preparation for the largest army-air force operation of its kind, known as "Operation Gagetown."

For the major part, the personnel concerned are giving up their usual summer vacations to partake of this specialized type of training. They consist of civilian men and women who don the uniform of the R.C.A.F. twice weekly to attend reserve force parades. The part they play in the defence of the country cannot be measured very easily, and a great deal of credit and admiration is due to them for their enthusiastic participation in the various roles as citizen airmen and airwomen.

These personnel are to be based at Station Summerside until the end of July. It has been reported that they are looking forward generally to making new friends in Eastern Canada and particularly on Prince Edward Island. A few were stationed at one or more of the units on Prince Edward Island during the Second World War and are anticipating a warm homecoming.

First hand reports indicate the gratitude of the advance party personnel to the people of Summerside for the co-operation they are showing in lending a helping hand where some small problems have cropped up. Approximately five hundred personnel with the reserve and regular forces are expected to have settled on the Island by this week end.

The type of aircraft involved in Operation Gagetown will include Mitchell light bombers, Mustang fighters, Dakota and Expeditor aircraft. The airlift for personnel and equipment is being done by C119 Flying Box Cars. Personnel involved in the exercise hail from 418 City of Edmonton Squadron, 18 Wing Headquarters Auxiliary, 3054 Technical Training Unit Artillery, all from Edmonton, Alberta. from Saskatoon, Saskatchewan 406 City of Saskatoon, Squadron, 23 Wing Headquarters Auxiliary, 3043 Technical Training Unit Auxiliary and 4002 Medical Unit Auxiliary.

In addition, members of the band of 418 and 406 Squadrons will be in attendance and are endeavoring to organize with the R.C.A.F. Station Summerside band to present a number of concerts in the surrounding area as a token of good will towards the residents of Prince Edward Island. Also included in this operation are regular force members from the Canadian Joint Air Training Center at Rivers, Manitoba, 105 Communications and Rescue Flight, Namao, Alberta; 435 Transport Squadron, Edmonton, Alberta and 408 Photo-Reconaissance Squadron, Rockcliffe, Ont.

The operation is under the command of Group Captain A.D.R. Lowe, D.F.C., A.F.C., Edmonton, Alberta. Group Captain Lowe is a reserve officer and is presently the commanding officer of 18 WG. HQ. Aux. Edmonton. It is interesting to note that this is the first time in Canada that a reserve officer is in command of an operation of this magnitude from the Air Force point of view which gives the citizens of Canada an idea of the important role that reserve force personnel are playing in the defence of Canada.

Colorful Acadian Parade Yesterday At Egmont Bay

—A colorful parade of men, women and children, together with a dozen extremely picturesque floats depicting phases of early day and present Acadian life and customs, highlighted the regional bicentennial celebration at Egmont Bay yesterday.

The observance began with High Mass at 9 a.m., followed by an afternoon of fun, fellowship, and amusements, and concluded with the parade and remarks by various speakers in the evening. Meals and refreshments were served on the grounds.

This was the second Acadian bicentennial observance held on the Island, the first being at Wellington during the latter part of June.

The third regional observance will be at Mont Carmel this Sunday afternoon, and the provincial celebrations will conclude with a day long program at Rustico on July 20th.

In additional to many men, women and children marching in costume, the order of the colorful parade headed by the R.C.M.P., was led by two men on saddle horses; floats depicting the Lacordaire and Joan of Arc Abstainance Societies; St. Thomas Aquinas Society for French Catholic education and scholarships; the 50th anniversary of the Mont Carmel and Egmont Bay exhibition; present day Acadian fishermen; early Acadian agriculture; 4th Club work; Notre Dame L'Assomption; Miscouche Convention of Acadians in 1884; horse and buggy days; early Acadian handicrafts in the art of carding, spinning, and weaving; the founding of the Egmont Bay parish; the Order of Good Times; and "Evangeline" and "Gabriel" at Grand Pre.

OPENING REMARKS

Opening remarks following the parade were made by Rev. Charles Gallant, who was followed by Mr. Charles M. Arsenault, the chairman of the program, who introduced the parish priest, Rev. Nazaire Poirier, who extended the welcome of the parish to all the visitors who were present for the occasion.

Mr. Gilbert Finn, general manager of Assumption Mutual Society, Moncton, N. B., commended the people of the area on the fine program they had presented. He referred to the progress made by the Acadians since the convention in Miscouche in 1884, and extended an invitation to attend the large celebrations that are being held in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia Acadian centers during the summer, and he said that France, England, and all the Canadian Provinces will be represented at these meetings. He stressed the roll that is played by various Acadian organizations and societies in the community life of the various parishes, and said that these celebrations should unite Acadians more and more, and result in a continuation of the work and progress which has already been accomplished.

Msgr. A. Melanson of Moncton, who is general chaplain of L'Assomption Society, recalled a previous gathering he had attended at Egmont Bay some years ago in the interest of L'Assomption Society, at which members on the platform incuded such Acadian dignitaries as Mr. Justice Arsenault and Lieut.-Governor Joseph Bernard. He described the way in which the social, economic, educational and religious life of Acadians has been raised by the L'Assomption Society on the mainland, and the St. Thomas Aquinas Society on P.E.I., through the provision of a fund for the education of Acadian students. He said that over 800 students have benefited from the educational fund of L'Assomption Society in the Maritimes and that one of the first was Msgr. Andrew Arsenault, parish priest on the Magdalen Islands, who with his assistant, Rev. Esdras Nadeau, was present at the Egmont Bay observance yesterday.

Music by the Miscouche Band was provided on the grounds and for the parade, and a girls chorus, during the evening program, was heard in the beautiful number "L'Evangeline."
