Markets

New York Stocks

CLEVELAND (AP)—The stock market ran into selling difficulties last week for the first time in its three-week bull market drive ahead following the election. But by the weekend it was headed higher again, although with much lessened vigor.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 80 cents compared with a gain of $4.70 the previous week and $4.90 the week of the election.

Volume for the week was unusually heavy at 16,791,320 shares, best since the third week of January, 1951.

The stock market has been climbing for more than 14 months. On the day before the Nov. 3 election, it started higher, and the day after the votes were counted it surged ahead in one grand sweep that hardly bobbed until last week.

STEADY ADVANCE
Some brokers felt the market was overdue for a corrective reaction, a normal procedure after a sustained rise. This, they told themselves, is it. But the selling was absorbed rather easily, and prices resumed their advance.

Continued excellent general business formed a firm base for the market. The manner in which leadership revolved from one major group to another, including the railroads, also was viewed as a point of strength.

On Monday the market declined in a mild selloff.

On Tuesday it rebounded with new strength and heavy trading. The next day it continued its rise with even greater business. Then came the reaction.

Thursday's market ran into several stormy periods of selling, and just before the close a wave of selling rolled through the list. Brokers felt that the decline could mark the beginning of a full-scale reaction.

NO REACTION
They anxiously watched the tape on Friday for signs indicating its intentions. Selling continued heavy with prices under pressure. Then it passed. The market steadied itself and went ahead. When the final bell rang, the market was doing quite well.

The five most active issues on the New York stock exchange were: New York Central, off 1/4 at 23 1/2; on 238,100 shares; Colorado Fuel and Iron, up 3/4; Chrysler Corp., off 2; U. S. Steel, up 3/4, and Pennsylvania Railroad ahead 1/2.

Canadian issues were mixed at the week's close. McIntyre gained 1/2 and International Nickel added 1/2. Losers included Hiram Walker down 1/4, and Canadian Pacific and Distillers Seagram which lost 1/4.

Canadian issues on the American stock exchange were quiet.

D. S. Steel
CLEVELAND (AP)—A steady rise in steel production—from 60 per cent of capacity in early July to a 1954 peak of 79 per cent last week—means inventory reduction by consumers is over, Steel Magazine said Sunday.

Last week's ingot output moved up 1.5 points over the preceding week and is the highest since last December, the weekly magazine of metal-working reported.

It looks as though production this year will total about 85,518,000 net tons, or 88 per cent of capacity. Steel continued. That represents about 63,300,000 tons of finished steel, but 1934 consumption of finished steel was estimated by the magazine at 71,100,000 tons.

"That means users relied on their inventories for 7,800,000 tons of finished steel—mainly in the first nine months of this year," Steel said.

From now on the steel buyer will have to do more advance planning and order earlier, Steel said.

"As the overall demand for steel increases, delivery times lengthen."

The 71,100,000 tons of finished steel the magazine calculates will be consumed this year would have required an ingot rate of 94,800,000 tons, or 76 per cent of capacity, had users not lived off inventories, Steel said. On this basis, it reported some analysts of the industry are anticipating an ingot rate averaging around 75 per cent in 1955—or up seven per cent from this year.

No Trial For Ex-President

LONDON (Reuters)—Cairo radio said Sunday night that it has been decided not to put deposed president Mohammed Naguib on trial for allegedly conspiring to overthrow the regime of Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser.

A Sudanese delegation, headed by Sayed Mohammed Nur El Din, minister of works, arrived in Cairo Friday to urge the Egyptian government to safeguard Sudan-born Naguib's life.

OTTAWA (CP)—A trucking association executive said Thursday that trucks are vital to national defence but will never replace the railways as the chief means of transportation in wartime.

G. M. Parke, past president of the Canadian Trucking Association, made the statement to a royal commission investigating the controversial issue of railway agreed charge contracts. Agreed charges are special low contract rates given by the railways in return for a guaranteed percentage of a shipper's business.

Mr. Parke told the commission Wednesday that widespread railway use of the agreed charge method of setting freight rates could destroy Canada's motor transport industry. He said this was not in the national interest because of the importance of the industry for national defence and as an alternate method of transportation in event of a railway strike.

Under cross examination Thursday by Hugh O'Donnell, CNR counsel, Mr. Parke said Parliament was called to settle the 1950 railway strike because only the railways could "do a complete job from the standpoint of national defence." However, there was no suggestion that trucks were not doing a job consistent with their facilities.

"In the matter of national defence the trucks could not replace the railways," he said.

The railways are asking the commission to recommend amendments to the Transport Act to place them in a better position to meet increasing truck competition. They want freedom of action in making agreed charge contracts with shippers but the trucking association says the railway request would bring about the destruction of the motor transport industry.

Five Safecracking Gangs in Ontario

TORONTO (CP)—Police said Thursday at least five organized gangs of safecrackers are operating in Ontario. Their total loot in the last three months was more than $100,000.

Ontario provincial police said the gangs are not controlled by any central figure. However, they work hand in hand, each with a specified area.

Chief Inspector Wilfred Franks of the OPP criminal investigation branch, said most safes are opened by smashing them but in some cases home-made nitro-glycerine is used.

Police said safecracking has become the most profitable and safest criminal activity. Many safes are hidden in basements or back rooms where work is possible without fear of discovery. Fingerprints are rarely found, since radio and television shows have drilled police procedure into the minds of criminals, one officer said.

Press Squabble Over Royal Family

LONDON (CP)—Another newspaper has joined the fray in the press squabble over whether the Royal Family is swaying the lead. Emphatically not, says the Yorkshire Post.

"By all means let royal persons make frequent visits to the Dominions," it says, "but let it not be suggested that they do not fill their time helpfully at home."

The Conservative newspaper thus replies to the Daily Mirror which started the rumpus by saying it's a pity the Royal Family doesn't do more travelling abroad.

"What can they do here? Twiddle their thumbs? Visit one another? Do the dreary social rounds?" the Daily Mirror asked in an editorial Tuesday.

The Daily Telegraph and the Daily Mail editorially rapped the Mirror's knuckles. "What nonsense! What misinformation!" said The Mail. "Stupid slander," added the Telegraph.

And the Duke of Edinburgh, breaking royal precedent, also got a word in. After a three-hour visit Wednesday to a Birmingham factory, he commented lightly: "Of course, ladies and gentlemen, you know what I am doing—twiddling my thumbs."

Nobody stuck up for The Mirror, a solitary voice in this type of verbal fighting. Unrepentant, The Mirror produced a front-page box: "Give your Royal Family a chance to serve. The expensive royal yacht, Britannia, was built to be used. Pull speed ahead."

Buckingham Palace usually keeps out of these editorial tussles. But a palace spokesman said Thursday: "There has been a strong public reaction. It is natural the British people would not tolerate any suggestion that the Royal Family does nothing but sit around."

IMPOSE LIQUOR TAX

PARIS (Reuters)—New measures were taken Saturday to cut down consumption of alcohol in France. The government, acting under special emergency powers, imposed a 20-per-cent tax increase on all drinks except cheap, sweet wine, clamped greater control on home distillers and set up a commission to fight alcoholism.
