

to his obtaining the certificate to which he was entitled for his work on the roads. And we are prepared to prove that on or about the 4th of May, 1853, Bearney, as Road Commissioner, gave a lying certificate to the effect, that William Carroll was entitled to receive one pound two shillings and six-pence, for work performed on the road, to his (Bearney's) satisfaction. — that, in fact, Carroll had done no such work, — that Bearney was indebted to him for oatmeal or some other article, and that this money went to pay the debt! This we are, and have been, prepared to prove, and we have waited patiently, but in vain, for Bearney to give us an opportunity of doing so.

From the extract we have given from the declaration, our readers will perceive the benefit we have rendered to the public by exposing the nefarious conduct of this fellow, Bearney, as he dwells with most melancholy emphasis on the fact that, until we tore the mask from his blushing visage, he was not suspected of being a rogue. He should have gone further, and consistently terminated his whining eulogy on his former happy estate, by saying that now every body knew him to be one!

The order in favor of Carroll purports to be for a portion of a larger sum to be expended where "most required." Now, considering that it went for oatmeal, we are not left much in doubt as to where Mr. Bearney considered it to be most required. Any one who has seen the distended paunch of the worthy, will be satisfied that it was required for

"That stomach crammed from every dish,
That tomb of boild and roast, of flesh and fish,
Where wind and phlegm, and bile and acid jar,
And the whole man is one intestine war."

We shall probably resume the subject next week, if, in the meantime, we shall not receive some assurance that Pat intends to mend his own low ways more creditably than he has hitherto done the Queen's High-ways.

The Royal Gazette of Thursday last contained the usual official notification of the Royal assent having been given to several Acts passed during the last Session of the Legislature of this Colony. Amongst these are two measures which met with stout opposition from the Proprietary party — Her Majesty having again been pestered with petitions to nullify the action of her Colonial Legislature. There is no doubt that the independent stand taken by the Government and by the House of Assembly last Session, in addressing the Queen on the subject of proprietary interference with the legislation of the Colony, has had its due weight in securing the favourable consideration of the Imperial Government to the Bills in question. The Act relating to ejectments and distresses — the first of those alluded to — is a measure of great importance to the tenantry of this Island. In introducing that Bill in the Assembly, the leader of the Government said, that if it were to become law, he would regard it as a measure next in importance to the Tenant Compensation Bill, which Her Majesty had thought proper to disallow; for, when a tenant became so unfortunate as to get in arrears with his landlord, and an action of ejectment had been commenced against him, he would be at liberty to pay his rent at any time before the Sheriff actually proceeded to dispossess him, and thus be enabled to retain possession of his farm, notwithstanding the covenant in his lease relating to forfeiture for non-payment of rent.

The other Act "to explain and amend the Statute of limitations of actions concerning real estate," is intended as a remedy for a decision given by the Court here some time since, in reference to holding real estate by possession. The Court decided that before the right of possession could be exercised, the party claiming it should have held the place in dispute for at least forty years, provided the former owner were absent from the Island during the whole of that time, notwithstanding he may have had an agent here during the whole term; but if he was on the Island, a possession undisturbed for twenty years would be sufficient. Now the object of the new Act is to secure to the occupier the property, if he has been in possession for the shorter period, provided the absent proprietor, who may seek to dispossess him, has had an agent or representative in the Island during that period. One of the objections — and perhaps the most candid and forcible — offered by the Proprietors against the Bill under consideration, is — that as all Agents are persons not to be trusted, the rights of the Principals might, in many instances, be sacrificed. We have no doubt of it; but if proprietors will allow their interests to be neglected or sacrificed by unworthy agents — whose real object is to possess themselves of the lands for the management of which they profess to act — there should be no sympathy or consideration for them. If they want to get rid of that anxiety which the possession of their estates brings upon them, and extricate themselves from the harpy grasp of their agents, they should unhesitatingly avail themselves of the readiness of the Government to purchase their property at remunerating prices.

We have two motives for congratulation in announcing the triumph of the Government and the popular party in our Legislature over the Obstructive Proprietors, with respect to the Ejectment and Limitation Bills. The first arises from the consideration that these measures will be attended with many advantages to the tenantry — will secure the more unfortunate against oppression and persecution — and show to the country at large that our Government is not only as willing now, as it ever was, since the establishment of Responsible Government, but is in a better position to carry out substantial reforms in the law, so material to the well-being of a large majority of our population. The second motive for congratulation is to be found in the fact — that the prestige of the Proprietary faction has departed — that their influence is no longer powerful enough to defeat useful legislation; and that henceforth the little Prince Edward Island ship of state may pursue the even tenor of its way, without being checked in its progress and derided by piratical adventurers.

COLONIAL TIMES.—This is the title of a new weekly paper published by Davis P. Howe, Esq., at Chatham, Miramichi. It is very neatly printed, and filled with highly interesting reading. The selections display much taste and experience in catering for newspaper readers. We wish our new contemporary unlimited success, and shall be happy to receive his periodical visits.

COBURN'S INQUESTS.—On Friday last an inquest was held on the body of a lad, named Halls, 12 years of age, who died from inflammation of the bowels, caused by immoderate bathing. On Sunday two inquests were held. At the Citadel, on the body of Edward Harrison, a private of the 63rd, who went to bed the night before, and was found dead in the morning. Verdict accordingly. The second inquest was held at the Poores' Asylum, on the body of a male child, found in a herring-box, in the Catholic burial-ground. The child was examined by medical men, whose opinion was, that the infant was born dead. Verdict accordingly.—Halifax Catholic.

UNITED STATES.

THE KANSAS WAR.

[From the Glasgow (Mo.) Times, Sept. 2.]

FIGHT AT OSSAWATOMIE—BORDER REVENUE ACCOUNT—KILLED AND WOUNDED ON BOTH SIDES.—We have just received, per steamer "William Campbell," an extra from the Western Dispatch office, dated Independence, Sunday evening, containing important news from Kansas. The letters below were brought in by Mr. Shepherd, of Independence, a reliable man.—He also reports a battle had been fought in the direction of Fort Scott, in which thirteen Southern men were killed. No particulars.

The letters from Capt. Reid and Mr. Chiles follow:—

CAMP, BULL CREEK, Aug. 31. I moved with 250 men on the abolition fort and town of Ossawatimie—the head-quarters of old Brown—on night before last; marched forty miles and assaulted the town without dismounting the men, about sun rise on yesterday. We had a brisk fight for an hour or more, and had five men wounded—none dangerously.—Captain Boyce, William Gordon, and three others. We killed about thirty of them, among the number, certain, a son of old Brown, and almost certain old Brown himself; destroyed all their ammunition and provisions, and the boys would burn the town to the ground. I could not help it. We must be supported by our friends. We still want more men and ammunition—ammunition of all sorts. Powder, muskets, balls, and caps, is the constant cry. I write in great haste, as I have been in saddle, rode one hundred miles, and fought a battle, without rest. REID.

CAMP AT BULL CREEK, Aug. 31. General Reid, with 250 men, had a fight at Ossawatimie yesterday. We had four men wounded:—Captain Boyce, of Lexington; F. Gordon, of Clay; Captain Boyce had his wrist broken; Gordon was shot in the shoulder; young Jackson, of Howard, was shot in the mouth—badly hurt. George Gordon, of Lafayette, shot in the thigh. Young Parker, of Lafayette, was shot in the leg. The abolitionists made the attack. We killed twenty and burnt the town. Same evening a large number made their appearance near camp. We expect to have a fight at Prairie City. We then march to Lawrence, where we will have the big fight. We need men and means. There are here now 1,200 men, and about 800 opposite Lawrence that will operate with us. Brown was supposed to be killed at Ossawatimie. Urge all men to come on. JAS. CHILES.

A "terrible riot" occurred at Baltimore on the 11th inst. Two men were shot dead and some twenty others wounded. Neither of the men killed were engaged in the fight, and most of those wounded were residents in the vicinity, attracted to the spot by the disturbance.

NEW BRUNSWICK.

ADDRESS TO THE COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF.

DURING the recent visit to New Brunswick of Sir William Eyre, Commander-in-Chief of the Forces in North America, he was presented with complimentary addresses by the corporations of Fredericton and St. John, and by some of the Charitable Societies of the latter place. The following address of the St. Patrick's Society, and the answer thereto, appear to have some points of interest, and we therefore make room for them:—

To His Excellency Lieutenant General Sir William Eyre, K. C. B., Commander-in-Chief of Her Majesty's Forces in British North America, &c. &c. &c.

We, the Saint Patrick's Society, of the City of Saint John, beg to offer to Your Excellency our most cordial welcome on the occasion of your Excellency's arrival in this City.

The very recent close of that momentous struggle in the Crimea, in which you bore so conspicuous a part, renders your visit one of deep interest to us all.

Your Excellency will readily believe that during the continuance of the war we watched with feelings of mingled pleasure and pain the progress of that heroic army, with which your name is inseparably connected—pleasure at its astonishing success, and pain at the loss of so many gallant men, (some personally known to us,) who died a Soldier's death before Sebastopol.

We feel, Sir, that to the already illustrious Military reputation of the British Nation, your achievements in the East have imparted an additional brilliancy: and we assure you that it is with no ordinary feelings of pleasure that we pay the present tribute of respect to one whose noble deeds in many a trying hour of danger have not less covered himself with glory than illustrated one of the brightest and most important pages of British history.

We have much pleasure in congratulating Your Excellency on your appointment to a post of command in these Provinces, the importance of which proves that your eminent services have not been unappreciated by your Queen and Country.

We beg, Sir, in conclusion, to express our heartfelt prayer and earnest hope, that Your Excellency may long live to wear the laurels and enjoy the honors you have so nobly won, and that in any future struggle of Liberty against Despotism, the honor of the British Flag may ever be defended by spirits as brave and chivalrous as your own.

[L. S.] ROBERT ARMSTRONG, President. S. R. THOMSON, Assistant Secretary.

REPLY.

GENTLEMEN,—I feel very much obliged to the St. Patrick's Benevolent Society of the City of St. John, for the kind and handsome Address with which they have thought proper to honor me. Having lived so much among your warm-hearted and generous countrymen,—for a very large portion of the Regiment I formerly had the honor to command, viz:—the 73d Regiment, were composed of Irish, nothing could be more gratifying to my feelings, than the cordial welcome you have shown me. Of those gallant spirits to whose services in the East you so feelingly allude, none distinguished themselves more than the Irish. Among the first to advance, they were patient under privations, light-hearted, and even cracking their jokes in the midst of their sufferings; they were at all times true to their duty, good soldiers, and patriots,—ready to lay down their lives for their Queen and Country. I assure you, gentlemen, this is not the language of flattery—as I have seen them, so I describe them. It will be a source of gratification to you and other inhabitants of this portion of Her Majesty's dominions, to feel that you not only sympathize with your countrymen in their achievements and their sufferings, but came forward with a subscription to alleviate those sufferings, and minister to their comforts. Were I an inhabitant of this Province, I should certainly be proud of the act as long as I lived. It will assuredly not be forgotten by the British army, nor by the country. It was a noble act of disinterestedness and generosity, worth all the wealth in the world. I am also very much gratified by the handsome terms in which you speak of my own services personally. I have endeavoured to do my duty, but it is comparatively easy work to command men such as compose the British army. There are no men like them; such at all events is my belief. In peace time they will not attract much attention, and I only hope they will not be required in war to show what their real worth is. Gentlemen, farewell!

WM. EYRE, Lieutenant General.
