150 Participate In YMCA Circus

Over 150 performers displayed their gymnastic talents to a large audience at the YMCA circus last night. A total of 13 acts consisting of routines on the apparatus by young girls and boys, clowns in special acts and a complete circus band made up the program.

The show was opened by a grand march of all the performers with John Ives acting as ring-master.

The children's acts included precision marching and tumbling by the juvenile girls, while the juvenile boys staged an Indian sacrifice ceremony. This was followed by Miss Andrea Duvar's Highland dancing group doing the Highland Fling.

More advanced apparatus routines were performed by the junior girls on the parallel bars and junior boys on the spring-boards and pommel-horse.

Highlights on the apparatus included the junior girls again on the flying rings and the intermediate girls showing great skill on the trampoline.

Judy Vessey and Jack Turner were featured in a tag-team number, this is a duet hand balancing act that requires coordination.

Fordham Lecturer To Speak At SDU On Solar System Life

Dr. Douglas J. Hennessey, professor of chemistry at Fordham University, New York will give an illustrated lecture at St. Dunstan's University tonight. He will speak on recent findings made with scientific colleagues which support the view that life has existed in the solar system outside the planet earth.

The subject, which is highly controversial and interesting, was reviewed in the March issue of Scientific American by Dr. Brian Mason of the American Museum of Natural History.

Other reports of this work have appeared in European and North American scientific journals.

The work which was instituted by Dr. Barilolomew Nagy of Fordham has had the collaboration of Dr. George Claus of New York University and Dr. Warren Meinschein of Esso Research and Engineering Company.

The study of the meaning of the findings of Nagy's group is continuing in many laboratories because of the obvious implications and significance of the existence of extra terrestrial life in this space age.

Police Chief Sterna Webster said the installation of the reactivated parking meters in the main business district, seemingly is causing considerable confusion among motorists.

With the start of the new season, the meters have been adjusted to take the increased parking fees, which were announced by city council earlier this year.

Instead of reading the new instructions, the chief said that motorists are still attempting to feed copper coins into the meters, despite the fact that the one-cent piece will no longer activate the machines.

He pointed out that from now on, the lowest denomination coin which the meters will accept is the five-cent piece. This allows parking for a period up to 30 minutes. The meters will also take dimes giving up to 60 minutes.

Fishermen May Seek Season Delay

SOURIS - Fishermen here and in surrounding areas are talking of asking Ottawa for a delay in the start of the lobster fishing season, scheduled to open May 1.

There were two reasons for asking for the delay, they said. First on the north shore ice may prevent operations. There is considerable ice all along the shore at present.

The second reason has to do with roads. Fishermen said it was difficult, and in some cases impossible at present to move gear to fishing ports because of snow and mud.

However, the discussion of a delay in the opening is only in an informal stage at present.

Draggers Set Sailing Date

SOURIS - If ice conditions remain favorable off Souris, it is expected the dragger fleet will sail for the first time this season on Monday. Fish plants would then be expected to open early the following week.

Reports indicated that drift ice off the port had blown away in recent days. However, there was still ice off the north side and it was possible a shift of wind might close this port to draggers before sailing date.

DRAGGERS SET SAILING DATE
SOURIS - If ice conditions remain favorable off Souris, it is expected the dragger fleet will sail for the first time this season on Monday. Fish plants would then be expected to open early the following week.
