HALIFAX (CP)—The weather office says the leading edge of a cool air mass was producing showers as it pushed through Southern New Brunswick late Friday.

Warm moist air left in the southern regions was being gradually displaced and will be entirely out of the district by early Sunday. As a result clearing skies and cool temperatures are expected.

Sunday also promises to be sunny but not as cool as Saturday.

Regional forecast:
Prince Edward Island, Eastern N.B. Counties, Lower St. John River Valley: Clearing during morning; a few afternoon cloudy periods; cool.
