DOMESTIC DISPUTE
Sometimes 'tis well to disagree
Providing from all anger free.
—Old Mother Nature.

The trouble is disagreements too often lead to loss of temper. Then the good that might come from them often fails completely. But if there is no loss of temper, and folks can disagree pleasantly, differences can be adjusted to the advantage of all.

"I have decided where we are going to make our home," said Mrs. Rattles.

Peter Rabbit had visited a big gravel pit. It was curiosity that took him there. At first, he had seen nothing to interest him in the least. Then he had noticed a few grains of sand trickling down from near the wall of the pit. Looking up he saw what appeared to be a small hole in the sandy wall, and it was from this the sand was trickling down. Right away he was full of curiosity. But before he had a chance to satisfy this he happened to look up and saw circling high in the air Red-tail the Hawk. There was nothing in that sandpit to hide under or behind. Peter got out of there in a hurry. Redtail might not try to catch him, but long ago Peter learned how foolish it is to take chances.

It was while Peter was running hip-hip, hip-hip, for the dear Old Briar-patch that some one came out of that little hole high in the wall of the gravel pit. It was Mrs. Rattles the Kingfisher. Grandfather Frog delights in calling her Mrs. Sandpecker. She flew over to the Smiling Pool. There she found Rattles on his favorite perch from which he could look down all over the Smiling Pool. Rattles was feeling out of sorts. He had had no breakfast this morning. Twice he had plunged for a little fish, and twice he had missed. Each time the little fish had been too quick for him.

"I have decided where we are going to make our home," said Mrs. Rattles.

"You don't say," said Rattles. He didn't appear in the least interested.

"I do say!" retorted Mrs. Rattles. "It is going to be over in that big gravel-pit."

"Not if I have anything to say about it!" declared Rattles crossly.

"Why not?" asked Mrs. Rattles, trying to be pleasant.

Just then Rattles saw another little fish, and plunged headlong into the water after it. Because he was feeling out of sorts he was in too much of a hurry, and again he missed. When he flew back up on his perch he was in a bad temper.

"Why don't you want to make our home over in that sandpit?" asked Mrs. Rattles.

"Because I don't like it over there," declared Rattles.

"But I do," said Mrs. Rattles. "It is too far from River, and too far from the Smiling Pool," declared Rattles.

"You didn't think so when we nested over there once before," said Mrs. Rattles.

"Well, I do now, and that settles it," declared Rattles.

"You don't say," said Mrs. Rattles.

"Yes, I do say. And I mean it," retorted Rattles.

"That is just too bad, because I am going to make my home there whether you are going to make your's there or not," replied Mrs. Rattles. And away she flew straight back to that sandpit, rattling harshly all the way.

NEW ANNAN W.I.

—Mrs. Delbert Raynor was a hostess for the May meeting of the New Annan Women's Institute which opened with singing "The More We Get Together," followed by the creed. Roll call was responded to by eleven members and one visitor exchanging plants or seeds.

Sick committee reported five calls made and fruit taken. The new sick committee is Mrs. Elmer Moose and Mrs. Richard Wall.

School committee reported that the necessary articles had been purchased for the school, and the teacher reported that the Science Kit had been ordered. The new school committee is Mrs. Lewis Moose.

The District Convention will be held in St. Eleanor's Hall with Linklater entertaining, at 2 o'clock Standard Time. The New Annan Institute is to take cakes or cookies as its share towards supper. Much Red Cross work had been completed and more taken by the members. It was moved and seconded to send $1 to the Jubilee Endowment Fund, and that the delegate to the executive meeting be paid for the gas for her car.

The secretary is to send for more cards. Next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Stewart Moose, with Mrs. Lewis Moose and Mrs. Robert Williams on the lunch committee; roll call to be answered by paying two pennies for size of each shoe. Program committee will be Mrs. John Moose and Mrs. William Waite.

Bills were moved paid amounting to $5.01; collection amounted to $1.17; cards sold 95c. Contests by the program committee were enjoyed and a lovely lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by the committee. The meeting closed with The Queen.

RESPONDING TO TWO-BIDS

WHEN two experts form a new partnership and talk things over, deciding on the conventions they shall use, the one point they are apt to haggle over is the response to an opening two-bid—whether it should be "natural" or ace-showing. Most American experts believe that the best bidding technique is to show a "respectable" suit (if any) in response, so that an early understanding may be reached about the trump; but a few experts feel that the immediate exchange of information about aces is the prime consideration.

Perhaps the best solution is to use the ace-showing method with partners who cannot be relied upon for independent, deductive bidding in the later stages, but to use the natural-response method with truly competent, imaginative partners. Let's look at the hands of a partnership—the opposing hands do not matter.

When this deal occurred in a rubber game, East had agreed (reluctantly) to dispense with his usual ace-showing responses to two-bids, and this became the auction:
