The reception was held at the Colony restaurant, west Hamilton.

MR. AND MRS. R.A. HAYWOOD

Gowns Are Rainbow Shades, Arch Of Fern, Phlox Setting

An arch of green fern and white phlox, with baskets of seasonal flowers and pink and white streamers formed the setting for the wedding in the Church of the Nazarene at Freetown of Vaunda Elaine Ashley and Ralph Allan Haywood.

The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Ashley and the groom is a son of Mrs. Vernon J. Campbell and the late Russell Haywood. Rev. John W. Turple officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The church organist, Mrs. Russell Hardy, played the wedding music and accompanied Owen Oliver as he sang "O God of Love," "O Perfect Love" and "God Given Love."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was charming in a fitted floor length gown of white taffeta with high neckline and lily point sleeves. A wedding ring headdress held her veil of Chantilly lace which swept into a long train. She carried a cascade of red roses. Sandra Ashley, as maid of honor, wore a gown of pink brocaded taffeta, similar in style to that of the bride. She wore a wedding ring headdress with a shoulder length veil and carried a cascade of pink carnations.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Roy Haywood, Cheryl Corcoran, Mrs. Glen Rennie, Bonnie Rix and Belle Haywood, were dressed in identically styled gowns in shades of mauve, yellow, aqua, gold and green. They wore wedding ring headdresses with veils and carried nosegays to match their gowns.

Twila Rix, niece of the bride, and Christine Haywood, niece of the groom, were flower girls and Nancy Hardy and Paula Matthews, nieces of the bride, were train bearers. Their gowns and headdresses were miniature models of those worn by the bridesmaids. The flower girls wore blue and carried small baskets of flowers, while the train bearers were white and carried tiny nosegays.

The groom was attended by Allan Wallace as best man and his brother, Roy Haywood, as groomsman. The ushers were Glen Rennie, Swabey Jelley, William Bell and Lloyd Gard.

A reception for one hundred and eighty guests was held in the banquet room of O'Leary Baptist Church. The bride's mother received in a street length dress of blue brocaded taffeta with blue and white accessories. Her corsage was pink carnations.

The groom's mother chose a figured blue and white print with white and blue accessories. Her corsage was pink carnations.

The bride's grandmother, Mrs. Craswell Weeks, who was an honored guest, wore beige lace over taffeta with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The bride's table was centered with a three - tier wedding cake surmounted with miniature bride and groom, and flanked with tall white tapers in silver holders and low bowls of flowrs.

Keith Campbell was master of ceremonies. The toast to the bride was proposed by Andrew Wells and responded to by the groom. A congratulatory message received by telephone was read by the best man.

The guest book was circulated by Miss Darlene Pridham.

For going away the bride donned a dress of pink linen with elbow length cape, pink hat and white accessores. Her corsage was white carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Haywood will reside in Brooklyn, near Alberton.

ELLEN'S DIARY

James Recalls Former "Potato-Pickin" Days

Into the open doorway, and over the threshold of a brand new works day week, we came this morning.

"This will be the best week!" we said.

"And how do you reckon that?" James grinned.

"Because when the sun shines, the autumn colors will be so lovely.

"Do you know, Ellen what tonight reminds me of?" he queried a few minutes ago, stopping at the porch door on his way out to close a window in the piggery and shut a stable door, against the cool of this frosted night. "The potato-pickin'?" we guessed.

"Exactly!" he nodded. "It's like those nights of the digging back in the years when we worked with the ... families — when after a day of it we would ride home along the road in the farm - cart, 'as happy as kings!' And the night would be nippy like this and calm. And sometimes the moon, so that when we came within sight of our own fields, we could make out the whereabouts of the cows in the pasture. And when I'd call the mare in the stable and you your chickens shut in, I'd open the bars and call them in to be milked."

"And sometimes, with the door and shutters open, we'd milk by moonlight" we recalled. "Or with the lantern handing high on a wall to give us light. Remember how theold cat would sit on her haunches and take in the first squirts of milk — and seem to be so happy that we were home?"

He smiled. "There was the separating to do, the calves to feed, and other chores to tend to, before our day was done. But..."

"Those were the times!" we chuckled.

He nodded. "There'd be frost like this on the air, and the sweetish scent of ripening, dying foliage — of the leaves and the ferns" he remembered. No potato harvestings do we now have. No milking by moonlight. No separating, nor feeding calves in the paddock from pails. But cows came in from the pasture to their nurslings.

It was Mack who called them in this evening, because our darkness had not then poturned from their carpentry at the far barns. Replacing a worn sill in a shed there — that was their endeavour of today. Altogether as they said "straightening it up" to have it in good repair. It is a handy place for temporary storings, and also a fine shelter, a fold, for sheep that come down from "the othet farm" past Rob's to spend the winter thereabout. "You didn't get that black ewe"s fleece to the mill yet" one of the young fry observed this evening.

"Not yet" we agreed.

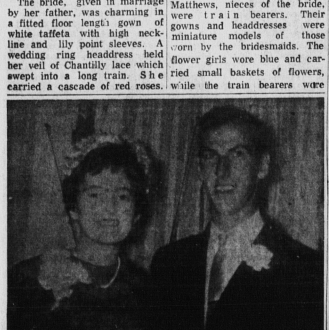
"You should" he advised. "It won't be long now before a man I know will be looking for mittens!"

"Santa Claus?" Peter, overhearing,questioned quickly.

"No, not Santa Claus, Silly! Our grandfather" Alex smiled.

The hollyhocks are seeded. The dahlias have been frost touched. The last phlox is in blossom. And the little songsparrows, our summer friends have drifted away to the South.. Now in starlight the autumn fields lie. There is rime of frost on the grass.

Until tomorrow — Diary — Good - night.....



WED AT ST. PAUL'S

Next meeting will be on October 20 at the home of Winnie Dunning. Lunch was served by the committee.

MR. AND MRS. RONALD BOLGER

Gladioli And Phlox Adorn Altar Of St. Anne's Church

A pretty summer wedding was solemnized in August at St. Anne's Church, Lot 65 when Catherine Joan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hagen, North Wiltshire was united in marriage to Ronald Bolger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Bolger, Hope River. The double-ring ceremony was performed by the uncle of the groom, Rev. Francis Bolger, who also celebrated the nuptial mass. Douglas Hagen, brother of the bride, served the mass.

Gladioli and phlox enhanced the altar and sanctuary. Virginia MacDougall, accompanied by Mrs. William Campbell, was soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor length gown of white nylon mist. The fitted empire bodice featured a bateau neckline and long sleeves ending in points over the hands. A spray of Guipure lace enriched the torso and bouffant skirt which was gathered over bridal satin and hoop. Her elbow - length veil of French illusion was attached to a crown of seed pearls.

She wore a single strand of pearls, a gift of the groom, and she carried a white prayer book with streamers of rosebuds.

The attendants, Frances Hagen, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, Catherine Bolger, sister of the groom, as bridesmaid, and Mary MacDonald as junior bridesmaid wore sheaths with peplums, tre, Charlottetown. For receiving, the bride's mother chose a sheath of mauve lace with matching jacket, white hat and accessories and a corsage of yellow carnations. The mother of the groom was attired in a turquoise sheath of brocade, with matching three-quarter-matching petal covered wedding ring hats and slippers. The junior bridesmaid wore a full skirted frock and matching bandeau. They carried nosegays of white and pink carnations.

Edmond LeClair was best man and the ushers were Kilmer Hagen, brother of the bride, and Brian Bolger, brother of the groom.

Following the signing of the register, Rev. Charles McCarthy consecrated the young couple and their home to the Immaculate Heart of Mary.

A reception for 100 guests was held in the banquet room at the Basilica Recreation Center coat, black hat and accessories. She wore a corsage of white carnations.

Brian McCallum, brother - in - law of the bride, was toastmaster. The toast to the bride proposed by Father Bolger, was responded to by the groom. A congratulatory telegram was read from the bride's aunt, Mrs. David W. Roberts of Toronto.

Anita Hagen, cousin of the bride, was in charge of the guest book.

A reception with buffet lunch was later held at the home of the bride's parets in North Wiltshire. For a honeymoon trip to Bar Harbor and Cape Cod, the bride chose a blue and white three - piece linen suit with white accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations

Previous to her marriage the bride was honored at a community shower in Lot 65 Hall. Mrs. Bernard Connolly also entertained at an enjoyable shower at her apartment on Victory Avenue.

Upon their return home, the newlyweds were tendered a miscellaneous shower in Hope River Hall. They will reside in Charlottetown where they both are on the teaching staff of the city schools.

2nd Debut for Mother

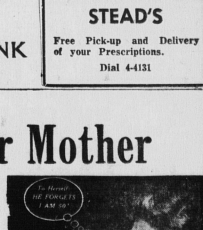
From Germany—
The "Wiesbaden Discovery" that Makes Older Faces Look Younger

WIESBADEN, GERMANY—April 29—News has leaked out concerning a carefully guarded top secret discovery by a small but important group of skin physiologists. Scientific authority has it, that a way is now known whereby facial skin is made to drink minute quantities of water, to quickly gain an appearance of so much youthfulness it hasn't had in years. Facial lines, around the eyes, and the throat, crepey-ness that so deeply mark the pace of unwanted birthdays are said to more or less "get lost" as this water beneath the skin's surface pushes them out of sight.

While this research was not conducted in the interest of beauty, it appears that new happiness for millions of unhappy women is a real, though honestly not intended, result. By special arrangement with the discoverers of this technique, a semi-lotion has been formulated which makes home application of the Wiesbaden discovery easy, pleasant and effective. The name of this preparation is 2ND DEBUT.

Since She May Now Lift Her Face Out of Lines and Wrinkles At Home



SEEING IS BELIEVING...This Lotion-Like Facial Works!

Have you ever wished you had the courage and money to have your face lifted? Not that 2nd Debut is the same thing. Its secret is the newly discovered carrier known as CEF 600 that actually takes pure water with it into and under the skin. Age lines and wrinkles are lifted upwards. They are so greatly reduced...often vanish completely. Face and neck look younger again. Results are startling...and long lasting. 2nd Debut gives a lifting effect you can actually see...or return for refund.
