Looking up suddenly she beheld the bearded face of a man with a gleaming knife between his teeth. Then she fainted. It was no wonder, for she had been carefully reared and had never seen anyone eat pie in that manner.—Indianapolis Journal.

Dramatist—Well, what do you think of the last play I gave you for reading—"The Last Word?"

Manager—It's well written, and there's lots of talent in it, but I won't handle it.

Dramatist—And why?

Manager—You've gone and made a man have the last word. You're no realist.—Syracuse Post.

HOW TO TREAT A COLD.

Don't stuff a cold, as the old adage advises, if you do you will have a fever to starve. A genuine cold is a shock received by the many million nerves which approach near the surface of the human body, and which control the nearly seven million pores of the skin. This shock closes the pores of the skin, is transmitted to the nerve centre and back to the mucous membranes, forcing a great amount of blood to these membranes, creating more or less irritation and consequent fever, inflammation, dryness, then watery discharge and catarrh. The shock may have its cause from a chill, from improper eating, a nervous fright and various other causes which irritate the nerves of the skin and mucous membranes of the nose, throat and bronchial tubes. Excess of blood in the stomach still more clogs the system and pores of the skin, so that effete matter, which should be carried off by the natural courses is retarded; which is ample reason for not stuffing a cold. Experimenting with a severe cold is a dangerous custom, as most persons try one remedy until some friend suggests another "sure cure." When slight hoarseness or tightening of the nasal membranes warns one of a skin exposure or chill from whatever cause, act promptly, delays are dangerous; with children it may mean croup and strangulation; with adults, catarrh, bronchitis, perhaps pneumonia. Scores of mothers would as soon go to bed without matches in the house as without that old-fashioned remedy, Johnson's Anodyne Liniment near at hand for colds and croupy children. The proprietors, I. S. Johnson & Co., Boston, Mass., will send their new illustrated book entitled "Treatment for Diseases," free to any person for the asking.

THE PROPRIETORS.

Make a Few Pertinent Remarks to their Patrons.

Toronto, Jan. 28.—Dr. L. A. Smith & Co., of this city, whose name has become a household word through the Dominion, and in many states of the Union, in consequence of the wonderful cures effected by Dodd's Kidney Pills, desire to thank their patrons for the good words they have spoken for this remedy. During the past few months these expressions have been wired to nearly every paper in the country by grateful people whose lives have been prolonged. These expressions are straightforward and honest, and should convince any unprejudiced mind of their sincerity and truthfulness. You know now, reader, that Dodd's Kidney Pills will do all that is claimed for them. They have stood the test.

"I offer thee," exclaimed the prince in the story, my crown. "Wilt share it with me?"

The beauteous maiden smiled.

"Sure thing!" she answered.

"Why shouldn't I? They are wearing men's styles in everything. — Town Topics.

DON'T DIE BEFORE YOUR TIME.

"Why will you die?" That is the question the scientist now asks the miserable sufferer from consumption or lung trouble The answer naturally is "because I can't help it." But the consumptive can help it. Miller's Emulsion made from Norwegian Cod Liver, and combined with the hypophosphites of lime and soda will cure nine cases out of ten of consumption, and the tenth case can get a reprieve for a year or two. New blood is what the consumptive requires, and Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, when taken produces it. Miller's Emulsion is the great nerve strengthener and blood maker, and cures Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Scrofula and all lung affections. In Big Bottles, 50c. and $1, at all Drug Stores.

USES OF CRANBERRIES.

A Half Dozen Ways to Make Them Palatable and Toothsome.

There is no acid more corrective than that of the cranberry, and it should be seen frequently upon our tables.

Cranberryade—Take a pint of cranberries and add one quart of boiling water, and stew one-half hour in a porcelain-lined dish, then press and strain. Add to the juice one pound granulated sugar, and let it come to a boil twenty minutes. This will be in the form of a thick syrup. Skim and bottle for use. Take a tablespoonful to a glass of water, and you have a delicious, cooling drink, with just enough acid to it to greatly help the appetite.

Baked Cranberries—In an earthen dish put four cups of cranberries, and cover them with water. Cover the dish and put it in the oven. Bake until the berries are soft, then stir in very carefully, two cups of sugar and bake fifteen minutes longer.

Jellied Cranberries—Cook one quart of cranberries until they are soft. Add one full pint of sugar and cook until the juice thickens. Wet a dish or mould in cold water and fill it with cranberries. When cold they will turn out nice and firm.

Cranbery Sauce—To one pound of cranberries, after they are picked over and washed, allow one pound of granulated sugar and half a pint of water. Put the sugar and water into a porcelain kettle and let it come to a boil; then put the berries in. After they begin to boil, allow full ten minutes for boiling; then pour all into a mould, which you have dipped into cold water; this will prevent the jelly from sticking to the mould. Let it stand all night or longer; it will then turn out like jelly, and it will be found to be sweet and yet tart. A larger quantity may be prepared, as it will keep as well as any jelly.

Cranberry Pie—One pint of chopped cranberries, one and one-half cups of sugar, one half cup molasses, one half cup of water, one tablespoonful of flour. This is sufficient for two pies. Bake with two crusts.

Cranberry Pudding—One pint of flour, two tablespoonfuls of baking powder and a little salt mixed thoroughly together. Add sweet milk to make a soft batter. Stir in one cup of coarsely chopped cranberries. Steam one and one-half or two hours. Serve with a sweet sauce.

Cause for Embarrassment.

"What," asked the indulgent husband, "are you going to do with an inconsistent woman, and how are you going to teach her never to make threats?"

All of which means that his wife had just been telling them something that amused them, but not her. She has not lived in her present house long. One of the things that she believes in—and a very good belief it is, many husbands will say—is that the woman who is at the head of the house should do her own marketing. She dropped in at her butcher's in the afternoon, when she was on her way to a matinee at the opera, and gave an order. Another of her principles is to pay spot cash for everything she buys, and to run no accounts, but on this day she had forgotten her pocketbook.

"I did not ask them to charge it to me," she said. "I did not want them to do that. I explained that I had forgotten my pocketbook, and that they were to send the purchase to my house, and on the next day when I came again I would pay them."

"And would you believe," she said, opening her eyes, "that they refused? And I said to them, 'Very well, then, send it around, collect, and I shall not come here to buy anything more.'"

So far so good, but—

"And do you know," she said, with the most innocent smile in the world, "that I went there the very next day, and have been going there ever since because it's the best shop and the most convenient. And they looked very funny when I came in and gave my orders as usual. I think they must have been embarrassed.—New York Tribune.

A Hint for Young Writers.

Of all the varied reminiscences of Robert Louis Stevenson, there was none that struck me as more quaintly significant, writes Miranda, in the Lady's Pictorial, than the statement that the great novelist's weird conception of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" was traced by its author to "an injudicious supper of bread-and-jam." We have all heard before of lobster, and toasted cheese, and pork chops as infallible agents in the production of ghastly dreams; but who would have suspected the apparently innocent bread-and-jam of possessing such dire properties? When we remember how gruesome was the central idea of the Jekyll and Hyde story, it becomes evident that the lamented novelist's recipe must be one of peculiar potency. Other writers who are desirous of producing weird or terrible stories will doubtless take the hint. De Quincey is said to have believed thoroughly in the pork chop, taken at supper time, as a quickener of the imaginatian. But, bread-and-jam is a still more inexpensive and, apparently, an equally efficacious stimulant.

What Armenians Believe.

Armenia, like Poland, is split into three parts, and in a greater or less degree each division of Armenia, which is essentially a Christian country, partly of the Gregorian rite and partly in communion with the Church of Rome, is oppressed by the power which rules it. Turkish Armenia is in the hands of Sunnite Mohammedans, Persian Armenia is in the hands of Shiite Mohammedans, and Russian Armenia is in the hands of the orthodox Greek Christians. The Russian church is intolerant, still more so is the Shiite Mohammedan regime, but the active and persecuting intolerance of neither approaches that of Sunnite Mohammedans. Nevertheless, in spite of all obstacles Armenian christianity and Armenian progress generally have managed to flourish astonishingly. After the vatican council the Armenian United church was threatened with disruption on the hard question of papal infallibility, but Mgr. Hassoun, who was rewarded for his exertions with a cardinal's hat, succeeded in healing the schism before it became serious.—New York Advertiser.

New Use of the Camera.

Herr Runge describes an original method of determining latitude and longitude on land by means of a photographic camera. To take latitude the camera is placed in a weighted box, lens upward, and floated in a second box, the position being fixed by an attachment. The lens being thus directed towards the zenith, the stars are allowed to draw their trails over the exposed plate in one direction, and then the apparatus is turned through an angle of 180 degrees, and a fresh exposure is made. We are told that the results obtained by this rough and ready method are in wonderfully close agreement with the published latitudes of the places in which these experiments were conducted.—Philadelphia Record.

BREAKFAST—SUPPER.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided for our breakfast and supper a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.
