some years now, to Mr. Nolan, who will operate the farm. This is the old property of the late J. J. MacDonald, one time member of the local house and is the old home of Father Reginald MacDonald, P.P., at Borden. The owner, Mr. MacDonald, is a railway man and resides in Georgetown.

It was learned with regret that little Joy O'Brien, who was struck by a truck in the city a short time ago had to re-enter the Hospital where it was found she had suffered a broken leg in the accident. When first taken to the hospital it was not thought any bones were broken. Now we learn from her grandmother that she suffered a broken leg and the leg is now in a cast.

Friends learned with regret last week of the sudden passing of Mr. Howard Hayden of this vicinity. Mr. Hayden suffered a stroke some time ago but was improved when he suffered another attack and passed away. A farmer and fisherman in his prime days, he will be missed around this vicinity. His funeral was held to the Church of the Little Flower, Mowat, on Saturday morning where high mass was sung by his pastor, Rev. P. McKenna, who also conducted the service at the grave beside the church.

Mr. John T. O'Brien was a visitor to the city on Saturday where he called on some old friends and when asked about elections by this scribe, Mr. O'Brien informed us he is eighty-five now and has been voting since he came of age sixty-five years ago. A strong Liberal and a great friend of the late Hon. H. H. Cox and Senator McIntyre, who he worked for in the polls for many years. He clearly recalls the so-called "good old days", the days of wide open voting, hard liquor, drinking, and bare knuckle fighting. You had to be able to hold your own in those days. Sixty years ago he and his late father took "nothing from anyone drunk or sober, rough or smooth," he says.

Manufacturing employment has increased by 60 per cent in Australia since 1929.

"We have in this happy country much to defend"

... we are coming to learn that national security in a dangerously uncertain world must be paid for by productive effort, by sacrifice and by liberal use of common sense.

"Above all, let us not forget that we have in this happy country much to defend. To say this may conjure up a picture of material resources — of harvest fields golden in the summer sun, of oil gushing from Prairie wells, of vast forests, of the great northland with its full promise not half disclosed, and of our almost breath-taking pace of industrial growth.

"But the Canadian way of life is, I suggest, something more than a living standard, something above and beyond the sum total of our material potentialities...

"To preserve our legacy and to enrich it we — with other nations of good will — must at all costs be strong, resolute and united."

B. C. GARDNER, President
