

Farm Chores Set Aside For Outing To Dundas

We awoke to a bright reflection of the daybreak against a wall in the bedroom above the kitchen. Presently the sunlight would steal in to lie in a golden patch there. No wind stirred the leaves of the creosote by the small of the window... We were out of the house along the valley, maples were being touched colorfully, these were still green.

many of these he has responded to along the years... In seasons gone, we have odd times followed him to one of these night-missions of the farm, not without certain exciting murmurs within, to find him held in a circle of lantern light in stable or fold or sty, broken rest forgotten, smiling happily as he looked down on some new born animal or animals there.

MR. AND MRS. STERLING LAVERS Red And White Main Colors For Marshfield Wedding

The chimas of St. Columba Presbyterian Church, Marshfield rang out preceding the wedding on August 22 of Margaret Carol, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward MacCallum, Brackley Beach and Eugene Sterling, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lavers, Charlottetown.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. B. H. Somers. The church was decorated with baskets of white and red chrysanthemums and guest pens were marked with white satin roses.

With Mrs. Allison McEae as organist the Harrington Junior Choir sang "The Lord Is My Shepherd" before the ceremony and "Oh Perfect Love during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a simple floor-length gown of white satin with fitted bodice and full skirt. Her favored veil of French illusion was held in place by a white satin-pearl bow. She carried red roses on a lace covered white pillow.

Mrs. Donald MacCallum, was her sister-in-law's matron of honor. Joan MacCallum, sister of the bride, Clara Lavers, sister of the groom and Beth MacCallum were bridesmaids. They were all skirted streat length dresses of polished cotton in white with navy polka-dots and triangular hats to match. Each carried a small basket of long stemmed roses.

Little Jill MacCallum as flower girl was charming in a white and gold full skirted dress with a white triangular hat. She carried a basket of red sweetheart roses and shasta daisies.

The ring bearer was Teddy Marsh, nephew of the groom. The groom was attended by his brother-in-law, Douglas Reid. The ushers were Gordon MacCallum, brother-in-law of the groom and David Hyndman.

The bride's mother chose for her daughter's wedding a three piece dress of pink shantung with a wide brimmed hat of pink and deep velvet. She wore a corsage of deep rose carnations.

Following the wedding ceremony a reception was held at Gregors-Van-De-Sea for 123 guests. The bride's table was centred with a three tiered wedding cake flanked by bouquets of white and red roses.

For going away the bride wore an A-line turquoise wool suit with a white maribou veil and black accessories. Her corsage was of white sweetheart roses.

Out of the province guests included Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Bruce and David Bruce of Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. R. Clark of Halifax, N.S., David Reid of Montreal, Mrs. Donna MacCallum and her daughters, Jill and Judy of Goose Bay, Labrador.

The bride and groom have taken up residence at 196 Easton St.

James Bruce visited wakened. Doubtless it is because the manna duties of the farming were thrust upon him so early in his teens, that he wakens quickly, and always without apparent regret or resentment over his broken rest. Any call, any unusual sound of the farm will rouse him. And now these are still green.

We admired the old homes, representing gracious living up the years and still comfortable in their well tilled fields. We found that those once so charming but now falling into decay, the quaint architecture, the history, the work of farmer and family, and the spirit, everything going on, how sad the story!

It was just past the sunset when Scamp "piped" us home to his girl of this farm, her mother, the older son of this house who was our chauffeur, James and his "wumman", all to agree that "this was an enjoyable day".
