root on the ground and it had caught him by one leg... The more he struggled to get free, the harder he tugged and pulled, the tighter that loop was drawn around his leg...

Just then a bird flew over and perched on the monster's back.

At last Chickie was too tired to struggle to peck any more... He squatted down in the grass to rest... He was helpless and he knew it...

Russians Like My Fur Lady

STRAFORD, Ont. (CP) — Though a little bewildered by such capitalistic phenomena as a university and a restaurant, a group of visiting Russians appeared to enjoy their visit Thursday night to My Fur Lady, the McGill University musical now in its fourth week here...

The two principal guests—actor Michael Kozakov and director Michael Tsarev — on a seven-day visit to the Shakespearean festival, each had an interpreter at his elbow.

A crowd of about 800 were a little puzzled when the actor's launched into Russian on stage. They were even more puzzled by the resulting applause from the fourth row from the front.

George Carron, a member of the cast, made the biggest hit with the visitors when he appeared as an aging senator denouncing the dullness of the Canadian political scene — in fluent Russian.

At a reception on the stage after the performance, the visitors praised the "exuberance of youth" that had been shown and regretted that even the interpreters had failed to catch some of the puns and topical allusions.

Director Tsarev summed up his impressions in two words—"very bold."

Prairie Grain Subsidy Urged

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker and his cabinet were urged Thursday to grant Prairie grain growers payments of $100,000,000 or more to compensate them for high production costs and low grain prices.

The proposal came from the Interprovincial Farm Union Council which, in a brief, suggested that wheat growers be given 20 cents a bushel on all their deliveries to the wheat board in the last crop year and that barley and oats growers get some similar payment.

This would be in addition to the growers' normal wheat board payments. On wheat, the board pays farmers an initial price of $1.40 a bushel, basis No. 1 northern at terminals. Deliveries are restricted through quotas. Further board payments are made when the wheat is sold and profits realized.

The proposal was among a number made by the council to help farmers out of what the farm body described as an "emergency situation."

It asked for cash advances on farm-stored grain, a royal commission on food price spreads, subsidized wheat exports, extensive price supports and a method of reducing the wheat surplus by paying farmers to shift land into forage farms.

Collect Million Coins a Year

PORT ARTHUR, Ont. (CP) — Two Port Arthur men walk 90 miles a year to collect a stack of pennies and nickels that would, if laid end to end, stretch for 18 miles.

Brent Hodder and his assistant James McCall collect about 1,000,000 coins each year from the 583 parking meters in the city. They also reap a sizeable smattering of washers, slugs, bingo chips and store coupons.

The two men check each one of the meters three times a week. They wind the mechanism twice a week. The take at the end of a year comes to about $24,000.

Some of the things they've come up against: Children stuffing meters full of firecrackers, people smashing and twisting the meters, cars backing into them and one man thinking they were curbside radios.

Model Town Is For Sale After Australian Dam Built

By WILLIAM GASSON SYDNEY (Reuters) — Australia is looking for a buyer from anywhere in the world for a ready-made town suitable for an industrial centre.

The town—Warrangamba — is described as a model of its kind, with all modern conveniences and is only 50 miles from Sydney, which has a population of nearly 2,000,000.

The reason for the sale is the completion of the Warrangamba Dam. With construction work on the dam ended, there now is no specific need for the town which was planned to meet the needs of the community which flourished during the building of the dam.

SECOND TOWN This is the second time Australia has had a town to offer for sale "off the peg" so to speak. Vendors of Warrangamba are hoping that, as in the case of Eildon, in Victoria state, some industrial concern will take over.

The state rivers and water supply commission in Victoria collected less than £500,000 Australian ($1,120,000) from the industrial concerns which bought Eildon when the dam was completed. But, almost more important than the cash, was the fact that the town was preserved instead of being dismantled piecemeal and becoming a ghost town.

Eildon now has a population of 1,000 or just one-third of the number there when the dam was being constructed. But it is growing, and there is the possibility of existing industries attracting others.

PLANNED FOR INDUSTRY Since Eildon was taken over by Masonite Corporation Limited and Australian Consolidated Industries, it has become the centre of what will be the world's fourth largest hardboard plant.

Warrangamba is set in the foothills of the Blue Mountains, a tourist area. Its 500 modern homes have been built in the last 10 years. Homes and barracks provide accommodation for 3,500 persons.

J. W. Goodsell, president of the New South Wales water board, has said Warrangamba will not be abandoned. It will be made available to industry because it was planned for industry.
