ROYAL AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY'S INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITION.

The Temperance Hall did not present so attractive a display as we have on former occasions. It was, however, a very good one, and there was the same number of competitors as there has been for the last two or three years. The long lines of fancy cakes, breads, and other articles were the specimens of fancy work in such abundance as usual. Heart-strings were the most conspicuous, and merited much notice. The display of fancy work was of great variety, the tables were loaded with the greatest variety of homespun cloth that we recollect to have ever seen exhibited. Considerable quantities of foreign necessaries of life were first attended to, the luxuries and superfluities will soon follow. Among the articles of domestic manufacture, the most interesting were: one of them by Miss Anne Green, was of as delicate fineness, and clear, even colour, as those imported, Miss Lockyer's, on the other hand, displayed a taste and fancy in the group-trimming, that entitled her to great credit. There was one, also, by Miss Kelly, altogether of arabesque opera work, that was highly and judiciously given, and which we think the industry of our fair ones turning into channels that serve to enhance their charms, at the legitimate and useful employment of their hands. A panel door formed of Island oak, made by Mr. Silas Barnard, gave proof, that our native woods, when skillfully worked, will bear comparison with those of foreign growth. The display of fruit and vegetables, particularly the latter, was meagre in the extreme. The Exhibition was, on the whole, correct, and well arranged. It is, however, to be regretted that Exhibitions should not occur often for three or four years, at the least. The prizes should either be of greater value, or of that description, which the honor they are destined to confer should compensate for the want of value. A silver medal, not worth, intrinsically, more than half a crown, will do some, and those contents will be calculated to excite the vanity, than ten times its value in money—while on the other hand, poverty and ingenuity, which are the true sources of our progress, will be compensated by the award of such a sum of money as would at once give immediate comfort and assistance, and encourage the recipient to persevere and night, eye, in all probability, would crown his endeavours with a success that would bring with it present employment, and ultimately, a more permanent one.

Should we plan something like this entertained by the Legislature, and should it be willing to give a proper sum, we do not doubt, but that the liberality of the Assembly would be augmented by private subscriptions; nor would there be wanting spirited individuals, who would take upon themselves the management of such a noble and useful industry and which then have both time and opportunity afforded to give proofs of what they could accomplish, and to show that the industry of the country, and do more towards developing its real resources, and making them extensively known, than any number of annual Exhibitions conducted as they are at present.

The Halifax British North America has often queried in the columns of this Gazette, the fitness of the title, which we clip from last issue.

Young Howe, who was honored with the appointment of a Cadet in the British Navy, joined the Roseawen a few days since, and yesterday sported the gold-banded cap. This is a good example for all loyal Nova Scotians, and the fact is cheering to all British Colonials.

We observe that many of our young men are allowing that troublesome appendage the moustache to grow, in honor of the handsome one on the speaker's face, in the House of Commons. Do, I, the colour disagree you, boys? There is an old saying, that "you can depend your eye on a fox winker."

Five new streets in Belfast are denominated Alma, Balkavia, Inkermann, Tchernaya, and Sebastopol.

The Steamship Carlew, withdrawn from the route between Halifax and Boston, was discontinued, because the Admiralty required a spare Steamer at this Port, to go either to England or Boston, or Bermuda, or Newfoundland, in case of accident to any of the regular Steamers.

The Hungarian officers of Omar Pasha's staff, who were last winter impudently dismissed from the Turkish service, in a judicious defence to Austria's influence, have been recalled, since the return of office of Mehmet Ali Pasha.

We are glad to hear that a Meeting of the Sacred Harmonic Society, was held at the residence of Mr. Ross, professor of Vocal Music, on Thursday, the 29th of October, at Mr. Orbell's, president. It was unanimously agreed to hold weekly meetings throughout the winter; and for the purpose of making the Society more generally useful to the singing community, it was agreed to reduce the entrance fee to eighteen pence, and the monthly subscription to nine pence. The following gentlemen presided, and officiated services of Mr. Ross, as leader, have agreed to hold their first meeting on Wednesday evening next, the 7th of Nov., in the Theatre Royal, at the hour of 8 1/2 p. m. As it is intended to be a public meeting, all gentlemen and ladies friendly to the objects of this Society are respectfully requested to attend. The objects of the Society are, singing, and it is hoped that many new members will allow their names to be enrolled in the Society.

PRINCE COUNTY CATTLE SHOW. The following is an account of the above Cattle Show, which took place at the successful competitors' prizes, &c. sent down by Mr. James Fraser, Secretary to the Prince County Branch of the Royal Agricultural Society.

Agreeable to request, this Show was held at the residence of Mr. Ross, on the 29th of Oct. The weather being fine, an immense number of people assembled, and good order prevailed throughout the day. In the course of the Show, several horses on the ground, all fine animals, but some were noble creatures for agricultural purposes. Horned Cattle, Sheep, and Pigs were not inferior to those of any former occasions, although less numerous, owing to Princeton not being so central as where the Show has been held those few years. After the Show, in the afternoon, a grand and noble dinner was taken of an excellent dinner, prepared by Mr. Allan, for the occasion.

DEFICIENCY OF BREADSTUFFS IN EUROPE.

It appears by late advices from Europe, that the harvest in France, and in fact in other European countries, is not so abundant, as we supposed a few months since. Indeed the deficiency is so apparent, that the French government organ, the Moniteur, has been compelled to lay out upon the subject.

It estimates the product of the present year to be about twenty million bushels short, which deficiency must be made up by importation. Being at war with Russia, from whence the largest prospect of the wheat crop has been obtained, it is under the necessity of looking to the United States. The foreign correspondents of the American press confirm the statements made by the foreign journals.

The London Times and Mark Lane Express have long articles upon the subject, substantiating the intimation of the Moniteur, that France must have twenty million bushels of grain in addition to the two hundred and thirty million bushels raised in the empire, to sustain the population during the winter. The Times has taken the matter in hand, and adopted as its policy a quick supply—intending thereby to keep prices at the lowest possible rate. It is stated, that the last steamers from Europe brought several agents of the Government, and that measures are to be taken to forward the necessary amount as speedily as possible.

The intelligence from Europe is calculated to excite the anxiety of our countrymen of breadstuffs, but business generally. For some weeks past, it has not only been now ruled for more than a year have been gradually yielding before the supply, and consumers have looked forward to the time, when the demand would be less, and famine prices; but the intelligence from abroad seems likely to delay the consumption of their hopes. It is evident that the dealers in breadstuffs anticipate that there will be no further reduction in price, and the dealers in wheat, and flour, have made the most of, and every exertion used to keep up the idea, that there is not bread enough in the world to feed the people till another crop shall be harvested. We have no inclination to help forward a speculation here, but we believe there is bread enough in the United States to supply the deficiency in Europe, and our own wants also. Canada alone has surplus enough to supply the deficiency in Europe, and our own wants also. The farmers of the West, who have obtained high prices for their crops for several years past, may hold on in the expectation of obtaining higher rates in the spring, and such prices may be maintained with some degree of certainty, till the winter, and the superabundance of the crops may tell upon the markets before the crop of next year is gathered.

The transactions in breadstuffs in New York city last week were enormous, the value being estimated at forty millions of dollars in quantity dollars. Many of them were gambling transactions, however, purchases and sales made on time, not a barrel of flour or bushel of wheat being expected to change hands, the sellers or buyers paying for the wheat, and not the difference between the selling and the market price. One hundred and sixty-seven thousand barrels of flour, six hundred and seventy-two thousand bushels of wheat, three hundred and twenty-eight thousand of corn, and one hundred and forty thousand of rye were sold and purchased, either really or nominally during the week. The average price paid for flour was $9 13; wheat $1 93; corn $0 86; rye $8 17. Those are wholesale prices obtained by dealers in first hands. The retail prices are far above the average, showing that the consumers in this country pay a large amount of money to the middlemen. This week there has also been much excitement in the market, though it is now more quiet. On Monday, 40,000 barrels of flour and 202,000 bushels of wheat changed hands at a considerable advance.

It is evident from the large transactions that the high price of breadstuffs does not wholly result from a combination of the dealers, as many suppose, but is owing in a great measure to the war in Europe; and it is probable that prices cannot recede until that demand is supplied. The New York Journal of Commerce, speaking of the heavy transactions, says: "Much interest has been felt to know for what market the large purchases were made. It is now generally understood, that the British and French governments are interested in the transaction, and it is said that part of the flour will go to the transport fleet at Constantinople. These large sales are calculated to create excitement throughout the interior, but it appears to us that the British and French governments are interested in the transaction, and it is said that part of the flour will go to the transport fleet at Constantinople.
