Charges By Biologist Are Denied By Ottawa

EDMONTON (CP)—A United States biologist says the Canadian government is withholding facts about radiation levels in the Arctic. A federal official denied the charge.

Dr. William Pruitt, 40, said in a telephone interview from Fairbanks, Alaska, that because no one is worried about whether radiation is effecting reindeer, caribou or Eskimos, the seriousness of radioactive contamination is not being made known.

He said the government is "hushing up" information on radiation.

Dave Dunsmuir, executive to Federal Health Minister Waldo Montieth, said government tests of radioactive contamination in the Northwest Territories and the Arctic indicated levels far below the national average. He denied the government was suppressing information.

Dr. Pruitt, formerly associated with the University of Fairbanks, said that "contamination in Canada's Arctic regions has far surpassed considered safe levels.

"Autopsies performed on the bodies of four Alaskans revealed bones which had four times the concentration of strontium-90 than other United States residents. This indicated an extremely dangerous situation."

He urged a non-government international study into the question of radiation in the far north, a region he described as a radiation "hot spot."

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal health department has decided to extend its radiation measurement program in the Canadian North to determine the amount of over-all radioactivity in the diet of northern residents.

A health department official said the extension will mean that the same type of measurements will be taken in the north as now are made in southern Canada.

U.S. Deficit In Payments Seen Threat To Tourists

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP)—A Congressional subcommittee says the United States might be forced to curb foreign borrowings in the United States as well as reduce tourist spending abroad if the U.S. is unable to overcome a chronic deficit in international payments.

Representative Henry Reuss, chairman of a joint Senate-House of Representatives subcommittee which studied the deficit problem, called on Western Europe, as well as Canada, to open their markets wider to American goods.

Emphasizing that his remarks are aimed mainly at Europe's Common Market, the Wisconsin Democrat told a press conference Thursday the U.S. requires a little better treatment than straight tariff reciprocity to restore its payments balance "and the time has come for European countries to realize this."

He suggested the U.S. ask the Common Market immediately to eliminate all tariffs on American durable goods. Europe, he said, had to play a larger role in providing better opportunities for American exports.

MUST SHARE LOAD

All the industrialized Western countries, including Canada, had to play a larger role in aiding underdeveloped areas to take some of the payments burden off the American back, he said.

The subcommittee report said that despite all efforts taken so far by the U.S. government, "progress of the U.S. toward solving its payments problems has been unsatisfactory."

If the U.S. didn't get cooperation from its allies in overcoming the payments deficit, then the U.S. might have to impose restrictions of its own, the subcommittee added.

Among these would be curbs on foreign borrowings in the U.S., by Canada, Europe and other areas; reductions in the amount of money American tourists could take out of the country and an import tax on certain categories of goods.

The U.S. payments deficit has led to a continuing drain on the American gold stockpile, which now stands at a 23-year low of some $16,000,000,000.

Tshombe Is Given Guarantee

LONDON (CP)—The United Nations has given an assurance guaranteeing the personal safety of President Moise Tshombe when he returns to Katanga from Southern Rhodesia, the foreign office announced Sunday night.

The assurance was received by Sir Patrick Dean, Britain's permanent representative at the United Nations headquarters in New York, and was being immediately conveyed to Tshombe, now in Salisbury.

200 KILLED

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — More than 200 Indian soldiers are known to have been killed in the border fighting with Communist China, and an estimated 1,700 others are still "unaccounted for," a spokesman of the external affairs ministry said Tuesday.

Maugham Seeks To Recover All Gifts To His Daughter

NICE, France (AP)—British author Somerset Maugham has filed suit to take back everything he has given his daughter since her birth 47 years ago. Maugham, who values the gifts at about $2,000,000, contends she is not legally his daughter.

In a petition made to a high civil court in Nice and disclosed on the weekend, the writer said he is not the father of Elizabeth Mary Maugham. She was conceived, Maugham said, before Syrie Bernando divorced Henry Welcome to marry Maugham.

Therefore, the author asserted, Elisabeth Mary, now the wife of Lord John Hope of London, is not his legitimate offspring.

"My daughter never cared a rap about me," said Maugham, who will be 89 next month. He revealed that last April 12 he adopted as his son 50-year-old Alan Frank Searle, his secretary for 32 years.

Maugham's marriage ended in divorce in 1928.

CITES CODE

Maugham cited an article of the French Civil Code which permits recovery of gifts when proof is made of ingratitude on the part of the beneficiary.

The author sold 35 art treasures last April 10 for more than $1,400,000. Maugham cited as proof of Lady Hope's ingratitude that she filed suit against him in London claiming proceeds from the sale of nine of the paintings — including two Renoirs, a Sisley, one Utrillo and a Rouault.

In the British court action, Lady Hope asked that the proceeds from the auction be kept in Britain until it was legally decided who owned the works. She laid claim to nine of them, which she asserted Maugham gave her.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
3♣	Pass	Pass	3♥
Pass	4♥

Opening lead—king of clubs.

"What can defeat me?" is a dominant theme in the play of many hands. Here is a striking example that illustrates the principle involved.

South got to four hearts on the bidding sequence shown. West opened the king of clubs and East ruffed the ace when it was played from dummy. East returned a diamond.

Declarer won with the ace, drew two rounds of trumps, and played a low spade towards the queen. He hoped West had the king, in which case he would be able to discard a diamond loser from dummy on the ace of spades.

However, the queen lost to the king and back came a diamond. South now had to go down one, losing a spade, a diamond and two clubs.

Declarer could have, and should have, made the hand. He failed to apply the principle mentioned before. Let's go back to trick one where the fatal error was made.

South should have ducked the club lead in dummy, knowing there was serious danger the ace would be ruffed in the light of the bidding. If West then played the queen, dummy would duck again, and if West continued with still another club, declarer would duck once more, ruffing the trick in his hand.

These plays would bring South to ten tricks consisting of a spade and a spade ruff later in dummy, five trump tricks, two diamonds and a club. He would lose two clubs and a spade, all told.

Declarer can count ten tricks as soon as dummy comes down. However, he should not go ahead until he gives some thought to the possibility of one of the tricks getting away. In other words, he says to himself at the start, "What can possibly beat me?"

The answer is that East may be void of clubs and that playing the ace prematurely will jeopardize the contract. The next step in the reasoning automatically follows — ten tricks can be preserved by the simple expedient of letting West win the first two tricks.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
