Light Traffic Is No Excuse For Speeding, Accused Told

In passing sentence on two motorists charged with speeding in city police court Friday morning, magistrate A. James Haslam commented that many accidents happen because people take advantage of light traffic to exceed the speed limit. He said that the fact that there was not much traffic on the street did not provide an excuse for the offence.

The two speeders were Lloyd H. Roberts and Leo Frederick Roberts, both of Stanhope.

Also appearing on a charge of speeding, a North River youth, Ernest Frederik Scott, was fined $15 and costs or 5 days for travelling 42 m.p.h. in a 30 mile zone, Kirkwood Drive.

Ernest James Fardy, Charlottetown, while intoxicated, was remanded until June 11, due to his counsellor, John Holmes not being present in court this morning.

One accused was fined $10 and costs or 5 days for failing to stop at a red traffic light, while another was fined $3 and costs or two days for travelling the wrong way on a one-way street.

A man was fined $25 and costs or 30 days for possession of liquor not purchased from the vendors. Another, charged with possession of liquor in a place other than his residence, was fined $20 and costs or 30 days.

There were two cases of drunk and incapable. One accused was fined $20 and costs or 10 days; the other was remanded until June 8.

Portugal Hopes Fishing Rights To Be Protectetd

LISBON, Portugal (Reuters) —Portugal hopes her "historical rights" will be taken into consideration by Canada in extending its offshore fishing limits to 12 miles.

Commenting on the announcement that Canada will establish a 12-mile exclusive fishing zone off its coasts beginning in mid-May next year, a spokesman from the Portuguese foreign ministry said:

"The Canadian government have always expressed their intentions to take into consideration the historical rights of the countries which have fished in that area since long ago.

"During his visit to Ottawa on the occasion of the recent ministerial council of NATO, Portuguese Foreign Minister Dr. Alberto Franco Nogueira exchanged views on the matter with Canadian External Affairs Minister Martin and found in him a most understandable and friendly disposition about the matter."

Mr. Robichaud said those matters will be made known when negotiations with the various countries take place. He also said the provinces are being consulted since a co-operative fisheries extension program is being discussed with them.

Former fisheries minister J. Angus Maclean attempted to get Mr. Pearson to indicate whether the Strait of Belle Isle, Gulf of St. Lawrence, Bay of Fundy, Hectate Strait and Queen Charlotte Sound will be claimed as territorial waters under the government's plan to measure the three - mile territorial waters zone by the headland-to-headland system, also effective in mid-May, 1964.

be so considered. However, the matter was one of detail that remained to be worked out.

Mr. Maclean said the former Conservative government offered sovereignty in the 39-mile-wide Bay of Fundy when a Russian fishing fleet appeared there last year.

Mr. Pearson replied that the Conservatives hadn't taken national action on the 12 - mile fishing zone and the headland-to-headland system for fixing the territorial waters zone.

Mr. Robichaud denied a suggestion by Mr. Diefenbaker that the fisheries minister told a Washington press conference Thursday that the U.S. will have nothing to fear from Canada's claims to a wider fishing zone off Canadian coasts.

"At no time have I stated that the United States will have nothing to fear," Mr. Robichaud said.

Two Ministers May Be Forced To Compile House Report

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—Paul Martin and Lionel Chevrier may burn a lot more midnight oil in the next few weeks than they normally would as external affairs minister and justice minister, respectively.

The reason is that two commitments made by the government in the Commons may have endangered the traditional guarantee against public disclosure of confidential papers prepared for cabinet ministers by their civil service advisers.

Basis of the guarantee is that a civil servant would be seriously hampered in giving his minister advice or an opinion if he knew it was to be made public in Parliament.

If the government carries its two Commons commitments further, Mr. Martin and Mr. Chevrier may find they will personally be preparing papers which normally would be done by their civil servants.

The first commitment was made by Solicitor - General J. Watson Macnaught, on Mr. Chevrier's behalf. He agreed to provide the Commons with a summary of the cases of 1962 and 1963 prison riots.

The information, sought by Harold Winch (NDP—Vancouver East), is to be based on findings of the commissioner of penitentaries, A. J. MacLeod.

ASKS SUMMARY

Mr. Macnaught acknowledged that the information sought by Mr. Winch is privileged — and therefore can't be produced in Parliament. But he added that he would ask Mr. MacLeod to produce a summary.

The second commitment involves a proposal by Stanley Knowles (NDP — Winnipeg North Centre), and Mr. Martin's agreement to it, that the external affairs minster consider providing the Commons with a summary of any commitments by the former Conservative government to acquire nuclear warheads.

The Conservatives deny they made any commitment. Mr. Martin maintains they did, citing several documents. The documents. he said. could not be produced in public because they contain vital serue-nytii they contain vital security information.

In the past, Mr. Martin and Mr. Chevrier have had harsh things to say about a government producing publicly the confidential documents which pass between the cabinet and its advisers.

In 1957, when former prime minister Diefenbaker tabled in the Commons a confidential economic forecast prepared by advisers to the St. Laurent Liberal government, Mr. Martin expressed indignation.

He said Mr. Diefenbaker "destroyed the anonymity which must always attend the public servants of this country."

By revealing confidential documents, the prime minister has placed the public servants of this country in a very difficult position," he said.

DAVID ELLSWORTH

David Ellsworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Preston Ellsworth, Charlottetown, has been chosen by World University Service of Canada for a scholarship to its international seminar. The site of this year's seminar will be in Pakistan.

The program, entitled "The Influence of the Occident and the Orient in Pakistan," is an extensive one covering all aspects of Pakistani culture, political and economic life.

The seminar tour which commences June 19 includes preliminary sessions in New York, and a week's lecture and orientation session at Cumberland Lodge, Windsor Park, England.

This will be followed by a heavy lecture series at the University of Karachi, Pakistan, and tours of both East and West Pakistan, including such ancient cities as Lahore, Rawalpindi, Hyderabad, Kotri, Bahawalpur, Dacca and Taxila, and a two-week resident discussion period at Abbotabad in the foothills of the Himalayas. The seminar will be followed by a tour in Asia and Europe. The Canadian participants will return to New York, Aug. 22.

Mr. Ellsworth, a graduate in arts of St. Dunstan's University participated actively in many student organizations at that university. He has been president of the Drama Society for two years, a member of the Students' Union, a member of the university's executive of the Canadian Federation of Catholic College Students, a member of the national executive and past-president of the St. Dunstan's branch of the Progressive Conservative Student Federation, as well as feature editor of the university paper, Red and White. For the past year, Mr. Ellsworth was the representative of the Canadian University Students on the P.E.I. Conference on Education.

His injuries could not be determined last night but he had several severe facial lacerations and possible internal injuries.

Sentence Suspended For Theft Of Money

A two - year suspended sentence was imposed upon Mrs. Phyllis Dickieson, New Glasgow, by Judge C. St. Clair Trainor in Queens County Court yesterday, at her appearance for sentence on the charge of the theft of $15,000 from the New Glasgow Dairy.

Counselled by Kenneth R. MacDonald, Mrs. Dickieson was also ordered to enter into a recognizance of $4,000 with two sureties of $2,000 each.

In passing sentence Judge Trainor noted that the crime was of a very serious nature striking at the foundation on which business rests. In ordinary circumstances, he told the accused that of sentence of one year in excess of a minimum penitentiary term would be imposed.

But, in the case of the accused, the welfare of children was an important consideration, Judge Trainor said.

The department of child health and welfare, which has studied the case, found that two of Mrs. Dickieson's three children required special care for reasons of physical and mental health.

The welfare officer's report described the accused as "a good and dutiful mother to her children" and went on to state that "the removal of the mother would be detrimental to these children."

The accused was informed that certain conditions were attached to the suspended sentence. She must keep the peace and maintain good behaviour for the two year period and must refrain from outside employment and remain in her home to care for the special needs of her children, and she must make further restitution of $3,000 to the New Glasgow Dairy.
