The Country Child.

To develop the reason of the country child special attention ought therefore to be given to draw out his powers of observation, and particularly in his earliest years. Charles Dickens cultivated in his children this power by walking with them past a shop window, and then requiring each to write down a list of as many of the objects seen as they could remember.

The training of the eye undoubtedly gives more trouble to the teacher, but, on the other hand, it is far more captivating to the child than oral instruction. Kindergarten teaching is mainly based on an appeal to the child's eye, and its effects on the character are richly rewarding. It is unusual to find in an agricultural population what is called a "handy man," a man who is a bit of a carpenter, a bit of a mason, a bit of a locksmith, and resourceful in an emergency. It rarely occurs to a laborer to put tallow on a rusty hinge, to apply soap to a drawer that sticks or a drop of oil to a stiff lock. He does not observe that day after day a gate is coming to pieces when a nail in time would have made it last another year or two. - Nineteenth Century.

CHARLOTTETOWN Business College - AND - Writing Academy

Will re-open for the Fall and Winter Term ON AUGUST 29th.

(Let the Searchlight of Practical Illumination the dark places of Theory) A THOROUGHLY Progressive, Practical Institution, in which young men and women are not only taught bookkeeping (in all its applications to Commerce) both by single and double entry, but are trained how to do business by actual business transactions. The students act as buyers, sellers, traders, bankers, book-keepers and accountants in actual business operations, and the currency issued by the College Bank, and the merchandise from the Emporium are used in bona-fide business transactions, just the same as in mercantile and banking houses. Book-keeping in itself may be learned at home, but a knowledge of how to transact business cannot be thus acquired. That our course and system of training is entirely practical write for testimonials from business men and from students who are now holding lucrative and responsible positions.

SUBJECTS: Book-keeping by single and double entry (theoretical and practical) Actual Business Practice, Business Penmanship, Business Correspondence, Commercial Arithmetic, Commercial Law, Railroading, Steamboating, Banking, Insurance, and other practical subjects in the College Bank, Typewriting, Shorthand, and Navigation.

FACULTY: I. B. Miller, Principal, Teacher of Book-keeping, Arithmetic, Business Practice, Business Correspondence, Typewriting and Navigation. A. C. McMillan, Vice Principal, Teacher of Railroading, Steamboating, Banking, Accounting and Actual Business Practice. J. Harry Williams, teacher of Business Penmanship. Wm. Moran [licensed] Teacher of Shorthand. George S. Enman, Esq., [Law Firm McDonald & Inman] Lecturer on Commercial Law.

For circulars or full information write or apply to L. B. MILLER, Principal. All interested are cordially invited to call the College and inspect our system of training and work in general.
