Shaw Festival Players 'Greatly Encouraged'

Attendance at last night's Shaw Festival presentation of "Arms And The Man" presented a more encouraging picture for the festival's fate than that of Tuesday night. "The prevailing mood is one of optimism," said Lionel Dixon, producer and director, following the performance of last night's romantic comedy.

He stated that an original governor of the Stratford Festival attending the play found it "most entertaining" but "couldn't understand why there were not more people there".

Another encouraging note is the fact that one of Nova Scotia's leading travel agencies has made the festival the highlight of tours to this province scheduled to begin the first of August.

"Arms And The Man" concerns the story of a Bulgarian lady who hides a Swiss soldier in her bedroom and feeds him on chocolate creams while she is engaged to another man. Complications ensue when she falls in love with the soldier, and her fiance with a servant girl. The time is around the end of the 19th century.

Members of the cast are Patricia Leightizer as Raina Petkoff, the heroine, Janet Coffin as Catherine Petkoff, Peggy MacIntyre as Louka, Kenneth Doiron as Captain Bluutschli, Ronald Raynor as Major Plenchanoff, Foster Bent as Nicola, Douglas C. Wright as Major Petkoff, and Iain Wolfenden as Sergius Saranoff.

A number of Beta Sigma Phi sorority members attended in a body for the performance.

Hillsboro Bridge Being Dismantled

Yesterday morning the Murdoch MacEwen Company of New Glasgow, N.S. started removing the steel superstructure of the old Hillsboro Bridge.

Floated here in sections from the Miramichi River, N.B., the bridge was placed on its present site in 1900. At that time the bridge was considered unsuitable for the heavy traffic in that area.

No arrangements have been made as yet for the ancient stone piers, and it is entirely possible that they will be left standing as they are. However, if they are to be cut down it is believed federal regulations regarding navigable waters would mean they would have to be taken down to 10 feet below low water level.

But it is felt if they are left as they are there would be less danger to navigation of small craft than if too much of the base were left protruding.

In the early 1950's, the Canadian National Railway decided the bridge was no longer suitable or safe for rail traffic, and that meant the end of direct freight movement from the southern part of Kings County.

Passenger traffic also was ended, with the few people still using the line from Murray Harbour to the city ending their journey on the Southport side and being transported to the city by bus or contract taxi. The rails on the bridge were taken up and a new flooring laid to handle highway vehicular traffic.

Then in the mid '50's the federal department of transport announced its decision to abandon the bridge, and barricades were erected at each end to stop all traffic.

Residents of nearby Southport and Bunbury, only a couple of miles from Charlottetown, were forced to drive more than 30 miles to get here or back via Mt. Stewart. Traffic congestion was heavy and public irritation even heavier until it finally exploded in direct action.

The then Premier, A. W. Matheson, in shirt sleeves, led a 'charge' on the barricades. He was backed up by a big bulldozer from the nearby government garage. The barricades were cleared away and traffic went back to normal.

But the ancient structure was incapable of standing up to the pounding of heavily loaded trucks, and finally it had to be made a one-way 'street', with watchmen at each end to signal when traffic could move to or from the city.

NEW BRIDGE JOB

Then, several years ago, work was started on the new combined bridge and causeway. After a long period of frustration, as one minor disaster after another struck, the new Hillsborough Bridge was opened for traffic.

Now the old bridge is being demolished, and the contractor said yesterday it is planned to cut away one end of a span and have a barge under the other end to take the load when the other end is cut at high tide. The steel will then be floated to shore for disposal.

Mr. MacEwan has three workmen on the job with him, Robert Tracey, Hector MacKinnon and Merle Lamb. They are working from the south side of the structure and expect to finish the job within six months.

Youths Given Adjournment On Theft Of Goods Counts

James Joseph Peters and Deryk MacQuarrie, both of Charlottetown, pleaded not guilty to charges of the theft of goods valued less than $50, and both were given adjournments until July 27 by Magistrate James J. Johnston, QC, Queens County magistrate's court yesterday.

At that time a date will be set for hearing. Counsel for the defence is John P. Nicholson.

The case of George Bernard Conway, Charlottetown, charged with possession of liquor without a permit, was adjourned by consent of his attorney, Lester O'Donnell, until July 27, because the accused was not in court yesterday.

Colin Sedrick McInnis, Borden, who had previously pleaded 'not guilty' to a charge of failure to yield the right of way, changed his plea to 'guilty' and was fined $10 and costs or five days.

A man was fined $20 and costs or 30 days for possession of liquor in a place other than his residence.

Tour Of Memorial Slated For Council

Next Tuesday afternoon members of the City Council will be taken on a tour of the new Fathers of Confederation Memorial Building.

Following the first official visit by the city fathers, a meeting will be held with the Centennial Committee at which the role which the city will play in the 1964 Centennial will be discussed.

Accompanying the Council on its tour and explaining the building details will be Dr. Frank MacKinnon, of the Fathers of Confederation Memorial Foundation, and several members of the central committee of the Centennial planning group.

Assault Case Is Withdrawn

At the request of Gerald R. Foster, QC, attorney for the complainant, Arthur MacLeod, a charge of assault causing bodily harm was withdrawn against James Connolly, Charlottetown, by Magistrate A.J. Haslam in city police court yesterday.

Represented by Lester O'Donnell, the accused agreed to pay the costs.

Police Chief Sterns Webster asked that the charge of being drunk and disorderly be withdrawn from John Donald McCormack, Charlottetown. The request was granted by the magistrate and court costs must be paid by the informant.

A man convicted of possession of liquor in a place other than his residence was fined $20 and costs or 30 days.

Four out of five drunk and incapables were fined $20 and costs or 15 days, while the fifth was sentenced to 20 days in Queens County Jail.

ACCUSE PRIESTS

MOSCOW (AP) — Priests of the Russian Orthodox Church were accused Wednesday of christening children by proxy. Their parents feared to bring them to church. A spokesman for the Young Communist League (Komsomol) said a "godfather" comes to the church, tells the priest the name of the child and in return gets a cross and a certificate of baptism. Many Communists want their children baptized—they call it "double insurance" —but do not want to be caught going into a church.
