Jacques Cartier, played by Lt. Frank J. Zarecki engineering officer of HMCS Waterford raises his hand in friendship to the natives as he steps ashore holding the flag of France in his hand during the Jacques Cartier landing re-enactment at Killdare River near Alberton Saturday afternoon. It was part of the town's centennial celebrations. Left of him is Cartier's first lieutenant, played by Sub. Lt. Robert Price, also of HMCS

Eric Mac Indevan near the re-enactment held on the Killdare River Saturday. Many weeks of planning went into the historical recreation of the landing of the French explorer 430 years ago. The large crowd on hand testified to its success, as it formed a major part of Alberton's centennial celebrations. (See picture and story on pages 2 and 5.)

Commonwealth Heads Gagner For Meeting

LONDON (Reuters)—Leaders of 15 independent countries comprising the Commonwealth continued to arrive in London Sunday to prepare for a two-day survey of international affairs which begins Wednesday.

Well-informed sources said the ministers will discuss mainly the situation in troubled Indochina and Malaysia.

President Makarios of Cyprus and Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri are the only government leaders who do not plan to attend the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference, the first since 1962. Makarios, a Greek Orthodox archbishop, said he was too busy because of the tense situation on his island where Greek and Turkish-Cypriots are at odds. Shastri is resting after being ill.

Sources said the discussion on world affairs will be in the general context of East-West relations and will range over the political and economic problems of such areas as the Far East, Southeast Asia, Africa, the Middle East and Europe.

Bodies Found Of Missing Indian Pair

The bodies of two Indian youths who were reported missing about June 23 were found in the waters of the Hillbrook River over the weekend.

The body of 19-year-old John Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas, Southport, was found at 11 a.m. Saturday on the beach near Riverside Hospital. RCMP said death was due to drowning.

The body of 24-year-old Patrick Sylvain Paul of Southport was found Sunday at 12:30 p.m. near the Irving Oil tanks.

The remains were transferred yesterday afternoon from the Charlottetown Funeral Home to Lennox Island where Requiem High Mass will be celebrated for the two at St. Anne's Church, Lennox Island, at 10 o'clock today.

Coroner Dr. L.E. Prowse said there would be no autopsy or inquest.

A third person, 27-year-old Andrew Mitchell of Southport was reported missing at the same time as the other two but he turned up safely shortly after being reported missing.

Toronto Pair Face Charges

TORONTO (CP)—Allister Murray MacPherson, 33, and Charles MacPherson, 35, both of Toronto, have been charged with a capital murder in the slaying of 38-year-old Lawrence Bowman whose body was found in a New Toronto lumber yard Saturday.

MacPherson came to Toronto from Glace Bay, N.S., and MacPherson from New Waterford, N.S.

The two men are not related, police said.

Police said Bowman, whose body was found by two workmen when they noticed an arm protruding from a pile of lumber and building paper, was beaten to death. They said they believe the man was killed during a drunken brawl. Broken wine bottles were found near the body.

It was believed the man had been dead for about two days before his body was discovered

Prominent Businessman Dies At 57

Thirty-two years in Charlottetown had made Frank J. Hansen an islander when he died Saturday, but he had been other persons than that.

When he was born in 1907 in Copenhagen, Denmark, this well-known sportsman and businessman was a Dane.

Five years later his parents were bitten by the pioneering bug, and in 1912 they emigrated to the undeveloped country that was the West of Canada, in Lac du Bonnet, near Winnipeg; they began their homestead, and thus took a part in the tradition of the new Canada. Now he was a Canadian, and a pioneer.

Winnipeg was where Frank Hansen received his education and lived part of his early life. But in 1932, when depression hit the West, the young man packed his bags and moved again, this time to P.E.I., to join his sister Mary, who married an islander.

Here he lived for the rest of his life, gaining the reputation that has made him respected and liked among a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

An ardent sportsman, Frank Hansen had been several times provincial tennis champion. He (Continued on page 3, col. 3)

Goldwater Barkers Express Optimism

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Republican, led by supporters of Arizona Senator Barry Goldwater, streamed into this convention city Sunday, with their first goal an election platform on which all Republican party elements can stand.

Representative Melvin Luard of Wisconsin, the chairman of the platform committee, gets things rolling officially with a meeting tonight.

All week, his committee will be listening to testimony as a prelude to the party's convention here next week to nominate a man to contest November's U.S. presidential election.

There was a hint Sunday the platform might evolve into a fight over civil rights, an issue that long has plagued the Democrats.

The convention opens July 13 and the Republicans start choosing the man they hope can out Democrat Lyndon B. Johnson from the White House.

EFFORTS ARE IGNORED
Goldwater supporters are so sure they may win with the nomination on the first ballot that, publicly at least, they ignore the efforts of Governor William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania to consolidate the opposition.

They insist this is the biggest question the convention will face.

Who will be Goldwater's vice-presidential "runningmate"?

So far most of the talk here has revolved around Representative William E. Miller of New York, the Republican national chairman. Governor Mark Hatfield of Oregon, for example, has suggested a Goldwater-Miller ticket.

But traditionally presidential candidates don't disclose in advance whom they favor and Goldwater follows the pattern. For that matter, Miller isn't saying he would like the spot, but a friend of his observed Sunday:

MILLER AVAILABLE
"I notice Miller is making himself available for all interviews."

The strategy of Scranton supporters is to try to create divide in the platform hearings and come up with conclusions that Goldwater, or those around him, would balk at.

Since Goldwater is far ahead on delegates corralled, his efforts will be to give in where possible and avoid trouble.

Representative John J. Rhodes of Arizona, Goldwater's spokesman on the platform committee, indicated this Sunday during a television interview:

Rhodes said he thought Goldwater might go along with a plank that would call for generalizing states which deny votes to their citizens.

SUGGESTED BY SCRANTON
Such a plank has been suggested by Scranton.

This plank would call for strict observance of the 14th Constitutional Amendment which says that states denying voting rights to citizens would lose proportional representation in the U.S. House of Representatives.

Police Rout Rioting Youths As U.S. Celebrates July 4

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Police used clubs, dogs, tear gas, fire hoses or electric cattle prods to rout thousands of youths in riots at several places in the United States Saturday, as Americans celebrated the July 4 U.S. independence day.

The youths retaliated in some instances by hurling firebombs at the police officers, at least three of whom were injured by exploding cherry bombs. Other officers were hurt in scuffles with the mob.

Some youths were in all were arrested.

"There kids were like a keg of dynamite waiting for something to set them off," said an Ohio sheriff who helped disperse several thousand rioting youths at Indian Lake.

There also were riotous flings Saturday night near Newport, R.I., where the Newport Jazz Festival was in progress; at the Alameda County Fair in Pleasanton, Calif., and at an outdoor dance in Garrettsville, Ohio.

HEADED INTO PARK
At Garrettsville, where some 2,000 beer-drinking youths were headed into a city park following the dance floor riot, several were bitten by police dogs.

Police used tear gas, fire hoses, and clubs to disperse several thousand rioting youths at Indian Lake.

Nearly 100 youths were hauled off to jails after hurling rocks and other missiles at police who broke up the rioting party near Newport.

house doors, beach umbrellas and a life-guard stand were among the items that police said were tossed onto a huge bonfire.

The Newport outbreak was a repetition of one four years ago when hundreds of jazz festival fans rioted through most of one night. But the measures used then, including tear gas and fire hoses, were not needed Saturday.

Police said firefighters cleared within 30 minutes.

TEAR GAS USED
Tear gas was used at Indian Lake, a community near Bellefontaine, Ohio, where 5,000 to 10,000 beer-drinking college youths climaxed the holiday weekend with a second straight night of boisterous demonstrations. It was the fourth straight year for such incidents at the lake resort.

Sheriff Donald Horn said more than 50 persons were arrested at the lake in the two nights. One police officer suffered a heart attack.

The sheriff said firefighters thrown into the crowd, including several youths, probably was the major factor in triggering the Saturday disturbance.

Brush Fire In California Controlled

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Firemen conquered a swiftly-moving brush fire Sunday after battling it four days over foothills, canyons, mountains and grasslands.

It was southern California's major fire of 1964. It raced 20 miles, scorching 12,000 acres. A rifleman's bullet clipped a power line Thursday afternoon in the hills 40 miles north of Los Angeles, the line fell and sparks ignited the dry, brown brush.

Quebec Liberals Split With National Group

QUEBEC (CP)—At the urging of Premier Lesage and Justice Minister Guy Favreau, the Quebec Liberal Federation voted overwhelmingly Sunday to break formal ties with the Liberal Federation of Canada.

Of the 1,400 delegates attending a special meeting here, only five opposed the break in existing and seven abstained.

The resolution says the existing Liberal party organization in Quebec should devote itself to the provincial Liberal party. It would be up to the federal party to establish its own organization.

Each county organization, however, would be free to maintain a double allegiance if it wanted to do so.

Both the Quebec premier and the federal cabinet minister said they recommended separate federal and provincial party organizations in the name of co-operative federalism.

"The political reality of Quebec is asserting itself and is developing parallel to the political reality of Canada," Mr. Favreau said.

"The two do not exclude each other. They complete each other."

"But to complete themselves wholly and fruitfully, each must be sufficiently autonomous in expression and action to permit the party in power in Quebec and the party in power in Ottawa to exercise their respective jurisdictions and fulfill their respective responsibilities without
