Interview With MacArthur Called Fictional Nonsense

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maj.-Gen. Courtney Whitney has called a purported interview with the late Gen. Douglas MacArthur 10 years ago — unpublished until Wednesday — "fictional nonsense."

Whitney was a long - time friend and close associate of MacArthur and was at his bedside when he died last Sunday.

The interview was reported by Jim G. Lucas, military writer for Scripps - Howard newspapers.

Whitney's statement read:

"I have been shocked to read in the New York World Telegram of a purported exclusive interview given one of its correspondents by General MacArthur in 1954 which tended to impugn the character and military competence of such distinguished commanders as generals Maxwell D. Taylor, Matthew Ridgway and John E. Hull and the integrity of president Dwight D. Eisenhower, a life-long friend and comrade. The correspondent stated I was present. The report of the interview is fictional nonsense.

"The general never spoke in any but the highest terms of such officers both professionally and personally and held them all in the warmest affection. Indeed, the assignment of Gen. Ridgway to replace Gen. Walton Walker in command of the 8th Army upon the latter's untimely death in Korea was not only upon Gen. MacArthur's specific request but upon his insistence, and thereafter Gen. Ridgway's conduct of operations as 8th Army comander met the general's full unqualified satisfaction and approval.

"The general's comments regarding (president) Truman always were couched in terms of moderation and dignity and he never used the word 'bastard' in describing him or anyone else. It was one of those vulgarities which were just not in his vocabulary.

"The implication that the British government itself betrayed our forces in Korea is pure fantasy. The general always felt that any such betrayal stemmed from the machinations of the individual British traitors, Burgess and Maclean, while they held positions in the British government giving them access to information concerning our Korean plans and operations and contact with the Red Chinese."

Whitney's reference was to British foreign office officials—Donald D. Maclean and Guy Francis Burgess — who disappeared from Britain in May, 1951, and later turned up in Russia.

(Maclean was chief of the American section in the foreign office and hence had full knowledge of exchanges between Britain and the United States. Burgess had been attached earlier to the British embassy in Washington).

Centennial Chorale Gets Big Reception

KENSINGTON — A large audience attended the recent first performance of the Kensington Centennial Chorale, and showed appreciation of the singers efforts with enthusiastic applause.

The director, Rev. L.M. Murray, the organist Gordon Murray, and the 12 young women who form the chorale have perfected a gem in the entertainment world, and it is hoped that music lovers will have the opportunity to hear them before the Centennial year comes to a close.

Eric Jessome was in his usual form as master of ceremonies.

The girls made a charming picture in their white pleated skirts and red over-blouses, as they changed formation for each group of songs.

Called upon by Mr. Jessome to say a few words, Mr. Murray told something of the beginning of the chorale, which was sparked by a suggestion made by William Hayward at a Board of Trade meeting in Kensington, as he was speaking on Centennial planning.

After much consideration, 12 young women, all members or former members of the Kensington United Church Junior Choir, were selected and practice was started on June 28, 1963.

Mr. Murray took the opportunity to thank "the many people behind the scenes" who had helped with details, and Mr. Jessome for his experienced advice and help in putting the chorale on stage.

THIS WEEK AT SDU

Students Rejoice Over Win To Take City Hockey Title

By CHARLEY McMILLAN

The St. Dunstan's Jayvees copped the City Junior League title Thursday night with a 7-5 overtime win against the Charlottetown Legionaires. It was one of the best games of the playoffs, with very few penalties assessed, yet the play was fast and even. There were several interesting points about the Saints' win, chief among them being their new goalie, Bob "Chummy" Beaudoin. Their regular goaltender, George Power, a key factor in the Saints' cause all year, injured his knee in the game played last Sunday and "Chummy" had to fill in. Another aspect about the game was the way in which the Saints came from behind on three occasions before winning the game in overtime. After twice blowing a one-goal lead, they fell behind three times, yet they were strong enough to tie the score before winning in the extra session.

The title is really an anti-climax to what has been a long, hard grind in the League playoffs. There was the protest game with North River, the fiasco last week, concerning the eligibility of three SDU Varsity players with the Legion, and a various assortment of little things throughout the season. However, it is easy to sit back and chastise without offering any solution to a difficult problem. The League executive did not have time to define many things in black and white, so naturally there were some misgivings.

The final series with the Legion produced some excellent hockey all around. Players on both teams gave some standout performances — Billy Weatherbie and Carl McQuaid of the Legion, and Arthur LeClair aud Andre Gellnas of the Saints' toe examples, as well as an all-out team effort. To Father Cheverie and Coach Billy MacMillan, congratulations for a job well done.

BLOOD CLINIC DOWN

Winston Cannon, SDU chairman of the Blood Donor drive, reports that the school average for the clinic was only 50 per cent. The Senior class had the best average with 68 per cent registering, followed by the Sophomores with 56 per cent. Winston attributes the low average to the large number of day students who failed to attend the clinics at the college and the one in town. The College was about 50 pints short of the objective of 225.

The St. Dunstan's Players presented the award winning production of "The Tempest" last Sunday and Monday nights. Both shows were well attended, although the first had a much bigger crowd. All things considered, the play was considered to be very well done, although the diction at the beginning of both shows left something to be desired. Director Adrian Arsenault was very pleased with the performances, and realized that the two week layoff diminished the show a little.

A new slate of officers was elected this week for the two political parties at St. Dunstan's. On Wednesday, the Progressive Conservative Club elected Philip MacDonald as president. A Freshman student from Kensington, Phil succeeds Bill Phalen, who became vice-president. The next day, the Liberals chose Ronnie Gallant as president, Mary MacCardle as vice-president, and Dave Mutally as Secretary-Treasurer. These political clubs are formed in conjunction with their respective parties, and serve as a medium in which interested students can learn a little extra about the art of politics, and the way in which our country is run.

STUDENT-FACULTY MEET

The first meeting of the student-faculty committee was held on Wednesday. This committee came into being only recently, and is of value for the following purposes: 1. to provide a means of student-faculty liason on matters of joint concern; 2. to interpret to responsible representatives of the student body, faculty opinion, and any rulings or policies made by the faculty; 3. to help the faculty learn of student opinion on such matters that would be helpful in evaluating practical effects of student action. At the first meeting, the committee chose Father Regis Duffy as chairman, and outlined tentative operations for the immediate future.

The Class of '64 had its graduation banquet Wednesday night at the Basilica Recreation Centre. This banquet is a part of the Alumni Association's work, and started last year. Attending the affair on behalf of the Alumni were Father Wendell P. MacIntyre, who spoke a few words, and Mr. Arthur MacInnis. Colin McMillan, class valedictorian, acted as chairman.

Incidently, the other members of the permanent Senior Executive are: John Dunphy, St. Joan, N.B., president; Foster Burke, Charlottetown, vice-president; and Noreen Cameron, Summerside, Secretary. The two honorary committee members chosen were Paul D. Foster and Ann Callaghan.

The second annual Open House will be staged on the 19. of this month. Under the supervision of Father Charles Cheverie, Open House is a day at St. Dunstan's set aside to display to the high school students of the Island just what the college has to offer, and to give a demonstration of all phases of student activity, both academic and extra-curricular. Invitations have been sent out to all the Island high schools to have as many students as possible attend this function. Its main purpose is to give the incoming high school graduates a thorough understanding of universities, and to encourage them to attain a higher education.

HIGH SCHOOL WIN

Congratulations are in order to the St. Dunstan's High School for its recent achievements in Island Interscholastic competition. After a poor season in the regular scheduled games, the High School came through with a basketball and hockey championship to add to their football title, thus making a clean sweep in the three sports. Often taken with a grain of salt on the campus, nevertheless the High School plays an integral part in the activities here at SDU. A special note of merit goes to hockey coach Jim Cullen, who took over the reins from Vince Mulligan this year. The same goes to fellow Freshman Art Strang who started coaching for the first time this year, yet came through with all the marbles.

A delightful show was staged Wednesday night in conjunction with the Foreign student society. Miss Anita Funga, a native of Kowloon, Hong Kong, presented a movie on exotic dance routines, followed by a stage performance.
